RAYMOND REPLIES TO BAILEY CHARGE

Cites Proof in Chandler's Handwriting Texas Senator Was Suspected of Treachery to the Rate Bill.

OBJECT OF GENERAL TALK

Insists on Amendment Favored by Railroads Even After Democratic Caucus Rejects It.

SENATOR BAILEY'S CHARGES.

Caused to be read in the senate article telegraphed to "Chicago Tribune" by "Raymond," to effect that Senator Bailey was in conference with Senator Aldrich for purpose of defeating the rate bill; that Former Senator Chandler had stated that Senator Tillman was suspicious of Senator Bailey.

Declared that he had never conferred with the president directly, nor through Mr. Chandler.

Denounced the article as an unqualified, deliberate, and malicious lie.

Denounced "Raymond" as an unqualified, deliberate, and malicious liar.

Denounced the man who inspired the statement as an unqualified, deliberate, and malicious liar, whoever he may be and however high the office he holds.

Declared that "this slander" proceeds from the White house, but hoped for honor of the country that it did not proceed from president himself.

ANSWER BY RAYMOND.

Washington, D. C., May 16.—[Special.]—When Joseph W. Bailey, senator from Texas, struck at the president of the United States over my humble shoulders, for that is all he did on the floor of the senate today, he was apparently unaware that there was documentary evidence in existence, both in the official Congressional Record and in the form of a written memorandum by former Senator William E. Chandler, absolutely proving that he was an object of suspicion to the real friends of the president's railroad policy.

This is not to say that Mr. Bailey deserved the suspicion, but that his motives and his acts in the democratic conferences, in the democratic caucus, on the floor of the senate, and in the conference between Senator Tillman and Attorney General Moody, and through ex-Senator Chandler with the president, gave rise to the suspicion that he was not true to the principle of railroad rate regulation, is clear from the Record itself and cannot be successfully denied.

Suspicion Did Exist.

Mr. Bailey may be as innocent as a babe unborn, and he says he is, but the suspicions did exist, they have existed for weeks, they have been talked of in the cloakroom of the senate, on the streets, at the White house, and elsewhere. They have been mentioned in many newspapers, and if they have not been justified Mr. Bailey is unfortunate and his character should be relieved from aspersion.

First of all, let me quote William E. Chandler, formerly a senator from New Hampshire, now the president of the Spanish claims commission, he, and his personal friend, Senator Tillman. He was the intermediary between Senator Tillman and the president. Whichever of the two originated the negotiations, Mr. Chandler certainly conducted them. It was his evidence which has twice been cited by Mr. Tillman on the floor of the senate, and it is Mr. Chandler who, in effect, has given the lie direct to the president.

On Chandler's Authority.

In the dispatch sent by me Monday night to THE TRIBUNE, which aroused such a tempest in the senate this afternoon, and which provoked Senator Bailey to declare it to be a malicious lie and to insinuate that it was directly inspired by the president himself, I stated the facts on the authority of Mr. Chandler himself. It was he who conveyed to the White house the intimation that Senator Bailey was a traitor, and if the Texas senator has any one to blame it must be Senator Tillman's friend, William E. Chandler.

What Chandler Wrote.

In the outset of the negotiations he was conducting Mr. Chandler prepared and left at the White house a written memorandum for the benefit of the president. I have not the text of that memorandum before me, but am quoting from memory. It says:

"The railroad senators want the Bailey amendment, but Tillman is for the president's court review amendment, and will block their game."

This is nearly a literal quotation, but no one could have the text, probably, without permission of the president. The dispatch I sent to THE TRIBUNE was telegraphed on my own authority, and without the knowledge or consent of the president, against whom Senator Bailey trained his batteries today, and not against me.

I have not seen the president since the speech was written, and I have not asked him for the text of this memorandum written by William E. Chandler, because the text could at best add only a few words to the quotation I have given.

I know I am correct in the statement that during the course of the negotiation this same William E. Chandler, who has since accused the president of falsehood, made an oral report either to the president himself or to some one representing him, which was much more specific. This conversation was subsequent to the writing of the memorandum I have quoted.

Bailey and Standard Oil.

During this talk Mr. Chandler, in explaining the difficulties in securing united action by the democrats, stated in so many words that he and Senator Tillman were suspicious

RAILWAY SCANDAL; IS CASSATT TO QUIT?

Startling Disclosures of Acts of Pennsylvania Railway Official May Force President to Resign.

HIS OWN SON INVOLVED.

Favored Coal Companies by "Presents"; Secure Cars When Rival Shippers Cannot Get Them.

Philadelphia, Pa., May 16.—[Special.]—The startling disclosures in the railroad coal investigation today may determine Alexander J. Cassatt to resign the presidency of the Pennsylvania railroad company.

The revelations made to the interstate commerce commission today showed that President Cassatt's son, his assistant, and several officials on the executive staff of the Pennsylvania had accepted cash and gifts of stock from coal companies and that these companies in consequence were given cars when rival shippers could not get them.

Deceived by Subordinates.

"It is said that before leaving for Europe last week Mr. Cassatt told some of his closest personal friends that he has been grossly deceived by his subordinate officers of the Pennsylvania railroad concerning the actual facts and conditions in the management of the company.

"These intimate friends were assured by Mr. Cassatt that he had relied upon statements made to him which in the light of recent developments have proved false.

"According to the reports Mr. Cassatt will retain his position until the investigation is concluded, so that no one may say that he retired under fire."

The belief is becoming general, too, that the scandals revealed by the railroad-coal investigation will so smirch the reputations of several railroad officials as to force them to relinquish their present positions. Those who now stand in the worst light include several transportation and traffic officers, both of the Pennsylvania and Baltimore and Ohio railroads.

Accepted Gift of $5,000.

The disclosures before the interstate commerce commission amazed even the staid members of that tribunal.

John M. Jamison, president of the Jamison Coal and Coke company, of Greensburg, Pa., one of the largest bituminous operators in Pennsylvania, testified frankly he had sent a check for $5,000 to Robert E. Pitcairn, assistant to President Cassatt, to secure his influence in getting transportation favors for his coal company.

Mr. Jamison added that his company had given stock to other Pennsylvania railroad officials as follows:

Edward Pitcairn, trainmaster Pittsburg division, 200 shares of Jamison stock, value $10,000.

R. L. O'Donnell, now superintendent of the Buffalo-Allegheny division, 200 shares, value $10,000.

George W. Clarke, car distributer, 100 shares, value $5,000.

A clerk named De Boyer, in the office of Supt. Gibbs, in charge of motor power, 200 shares, value $10,000.

Cassatt's Son Involved.

But even more valuable, as a means by which the coal companies could get advantages which gave them opportunities for freezing out competitors, it was testified, were family ties. This factor in the alleged discriminations practiced by the Pennsylvania railroad was most forcibly brought out by Attorney Glasgow in his examination of Robert K. Cassatt, son of President Cassatt. It was shown that when the Keystone Coal and Coke company, of which young Cassatt is president, found it had been placed upon a basis of equality with the other independent companies, it kept its share of the business by a most radical step. This was the creation of a new railroad district by the Pennsylvania, which included the Keystone company's mines and a reduction in the freight rate from this new territory to such a figure that young Cassatt's company was able to sell coal cheaper than its rivals.

It also was shown that at a time when every mineowner was appealing for cars the Pennsylvania railroad deliberately turned over 500 cars to young Cassatt's company.

Owns Stock in Seven Companies.

One man who seems to be a particular favorite of fortune as far as receiving coal mining stock is concerned is George W. Creighton, general superintendent of the Altoona division of the Pennsylvania. Among the companies in which Creighton admitted that he holds stock which had been presented to him are the following: Mitchell, Watson & Co., 667 shares, Cochran coal company, 250 shares; Cabot Creek Coal company, 50 shares; Commercial Coal company, 33 shares; Big Bend Coal company, 17 shares; Monterey Coal company, 40 shares. In addition he holds 200 shares of the Saltsburg Coal company stock, which he purchased, according to his statement, at half par value.

George W. Clark, car distributor, testified that he received checks from Alfred Hicks in the latter part of 1902, but he didn't know what they were for. They were for $50 apiece, and he cashed them. He also admitted he had received presents of wines and cigars. He said he owned $5,000 worth of coal stock, but could not recall how he got it.

THROWS MASHER FROM CAR AFTER A HARD STRUGGLE.

Conductor Peterson of the Chicago Avenue Line Protects a Young Woman Passenger from Annoyance.

While passengers were cheering him Albert Peterson, a conductor on the Chicago avenue electric line, last night fought with a masher who had been annoying a young woman on the front platform. Peterson finally overcame his opponent and threw him to the ground.

The masher quickly regained his feet and fled when passengers said the police were coming. Two policemen searched for him, but he could not be found.

Peterson's attention was attracted when the young woman spoke sharply to the man as he endeavored to put his arm about her waist.

"I remonstrated with the man, but he only laughed and defied me," said Peterson. "He put his hand in his pocket, and I thought he was going to draw a weapon. Then I threw him off."

The girl went away without giving her name.

OFFERS $2,000 FOR DECISION.

Insurance Commissioner of Wisconsin Tells of Attempted Bribe.

SECRETARY OF STATE NAMED

Says He Was Offered Cash to Decide Case for the Equitable.

Milwaukee, Wis., May 16.—[Special.]—State Insurance Commissioner Host today accused Secretary of State Walter L. Houser of being the intermediary of the Equitable Life Assurance society in an effort to obtain a decision favorable to the company in return for a $2,000 contribution to a campaign fund for the renomination of state officers.

Commissioner Host sprung this sensation during his testimony before the special insurance investigating committee of the Wisconsin legislature. The commissioner testified that on June 16, 1903, the day on which the hearing in the case of the state of Wisconsin against the Equitable Life Assurance society for a compulsory distribution of the surplus of that company to Wisconsin policy holders were to be held by him, Secretary Houser entered his office and said that if Mr. Host would render a decision in accordance with a slip handed by Mr. Houser to Mr. Host, which would have been a decision favorable to the Equitable company, the Equitable Life Assurance society would give $2,000 toward a campaign fund for a renomination of the state officers in the next campaign.

Reads Prearranged Decision.

This slip, which Secretary Houser handed to him, was presented to the commission by Mr. Host. It reads:

"Petition is denied and same is dismissed for the reason that a determination of the subject thereof requires the exercise of judicial function that cannot be exercised by the defendant. It is further announced as a rule of this department that no similar proceedings be entertained until a final adjudication of the same is had in the courts of the state."

Mr. Host testified he told Mr. Houser that he would think the matter over. His decision was against the Equitable Life Assurance society, which afterward took the case into the courts and there obtained a rule adverse to Mr. Host's order for a compulsory distribution of the surplus on deferred dividend policies at least once in five years.

Commissioner Host further testified that Robert Luscombe, a lobbyist, who has for years represented eastern insurance companies before various legislatures, telephoned to him three times from Chicago between June 16 and July 31, 1903, the latter having been the day on which Mr. Host rendered his decision, and asked Mr. Host to come to Chicago, saying he thought he had an argument which would convince Mr. Host that the statute in question was not compulsory.

Houser Admits Handing Slip.

Secretary of State Houser took the stand in his own defense and admitted that he and Luscombe were friends, and declared that Luscombe had handed him the written slip of paper which he had handed to Mr. Host and requested that he give it to the insurance commissioner. Mr. Houser, however, emphatically denied that any mention was made of a campaign fund contribution at the time of his handing the slip of paper on which the Equitable decision was written to the insurance commissioner.

Mr. Houser admitted that he had asked Mr. Host to request contributions from insurance companies for a political campaign fund against Congressman Joseph W. Babcock in the Third Wisconsin district, and said Mr. Host had not taken unkindly to the suggestion, but said he would think the matter over. This suggestion in regard to the Babcock campaign fund was, however, not made at the time of the handing of the slip in regard to the Equitable decision.

He declared he could not identify the slip offered in evidence, and that he was not acquainted with its contents.

Mr. Houser charged that politics was at the bottom of the charges at this time.

Declined to Solicit Funds.

In rebuttal, after Mr. Houser's testimony, Insurance Commissioner Host declared Mr. Houser never had approached him in regard to obtaining insurance campaign funds against Mr. Babcock. Once, Mr. Host said, some one around the capitol—he could not say whom—asked if contributions to the campaign funds could not be obtained from the insurance companies, and that he promptly had said he would not be a party to any such requests for funds.

Frank Bryant, a clerk in the office of the insurance commissioner, testified that on June 16, 1903, he entered the office of Mr. Host just as Secretary Houser was leaving and that Mr. Houser appeared much excited. Upon entering the office he said Mr. Host showed him the Equitable slip introduced in evidence and told him of the offer which the secretary of state had made.

MUST REBUILD ITS TUNNELS FOR GIANT LOCOMOTIVES.

Monsters Bought by Baltimore and Ohio Can Be Used Only After Bores Are Enlarged and Bridges Strengthened.

Having bought a lot of extra large passenger and freight locomotives, the Baltimore and Ohio railroad officials do not know what to do with them. They cannot be used until the tunnels on the road are enlarged and the bridges strengthened. This work will cost $1,000,000 and will take several years.

The new giants of the road, 250 in number, were delivered to the company a week ago. It was planned to distribute them over the system. They were to haul through freight and passenger trains and to effect a considerable economy in the movement of traffic. But before the locomotives were started out on their work Chief Engineer D. D. Carothers began an investigation.

All along the eastern lines he found tunnels that the engines could not go through. On the Wheeling branch the giants stood a good chance to get stuck every few miles. Then, on other divisions, the bridges were not strong enough.

If some divisions can be found where the monsters can travel safely they will spend their lives there until the remainder of the system is prepared for them.

DAY HOT; THREE BOYS DROWN

Two Lose Their Lives While Rowing in Ogden Park Lagoon.

ONE SINKS IN CLAYHOLE.

Part of Boating Party Rescued by Bystanders Throwing Rope.

The lives of three young Chicago boys were sacrificed yesterday to the joy of swimming and boating in the heat of an unprecedented May afternoon.

Two of them were tipped out of a rocking boat in the lagoon in Ogden park in the western part of Englewood. This accident spread sorrow throughout an entire district which had been rejoicing in the presence of a new neighborhood breathing spot.

One boy, a pupil in the Morgan Park High school, lost his life while swimming in an abandoned clay pit in that suburb.

The Dead.

CAPPS, FRANK, 18 years old, 109th street and Western avenue, Morgan Park; drowned while swimming in abandoned clay hole.

JOY, EDWARD, 19 years old, 6908 Marshfield avenue; drowned in Ogden park; body not yet recovered.

WISE, LOUIS, 18 years old, 6800 Hermitage avenue; drowned in Ogden park.

Boat Upset in Deep Water.

The Englewood boys, in company with James Wise, 16 years old, 6800 Hermitage avenue, and Leonard Keller, 22 years old, 6438 Bishop street, took a boat in the Ogden park lagoon, which is four blocks long and 150 to 200 feet wide, and rowed about from 3 until 5 o'clock. Then they grew restless and began tipping the boat, with the result that all four were spilled in eighteen feet of water. The younger boy and Keller were pulled ashore, but the other pair sank. The body of one was recovered later. John McLean, 6450 Loomis street, and his son John were responsible for the saving of the two. They cast out a rope and pulled them to the shore. Keller was barely able to grasp the rope and was exhausted when he was dragged out.

Keller and Wise later denied that the accident was caused by rocking the boat. They said the boat was leaky and that once during the afternoon they rowed to the landing and tried to change it, but were not permitted to do so.

The little park was crowded with women and children. Many women were frantic at the sight of the drowning boys.

Former Accident on Lagoon.

Two weeks ago five boys narrowly escaped death when their rowboat collided with a steam launch in the same lagoon.

The former narrow escape and the fatal accident of yesterday aroused the citizens, who are demanding bridges a square apart across this lagoon. Now it is necessary to walk a considerable distance to go from the pavilion and music house on the east side to the grass plots and shade trees on the west.

John A. Anderson, 6010 Laflin street, and James Stephenson, 6453 Bishop street, will discuss this need with the south park board.

Swimmer Seized with Cramps.

Young Capps was drowned in Morgan Park in sight of several fellow students. He was in his senior year and would have graduated in a few weeks. He went, with other young men, to the clay hole in the Wahl Bros.' brick yard to swim. Part of the pit, which is more than a block long, is thirty feet deep. Capps was seized with cramps and sank before his companions could reach him. He is the son of J. F. Capps, a railroad man, who was killed in a train wreck near Kansas City, Mo., last November.

CLEARS NAME OF DEAD POLICEMAN

James Hanratty Confesses to Robbing Matthew Mamer's Jewelry Store Last August.

PATROLMAN WAS ACCUSED

Unable to Prove Innocence, He Committed Suicide After Shooting Accusers, One Fatally.

The reputation of a Chicago policeman who preferred death to taint of dishonor was cleared and a mystery of nearly a year was solved last evening. These results were reached when a confession was obtained from James Hanratty, 27 years old, arrested on suspicion of having committed several burglaries.

The policeman who is given tardy justice was Oscar Benson of the West Lake street station. Benson committed suicide last August after he was accused of having stolen three watches from the jewelry store of Mathew Mamer, 140 Harrison street, a brother of Supreme Court Clerk Christopher Mamer. Before ending his life Benson killed Mamer and wounded Nicholas Kittin, an old man who lived with Mamer.

Hanratty, who lives at Twelfth and Robey streets, was arrested in the afternoon in Harrison street, near Halsted. Lieut. Larkin long had regarded him with suspicion. The lieutenant had tried to connect him with the Mamer robbery at the time of the tragedy but had failed.

Hanratty Is Brought In.

Learning, therefore, that he was in the district and was loitering in the streets, apparently idle, he concluded to have Hanratty brought in. Larkin wanted to have a talk with the man, hoping to beguile something from him.

As he was not accused formally of any offense, Hanratty put up a bold front at first. He would admit nothing of an incriminating nature and had little to say. The policeman was persistent. He began with Hanratty's birth in Chicago and traced his life year by year. They came down to recent time and at length to last August. Lieut. Larkin's questions became more searching and exact.

He said he believed Hanratty was in the neighborhood of Mamer's store on the night it was robbed and demanded an explanation of his actions. Apparently believing the lieutenant had knowledge of the facts, the man weakened, made admissions, and at length, throwing away all reserve, told the story in full.

Tells Story of Robbery.

"With two companions named Casey and O'Day," he said, "I was sitting on the walk opposite Mamer's store. We saw the two old men there in the room alone. We saw they were easy. There was not much to protect them. We were out of work. In fact, none of us had any trade that would bring in a good living. You know the rest; of course, we were out of money.

"After a little the two men went to the rear room in the jewelry store, leaving the stock still more exposed. It was too easy. We could not resist. The other fellows walked away a short distance and I crossed to the store. Opening the door gently I tiptoed in and reached to the rack on which the watches left for repair were hanging. I took three. In the rear of the store I still could get a glimpse of the men, and could hear their low conversation. But they did not know I was taking the watches, and I got away without disturbing them.

Dividing Up the Spoils.

"I walked rapidly to Green and West Harrison streets with the watches, and Casey and O'Day joined me. We divided up the spoils, each taking one timepiece. Casey did not like his, saying it was of little value and not worth taking to a pawnshop. He threw it on the pavement and smashed it. O'Day sold his later to a stranger for 50 cents. I kept mine—it was the best, as it should have been—and finally sold it for the gold. The case was of solid gold and I got $4."

Hanratty told this without any promise of immunity. He talked freely and never hesitated for facts. When Lieut. Larkin reminded him that Benson had killed himself because he was accused of the robbery Hanratty said:

"Now I wish I had confessed before Benson killed himself. But then he was not accused publicly of the robbery, and I had no way of knowing that it was to cause his death. After he was dead I saw no reason for implicating myself. That would not bring back Benson and would only harm me.

"I have felt a load on my mind ever since. Maybe you won't believe this, but it is so, and now I am glad I have told you the truth."

Accusation Against Benson.

Benson was stationed at Harrison and Clinton streets during the teamsters' strike. There were large stables in the district to guard and the task was not a pleasant one. During his lunch hour he went often into Mamer's store to talk with the proprietor and Kittin. It was a change from the turmoil of the street.

At this time Mamer began to make complaints to the police that he had been robbed by sneak thieves. Then came the disappearance of the three watches. Kittin promptly came forward to say he had seen Benson creep into the store and take the timepieces from the rack. Mamer believed his old companion without question and hastened to Inspector Wheeler's office and demanded that Benson be arrested.

Inspector Doubts the Charge.

The inspector doubted the charge and suggested that time be taken for a deliberate investigation. Benson bore an excellent reputation and his superior did not believe the accusation. But Mamer persisted. Kittin was there to back him up and the inspector yielded to the extent of calling Benson before him.

Benson, in amazement, protested his innocence. Lieut. Meagher spoke for more time and Benson asked for three days. This was granted. On the evening of the third day the accused patrolman went to the jewelry store. He shot Kittin and Mamer and then sent a bullet crashing through his right temple.

In his pocket was a pathetic note to his wife, pleading for her consideration. On it was penciled an appeal to his children to be honest—even as their father had been.

DENEEN WILL SIGN NEW PRIMARY ACT

Shurtleff Measure Passed by Legislature; Adjournment Sine Die Follows.

SHERMAN ASSAILS BILL.

Calls It "Monstrosity Conceived in Refrigerator and Born in Frost."

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Springfield, Ill., May 16.—[Special.]—The Shurtleff primary bill now lacks only Gov. Deneen's signature to be a law, and the special session of the legislature is adjourned sine die.

For thirty-seven days, and at an expense to the state of approximately $60,000, the legislators wrestled with primary law problems and they have passed four bills—the Shurtleff act for convention nominations, an appropriation of $45,000 for the governor, and two bills aggregating $64,500 for their own expenses.

The result, if the estimate of Gov. Deneen, Speaker Shurtleff, and other republican leaders may be taken as a guide, is a fairly good primary election law—the best that could be obtained at the present time, and one that stands comparison with this year's failures in Iowa, Pennsylvania, Ohio, and other states which have attempted to secure a law and have not succeeded in getting it through the legislative bodies.

Sherman Assails Measure.

The result, if the words of Lieut. Gov. Sherman are to be accepted as proper criticism, is a "double headed monstrosity—conceived in a refrigerator and born in a frost"—a bill which is like "a gayly ornamented signboard in front of a store with few goods on the shelves behind and many of these badly plated."

There are two varying points of view. The democrats and a few republicans agree with Sherman. The latter gave himself the floor of the senate and for about fifteen minutes this morning read the members of that august body the most original curtain lecture which they ever had received from a presiding officer. If there were any mean things which Mr. Sherman did not say to them it was because he could not think of them at the time, and he did his best.

Gov. Deneen has not signed the bill yet, but will, although it may not get his signature until as late as Monday. He and Attorney General Stead went over it carefully this afternoon and are to have further conferences over it. Both houses of the legislature held their last sessions tonight and adjourned at 9 o'clock "without day," winding up the affairs of the special session with the proper ceremonies.

Comerford's Victim Absent.

In the house an adjournment was taken, with Representative Frank Comerford still demanding recognition on a point of order. Trautmann of St. Clair, Comerford's original point of attack, made it convenient or necessary to remain away from the house this week, and the report of the conference committee, which carried the bill in the last stages of parliamentary action, did not have his vote. Comerford interpreted this as a victory for his efforts to unseat the St. Clair man, and thereupon went after all the other legislators who have other jobs, including Williams and Beebe of the sanitary district legal department.

The last whack of Shurtleff's gavel cut in two one of Comerford's shouts for recognition, and his case did not get into court, although he himself came nearly being quieted forcibly by the sergeant at arms.

Shurtleff had the gavel for the first time since the active fighting over his bill forced him to give it up to Shanahan and himself take a place on the floor. That the passage of the bill was in some sense a personal achievement of the speaker was recognized in the applause which was given him from both sides of the house as he took his place at the speaker's desk.

House Vote 77 to 60.

In the house the conference committee report was adopted by a bare majority of 77 votes, Alonzo E. Wilson, the prohibition member from Du Page county, and chairman of the prohibition state central committee, coming to its support when it hung in the balance and needing one additional vote, making the result 77 to 60.

In the senate it went through with greater ease, getting a vote of 31 to 14, and incidentally drawing fire from Mr. Sherman.

The act puts all state conventions on the same day, making it physically impossible for more than one to be held in Springfield. Secretary Dennis Hogan and other members of the democratic state central committee got into action as soon as the bill was passed and put in their request for the use of the state arsenal—the only available place for holding a state convention in Springfield.

Adjt. Gen. Scott, in charge of the building, knew nothing of the provisions of the act requiring all state conventions to be held on the same day, but when Gov. Deneen heard of this democratic move he asked Mr. Hogan to visit him and convinced him that the arsenal would be in demand for the republican convention. Mr. Hogan, from all accounts, admitted that the governor's words contained much truth and force, and the democrats withdrew their claim.

Convention Date Aug. 21.

The date for the convention, as fixed by law, is Aug. 21. The republican will be held in Springfield. The democrats now are considering East St. Louis, Peoria, and Chicago. The date of the primaries, as fixed by law, is Aug. 4, only for this year.

Other dates fixed by law for this year are:

Aug. 9—All county conventions.
Aug. 14—All senatorial conventions.
Aug. 16—All congressional conventions.
Aug. 21—All state conventions.

Hereafter all primaries will be held the last Saturday in April, with county conventions on the Thursday following; all senatorial conventions on the second Tuesday; all congressional conventions on the second Thursday; and all state conventions on the third Tuesday.

With these dates fixed, the candidates who were forced to stop campaigning by the uncertain conditions created by the Supreme court decision, April 5, knocking out the old primary law, will return to work and carry it through the summer.

Out of this primary law making Chicago emerges with its old primary law effective for city nominations.

Mr. Sherman's few brief remarks had been expected and anticipated by many of his acquaintances in and out of the legislature who knew that he was harboring unkind thoughts and sentiments towards the Shurtleff bill and that he was looking for a proper occasion which would alow him to put them in words.

Mr. Sherman leads a philosophic existence in Springfield, partly in contemplation of his own enforced inactivity as presiding officer of a body which doesn't need a president, partly in contemplation of the misdeeds of others, partly in reading books with torn backs and faded ink, and partly in searching for new restaurants and eating places, where he can be guaranteed that no frills of social conventions will intrude themselves upon his repast.

For a while it had been supposed that his disposition was sunny and comfortable, owing to the fact, as he expressed it, that the "garden sass" had come in and victuals had some new life in them. Whatever effect the "garden sass" may have had was only temporary, and Mr. Sherman began to contemplate with more and more moroseness the misdeeds of the legislature, until finally this moroseness demanded expression.

"The chair embraces this opportunity to square itself," he said, slowly, and each individual senator sat up in his seat and took unto himself an expectant look. "It is the first opportunity I have had," he continued, "and I am not prepared to go before the largest jury represented by the people of this state without a single word of protest against this bill, which, with this vote, passes into law. I shall not do so.

"This bill was not passed by the voluntary action of this senate, neither is it of the house. It is passed by undue means here, by bargaining back and forth. I do not wish to be understood that outside influences have dictated—I do not mean that—but there has been undue bargaining and surrender of principle.

Primaries Not for Decent Men.

"Primaries are not made for the decent men in politics. They are not made for men who obey the moral instructions of their constituents. No more are they so made than the laws against burglars and pickpockets are put in the criminal code for law abiding men. But primaries are made for those who do what is morally wrong in the settlement of party disputes. An overwhelming majority of the people in the ranks of the party are decent—and the great majority of the counties are decent—if people are permitted to manage themselves properly. But in the particular cases to be covered by law, where compulsory features are required, it is indispensable that there be some provision that will bind those having the nominating power in accordance with the vote of the people that name delegates to do otherwise.

"On the county ticket that is impossible. On state, congressional, and senatorial tickets it may be done—but only through agency of delegates, and then only when delegates are selected by districts, and you must carry a majority of the districts before you get the nomination. All that it is necessary to do to produce no result is to multiply the number of candidates. When that is done there is simply a premium put upon deadlocked conventions, and thus the last condition is worse than the first.

"But I am talking here against deaf ears. It has been my fortune generally to be with the minority, and I would rather forever be with the minority than to surrender to such a humiliating, double ended monstrosity as this bill. I have some respect for the democrats, a mere handful as they are, in this senate. I have some respect for them for standing up against this bill. I regard this bill as simply a surrender of political principle to expediency.

"This bill, if you will read it through its sixty-three sections, is nothing but a large, gayly ornamented signboard, with few goods on the shelves behind, and many of these badly plated. I regard it as an unworthy attempt to legislate and still do nothing, and it is the most conspicuous example in either legislation or physics of a great and painful motion without an inch of progress.

"Examining this bill in the light of remarks of senators, both here and privately, I would stigmatize it as a bill conceived in a refrigerator and born in a frost. With these lingering words, knowing full well what they mean to my party—knowing that they mean banishment from table and divorce from bed and board—I prefer expression of this opinion on this unhallowed work now for the purpose of 'squaring myself with my constituents,' as other gentlemen have done. I would rather be a live politician at home than a dead one in Springfield. Politicians can put a man in a ditch, but they can't get him out."

Democrats in Protest.

During the time that Mr. Sherman was expounding these doctrines to the senate and spanking the thirty-one republican senators who adopted the conference report, the democratic representatives were in caucus issuing their first bit of campaign literature in the shape of a set of resolutions introduced by Tippit, the minority leader, and unanimously adopted. The democratic remarks lacked the originality of Mr. Sherman's, but they did the best they could with strong language. They declared in the resolutions:

We, the democratic representatives assembled in special session of the forty-fourth general assembly, believing in the inalienable rights of individual citizens, witness with profound regret the enactment of legislation that divests the people of those rights and places them at the mercy of combinations and corruption—agencies most dangerous to free expression of the public will.

The so-called primary bill just passed is a travesty on justice, a parody on primary elections, and a gross violation of the specific instructions of nearly 600,000 voters of Illinois.

We charge the republican party of Illinois, through its representatives in the general assembly bowing to the will of Gov. Deneen and the republican organization of the state, with the enactment of a law that takes away from the people the last vestige of the right of nominating their candidates by direct primary vote.

We charge the republican members of the forty-fourth general assembly with violating the expressed will of their constituents, in obedience to party discipline.

And we charge that the bill just passed is a deception, a travesty upon justice, a result of party dictation, a sham, and a fraud, the work of political schemers to perpetuate themselves in office.

Two Votes Finally Secured.

Allen started the house roll call by explaining his vote, which he cast against the bill. At the completion of the call the bill had secured only seventy-two affirmative votes and lacked five of the necessary number. Three additional were secured on call of absentees, and that left the organization still lacking two votes.

The roll call then was ordered verified, and while the clerk was thus engaged "relief parties" were sent out to drum up two more republicans. Beck was reported to be "in hiding" in the Supreme court room and an expedition was sent to find him. Pogue was absent, but he was approaching Springfield as rapidly as a train could carry him and was expected in half an hour.

It was the intention, if the necessary two votes could not be secured, to put through a motion to postpone further consideration of the matter without announcing the vote until Pogue could arrive. He, with Beck, would have made the bill safe.

This, however, was not necessary. Russell of Iroquois changed his vote from nay to yea and then Wilson of Du Page, one of the three prohibition members who had not voted, cast his affirmative vote and the necessary constitutional majority had been secured.

Result of Roll Call.

The roll call on the adoption of the bill was as follows:

Aside from the democrats, two socialists, and two prohibitionists, six republicans voted against the bill, the latter being Allen, Daily, Drew, Harris, Reynolds, and Zinger. Drew is a candidate for the senate in the Will county district to succeed Barr. He would not vote for the bill in the house, and Barr, not to be outdone on his side of the legislature, also refused to vote for it, having previously refused to sign the conference committee report. Daily voted for the Shurtleff bill in its original form, and if the senate had passed it instead of the amended senate bill Daily's vote would have been one of those to make it a law. Allen, Reynolds, and Zinger have been three of the most consistently stubborn members of the insurgent camp from the start.

The republicans either absent or not voting were Beck, Cavanaugh, Noyes, Pogue, Smejkal, Tibbetts.

Word of the adoption of the report quickly was carried across the hall to the senate, where the report still was being discussed. Democratic members went into caucus and adopted resolutions, and a number of republican members hurried over to see the finish of the affair in the upper branch. Senator Berry had started the ball rolling there with an explanation of the steps then taken in arriving at the Shurtleff bill, and in the course of his explanation he paid his respects to the "reformer who talks but won't vote."

Burton Presents Protest.

When Mr. Berry had finished, Senator Burton, for the minority side, presented the democratic objections to the bill, and in doing so said a number of harsh things about the Yates administration.

Senator Dunlap of Champaign county, for the small group of republican insurgents among the senators, accused the conference committee of handing the senate a gold brick in the shape of the Shurtleff bill. This gave Berry an opportunity to reply in the same spirit, referring to Dunlap as the "social chaperon of the Yates administration" and asking him why he and the late governor had not considered the necessity of doing something for the people when they were in power.

How It Affects Chicago.

Senator Parker got the floor at the finish of this interchange of remarks and went into an elaborate argument to show what were the good and what the bad points of the bill. So far as Chicago is concerned, he said, there were few changes for good. Among them he listed the provision requiring primary voting in election precincts. He was prepared to make an eleventh hour attempt to amend the bill and inject something more nearly like direct primary features in it, but he did not get fairly started.

As the first amendment he offered one changing the title of the bill to read:

"A bill for an act to provide for the nomination of candidates and for the holding and regulation of primary election of delegates, etc."

The new part being "to provide for the nomination of candidates."

He offered an amendment to section 50, making it read that a candidate receiving a plurality vote in a delegate district "shall be entitled to have cast for him the votes of all delegates from such delegate district." This merely added the words "shall be entitled to," but Mr. Parker had more amendments in his pockets; if this one by any chance were adopted. It was speedily laid on the table and the conference report was put to vote, being adopted by 31 to 14, as follows:

YEAS.

Of the negative votes eight were republicans, being Acton, Barr, Burnett, Dunlap, Henson, McElvaine, Parker, and Pemberton. Curtis voted for the bill under protest, saying he did it for the party, but would find it difficult to convince the people he did so wisely.

As soon as Sherman finished his excoriation Gardner called up two appropriation bills and had them passed, one being a bill appropriating $45,000 for the governor's emergency fund, of which $35,000 is to be used in investigating the Illinois Central books, and the other being a $50,000 bill for members' salaries, mileage, and stationery allowance. The senate then adjourned until 8 o'clock, when the closing sessions of both branches were held.

I. M. O. LEAGUE IN DENVER RAISES A CRY OF FRAUD.

Vote by Which Street Railway, Electric, and Gas Franchises Were Extended Is Disputed.

Denver, Colo., May 16.—On the face of the returns the twenty year franchises sought by the Denver City Tramway company and by the Denver Gas and Electric companies were carried at the election yesterday by small majorities. The vote on these propositions was as follows:

Tramway franchise—For, 8,041; against, 7,768; majority for, 273.

Gas and electric—For, 7,912; against, 7,233; majority for, 679.

The Municipal Ownership league is preparing evidence on which the franchises will be contested, it being alleged that hundreds of votes were cast for them by nontaxpayers and that bogus tax receipts were furnished to voters by agents of the corporations.

The Northwestern Terminal (Moffat road) franchise was granted by a vote of 8,403 to 6,230. All other franchises propositions were defeated.

The initiative ordinance reducing water and light rates, submitted by the Municipal Ownership league, was carried.

The new board of aldermen will consist of eight democrats, six republicans, and two municipal ownership members.

ENDS DEMOCRACY'S TROUBLE: URGES LA FOLLETTE FOR 1908.

Milwaukee Paper Asks, Since Republicans Have Disowned, Why Shouldn't Democrats Choose Him?

Milwaukee, Wis., May 16.—[Special.]—The Milwaukee Journal, leading democratic newspaper of Wisconsin, today brought out Senator R. M. La Follette, who was elected to the senate as a republican, as a democratic candidate for president in 1908, to run on a railroad and low tariff rate platform. The Journal says that as La Follette has been read out of the republican party he is the ideal democratic Moses.

POLICE ORDER 13 CHURCHES CLOSED

Building Commissioner Acts on Violation, While Ministers Criticise Him.

QUICK CHANGES PLANNED

Sunday Services Will Be Held in Several; New City Hall Crack Discovered.

At the request of Building Commissioner Bartzen, Chief Collins yesterday ordered thirteen Chicago churches closed until they shall conform to the letter of the building ordinances. The result was a general criticism of the commissioner by pastors, who were forced to make hasty arrangements for changes in order to insure the use of their churches for services next Sunday.

The churches ordered closed are:

Woodlawn Presbyterian church, 6400 Kimbark avenue.
Fellowship Congregational church, Drexel avenue and Sixty-fourth street.
SS. Peter and Paul Roman Catholic church, 321 Ninety-first street.
Swedish Lutheran church, 9116 Houston avenue.
M. E. church, Ninety-first street and Houston avenue.
Building at 5230 Artesian avenue.
Christ Episcopal church, 445 Sixty-fifth street.
Oakwood Union church, Sixty-fifth street and Champlain avenue.
Building at Ninety-first street and Exchange avenue.
Building at 9137 Ontario avenue.
Lutheran Mission church, Thirty-fifth street and Union avenue.
Reformed Presbyterian church, Fifty-sixth street and Evans avenue.
Building at 8713 Buffalo avenue.

"I have ordered the thirteen churches and buildings used for church and mission purposes closed until they are made safe," said Building Commissioner Bartzen. "Heretofore the people in control of them have neglected to follow my instructions."

Ministers Criticise the City.

"The building commissioner seems to be insisting on the letter of the law rather than the spirit of it," said the Rev. Edward H. Curtis of the Woodlawn Presbyterian church. "However, the required changes will be made and our church will be used for worship next Sunday."

"The order is the most foolish thing I ever heard of," said the Rev. Father George J. Blatter of SS. Peter and Paul Roman Catholic church. "The building commissioner apparently doesn't know his business. He ordered a little rail put in the church and I had it done yesterday. I called on Chief Collins and it is all right to hold services in the church at any time."

"We provided a rail for our stairs and are holding a prayer meeting tonight," said the Rev. D. D. Long of Fellowship Congregational church. "It would be a good thing if the city would be as watchful of the saloons as of the churches."

Doors Cause Trouble.

"Unless we make two doors open outward we will be unable to hold services next Sunday," said the Rev. Robert Clarke of the Reformed Presbyterian church. "I told the building commissioner his suggestions were impracticable."

The Rev. Herbert Young of Christ Episcopal church said he had provided a handrail for the stairs leading from the crypt.

The Rev. W. Gaertner of the Lutheran Mission church arranged to comply with the demands of the building department by making the doors of his church open outward.

The Oakwood Union church has been closed for some time. A handrail is missing from the stairs leading from the basement.

New City Hall Crack Harmless.

While the building commissioner was worrying about the condition of the churches a new crack almost two inches wide appeared in the coping on the west side of the city hall outside the council chamber. Engineer George W. Jackson, who has been given charge of the work of keeping the city hall from falling down, examined the building from basement to roof. He declared the crack was unimportant. A report on the condition of the building is to be formulated for the mayor and council next Monday.

W. Thompson, proprietor of the Windsor-Clifton hotel, asked Mayor Dunne yesterday to have the police require all contractors working in the loop district to keep the sidewalks open and to provide timber canopies for the protection of pedestrians.

Assistant Corporation Counsel Lee D. Mathias is negotiating with the National Surety company, which furnished the bond for the Star Construction company, which failed before completing the construction of the Thirty-ninth street intercepting sewer conduit four years ago. The city wants to compromise.

RURAL BRETHREN SHOCKED BY CHURCH PAPER'S PUSH.

Criticise Publication of Presbyterian Moderator's Sermon Opening General Assembly Before It Is Delivered.

Des Moines, Ia., May 16.—[Special.]—A mild sensation was created among the commissioners to the Presbyterian general assembly who have arrived here by the premature publication in full today in a church paper of the sermon with which the retiring moderator, the Rev. James D. Moffat, will open the assembly tomorrow. Copies of the paper were widely distributed. Such a thing as the advance publication of a sermon to be delivered at a general assembly was never known before in the history of the church, and "it's a shame" was heard from many ministers.

The elders from the rural regions, accustomed to believe that the preacher gets his sermon on the inspiration of the moment, were especially "shocked." An estoppel has been placed on the prayer which was to be made tomorrow, "that the moderator may have a message from above."

Some commissioners advocate action on the part of the assembly. The sermon is on "The Mission of the Presbyterian Church," which, it says, is "the evangelization of the masses."

The friends of all the candidates for moderator are hard at work. The chances tonight look favorable for the Rev. Dr. Hunter Corbett, the famous Chinese missionary, who will be nominated by the Rev. Dr. William L. McEwan of Pittsburg. It is said tonight that after the first ballot the Rev. Dr. Thomas C. Cleland of Duluth and the Rev. Dr. James M. Buckley will swing their support to Dr. Corbett. The Rev. Dr. A. B. Marshall of Minneapolis has a large following.

Several hundred commissioners came today and were assigned to their lodging places. The foreign missionary conference was in session and addresses were made by missionaries from China, India, Siam, and Japan. The Women's Home Missionary society met this afternoon, Mrs. Darwin R. James of New York presiding.

About forty college presidents and college officials were in session all day, including the Rev. Dr. James D. Moffat, president of Washington and Jefferson college; the Rev. Dr. W. W. Smith, president of Coe college; the Rev. Dr. Louis H. Holden, president of Wooster university; and Louis H. Severance, the Cleveland oil magnate.

REPORT HITS MECARTNEY.

BAR ASSOCIATION CRITICISES LANGUAGE TO HONORE.

After Long Investigation Board of Managers of Lawyers' Organization Decides Attorney Used "Unjustifiable" Terms in Analyzing Judge's Finding in Riddle-West Park Board Suit—No Recommendations Made—Matter Up to Jurist for Next Move.

After a lengthy investigation by its grievance committee, the board of managers of the Chicago Bar association has decided that Attorney H. S. Mecartney used "unjustifiable" language in his analysis of Judge Lockwood Honoré's decision awarding Attorney Francis A. Riddle $20,000 for legal services for the west park board.

This verdict of the directors took the form of resolutions which were mailed yesterday to the two principals and made public by Judge Honoré, Mr. Mecartney having left for Kansas City before his copy reached him.

The report is entirely colorless so far as suggesting any further steps in the controversy, so that Judge Honoré's future course is still an open question. He may conclude to resume the contempt proceedings which he formerly waived and fine Mecartney.

None of the members of the board would state last night just how closely its report followed the recommendations of the grievance committee.

"The matter is closed so far as the Bar association is concerned," said an official. "We propose to let it drop."

Board's Verdict in Full.

The verdict of the board is in full as follows:

"Whereas, Lockwood Honoré, one of the judges of the Circuit court of Cook county, Ill., has transmitted to the board of managers of the Chicago Bar association a document entitled 'Appeal for Vacation of Judgment,' written by H. S. Mecartney, one of the members of the association, and by Mr. Mecartney delivered to the judge as an argument for the defendant in the case of Riddle versus West Chicago Park Commissioners, pending before this judge; and,

"Whereas, Also, The Chicago Bar association was organized for the purpose of maintaining the honor and dignity of the profession of the law and promoting the due administration of justice;

Analysis of Mecartney's Document.

Now, therefore, upon the reading of the document and of a written statement submitted to this board by Mr. Mecartney, in which he disclaims any intention of reflecting upon the integrity of the judge, but insists that his intention was merely to demonstrate that the judge was "unconsciously prejudiced" in favor of the plaintiff, it appears to this board that the document contains language which goes beyond a discussion of the 'unconscious prejudice' of the judge and is susceptible of an interpretation reflecting upon his integrity; that this language was evidently employed in order to influence the mind and judgment of the court through other considerations than the facts and law of the case; that the recognized ethics of the profession require that the bar, in its intercourse with the bench, should exhibit the same uniform, dignified, and courteous consideration which it expects to receive from the bench, and without which the due and orderly administration of justice is impossible; that the bar is always at liberty in a dignified and orderly manner to point out the errors of the bench; and, if in so doing it becomes necessary to demonstrate the fact that the judge is unconsciously biased or prejudiced in favor of one of the parties to the proceedings, counsel is always justified in so doing.

"So far as the document under consideration discusses what is there termed the 'unconscious prejudice' of the trial judge it is not intended here to criticise, but where it goes beyond this it is, in the opinion of this body, unjustifiable."

UNIVERSITY IS FINED AGAIN FOR MAKING THICK SMOKE.

Security Building, Owned by Big School, Incurs Second $50 Penalty—Ashland Block and Other Structures Hit.

Despite the fact that the University of Chicago had been fined $50 and costs last week by Justice Gibbons for violating the smoke ordinance in the Security building, Madison street and Fifth avenue, the violation did not stop, and yesterday another $50 fine was imposed on the university as owner of the building. Others fined are:

CITY INSPECTOR IS ACCUSED.

Bribe Charge Made Against Fitzpatrick in Petition for an Injunction.

In a bill of injunction filed yesterday seeking to restrain city officials from interfering with the erection of a building at 3746-3748 Cottage Grove avenue, Building Inspector Fitzpatrick is accused of an attempt to extort a bribe from the contractor of the building, Albert R. Niemz.

According to the allegations of George W. Cook, who filed the bill, the police stopped work on the structure on the ground that it did not comply with a city ordinance about a brick dividing wall, and that Fitzpatrick approached the contractor and offered to adjust the trouble for $15.

The offer was not accepted, and city officials continued to harass the contractor.

HOUSE COMMITTEEMEN IN CITY.

Two Congressmen Will Speak on Deep Waterway Before Commercial Club at Banquet.

Congressmen Edgar C. Ellis of Missouri and Joseph E. Ransdell of Louisville, members of the house committee on rivers and harbors, arrived in Chicago last evening. They will attend the banquet of the Chicago Commercial association at the Sherman house tonight and will speak on a deep waterway from Chicago to the gulf of Mexico. Another speaker will be Isham Randolph, chief engineer of the sanitary district of Chicago.

Members of Senior Class of University Put Insignia on Walls and Fences.

Feminine members of the senior class of the University of Chicago silently stole away from their dormitory chaperon last night, and when nearly everybody in Hyde Park was in bed painted a small section of the town livid blue with their class numerals and "beware" mottos. They began shortly before 11 o'clock and in half an hour managed to smear their insignia over many fences and sidewalks.

BEATEN BY SENIOR WHOM HE ACCUSED

Prof. D. C. Eccles, Northwestern Varsity Instructor, Attacked on Street.

OUST STUDENT AS THIEF.

Members of Faculty Act on Complaint and W. E. Wallace Threatens a Court Writ.

After he had been ousted from Northwestern university medical school, William E. Wallace, a student in the chemistry department, attacked Prof. David C. Eccles, a member of the faculty, who, he charges, was responsible for his dismissal. The attack occurred at Lake and Clark streets yesterday afternoon. Wallace was locked up at the Harrison street station, being released on bonds five hours later.

According to Wallace his dismissal resulted after he had appropriated Prof. Eccles' burette, a small glass instrument used in measuring liquids in chemical tests, Tuesday. Wallace admitted taking the instrument, but denied he had stolen it.

"While I was at work in the laboratory Tuesday my burette fell to the floor and was broken," he said. "I then appropriated Dr. Eccles' instrument.

"I did not intend keeping the burette, but left it in my desk. When I appeared at the school I learned Prof. Eccles intended laying the matter before the faculty, and was told I had been charged with theft and asked to report to the faculty at 2 o'clock in the afternoon.

Threatens Court Writ.

"Despite the fact that I had spent $1,200 while studying at the school, and was to have been graduated in three weeks, I was not given a chance to speak, and was dismissed. I had even purchased my cap and gown to be used at the exercises. I intend taking out an injunction in the hope that I will be reinstated."

Members of the faculty who dismissed Wallace from the university are Dr. Oscar Oldberg, Prof. Patterson, Dr. Raymond Pond, Dr. Gordin, Dr. A. Miner, Dr. Oglesbey, and Prof. Eccles.

Word that Prof. Eccles had charged Wallace with the theft of his burette, and intended seeking his ejectment, were rumored about the school, and, it is said, more than 200 students petitioned Prof. Eccles to drop the case.

The petition was ignored, Wallace asserted, and he declared he learned he had been discharged from the school even before he appeared before the faculty.

Professor Makes a Statement.

Prof. Eccles is assistant instructor in advanced chemistry. Wallace is 22 years old and is married, living at 1707 Kenmore avenue. His father, a wealthy farmer, lives at Marysville, Ky.

Prof. Eccles, at his home in Evanston, last night said: I accused Wallace of theft and the faculty decided to expel him. He met me in the rotunda of the Northwestern University building later, then followed me to Clark street, where he attacked me."

BABY DIES WHILE SISTER CARRIES IT TO HOSPITAL.

Rose Goldberg, 8 Years Old, Walks Two Miles to County Institution, Then Learns Brother Is Lifeless.

At the end of her weary two mile walk, Rosa Goldberg, 8 years old, laid her year old brother down at the county hospital yesterday afternoon and asked in broken English that he be admitted for treatment. The clerk looked at the baby face and then at the girl in wonder. The infant was dead.

Rosa is the daughter of Joseph Goldberg, 180 West Taylor street, a shoemaker who came from Russia three months ago. The girl has been the only nurse to two younger children. Yorke, the baby, was taken with measles and whooping cough and neighbors at length prevailed upon the family to have it taken to the hospital.

With the few English words at her command, Rosa inquired the way to the county institution. As she plodded on with her heavy burden the baby's complaints became less and less and at last ceased altogether, but the little girl felt no fears.

It required considerable explanation to persuade the girl that the baby was past medical aid and could not be received. Then she quietly lifted up the body and started for the door, intending to return with it in her arms to her father's house. The hospital authorities with difficulty convinced her this would not do and that the body must be taken to the county morgue. Rosa would not relinquish her burden to other arms even then. Weeping, she carried the child to the morgue in the south part of the group of buildings.

Advertising costs money, but results are sacrificed by false economy.

There is no more reason for refusing to advertise because "it costs money" than for declining to buy material and labor. Every good investment costs money. The question is not "How much will it cost," but rather "Will it pay."

The cost of advertising in THE SATURDAY EVENING POST ($3.00 per agate line) is small considering its circulation, 750,000 each week. But even if it were otherwise we would have no apologies to make. Why? Because it pays.

If the advertiser stands a loss of 10c on the "quarter" which he invests in the "little paper," and makes a profit of $10.00 on the $3.00 which he invests in THE POST, what is the use of talking "original cost"? Manufacturers who believe in their own goods, and have the courage to send $3.00 in quest of $10.00, are earnestly asked to discuss their problems with us.

RAYMOND REPLIES TO BAILEY CHARGE

Cites Proof in Chandler's Writing Texan Was Suspected of Treachery.

OBJECT OF GENERAL TALK

Insists on Amendment Railroads Liked Even After Democrats Reject It.

of Senator Bailey, believing he was in alliance with Senator Aldrich, and that he was associating with the Standard Oil and railroad crowds in the senate, but that Senator Tillman was watching his maneuvers and expected to be able to prevent any evil effects.

These were the suspicions to which I alluded in my previous dispatch as having constantly existed, and as having influenced the administration beyond all doubt in dropping the negotiations with Senator Tillman through Mr. Chandler, and renewing its efforts to unite the republicans on a reasonable basis of compromise.

Unfortunate for Bailey.

I have not said before and I do not say now that these suspicions were justified, nor that Mr. Bailey has acted the part of a traitor. It is, however, unfortunate for him that the record in his case would lead his enemies to the inference that he did not stand for the same thing that Senator Tillman stood for.

On Tuesday, April 10, 1906, Joseph W. Bailey of Texas made a speech on the regulation of railroad rates in advocacy of an amendment he had introduced, taking away from the lower federal courts the right to make interlocutory orders and providing for the suspension of rates fixed by the interstate commerce commission.

Meant Death to Bill.

In the written memorandum by William E. Chandler it is said "the railroad senators want the Bailey amendment." Of course, if they wanted it, it was because they believed it was unconstitutional and would kill the bill. That fact was well known by the friends of the bill, and when at one time it seemed it might be necessary to accept the Bailey amendment to secure the democratic support it was stipulated by the friends of the bill, from the president down, that the Bailey amendment, if adopted, should be in a separate section, so that if it were declared unconstitutional it would not affect the integrity of the railroad rate bill itself.

Proof in the Record.

The suspicions against Mr. Bailey may have been entirely unjustified. He says so, and as there is no evidence to the contrary in the case, his statement is entitled to every consideration. There is no evidence against him at all; there was, however, ample reason why there should be suspicions and the reasons for the suspicions are clearly demonstrated in the pages of the Congressional Record, as well as in the memory of individuals in and about the senate.

After Mr. Bailey had spoken for a considerable length of time on his amendment, which contained one of the most interesting but most radical legal propositions ever heard in the senate, Mr. Aldrich and Mr. Hale, both from New England, and both more or less identified with the railroad element, were particularly interested in the progress of Mr. Bailey's argument, which was a brilliant legal exposition. It was Mr. Hale who interrupted Senator Bailey toward the end of his speech and the interruption was of an extraordinarily friendly nature. During the course of that interruption Senator Hale said:

"I want to say that this day has been most profitably spent, and that the thorough discussion by the senator from Texas of the particular feature which he has so much at heart, and what he has said later with reference to the final adjudication of all questions by the courts, have tended more to disentangle this subject and to secure, I will not say an immediate, but a near beneficent result than anything else that has taken place."

Sets All Tongues Wagging.

This complimentary language from the senator from Maine, whose constant opposition to the general policy of the Roosevelt administration is as well known as his tact and his great ability, was quite enough to set the tongues wagging regarding the good faith of Mr. Bailey.

People in the galleries and some of those on the floor had been noticing that Senators Aldrich and Hale were in consultation, and Mr. Aldrich, in fact, participated in this interruption of Senator Bailey, an interruption which was so pacific, so full of molasses, as to make it seem probable, at least, that it had been carefully rehearsed by Senators Aldrich and Hale, if not by Mr. Bailey himself.

No Wonder Suspicion Existed.

Is it any wonder that the president's friends were suspicious of Bailey that day, which it must be remembered was more than a month ago, when the possibility of a compromise of any kind was dim and distant, and when Senator Tillman and the president were really standing shoulder to shoulder for the adoption either of the Hepburn bill intact, or with the addition of the narrowest kind of a court review amendment.

Mr. Bailey may have been unjustly suspected, but the suspicions existed, and they have existed for weeks, which was all I said in the dispatches which provoked Mr. Bailey's outburst and his attack on the president over my shoulders.

It was a curious exchange of compliments between Maine and Texas, the extremes of the United States, and between the senators representing ostensibly the corporate investments of New England on the one side and the great natural resources of Texas on the other. Aided by Mr. Aldrich's timely little interruption, which also appeared to be part of a well learned lesson, in which it would be hard to say which was the teacher and which the pupil, Mr. Hale surprised the senate and the country that day by announcing that he was for the Bailey nonsuspension amendment and he did it in these significant words:

"I think out of this we will get a strengthened commission. I will vote that its decision shall not be interfered with by injunction until it reaches the final court; and then I believe the senate will agree to the proposition that that review by the court shall be of the broadest and most ample kind. That the senator has largely contributed to this beneficent result is to me plain."

Justification for Chandler.

Praise from Maine to Texas, from Hale to Bailey, is praise indeed. In itself it was a full justification of Mr. Chandler's written statement that "the railroad senators want the Bailey amendment." Mr. Hale's remarks bear out the statement in the fullest possible way, and they were sufficient in themselves to create the suspicion which constantly existed as to Mr. Bailey's loyalty to the campaign for a regulation of railroad rates by the interstate commerce commission. These remarks do not prove anything against Mr. Bailey, and his amendment may have been offered in perfect good faith by him.

More Proof in the Letter.

But there is more in this interchange of compliments, which may be found on page 5,314 of the Congressional Record. Mr. Bailey met the senator from Maine more than half way, and said:

"Mr. President, it is gratifying, of course, to have the approval of the senator from Maine and to know that he agrees with me upon this most stubbornly controverted point."

And then, in concluding his speech, Mr. Bailey, apparently in a spirit of prophecy as to the extraordinary discussion of the last few days, said:

"And now, if we could finish this matter with the concurrence of the senator from Pennsylvania and the senator from Wisconsin I would feel like the millennium had almost come. I would feel that the railroad and the shipper could work together in peace and with good will toward each other. I would feel that we could have a new national emblem which would combine the pitchfork and the big stick."

For enemies, Mr. Bailey and the railroad senators were at least friendly enemies.

From that speech and from similar shorter ones came the belief which was so current about the senate and which was reflected in Mr. Chandler's report in writing and by word of mouth that there was ground to suspect Mr. Bailey at least of a lack of enthusiasm if nothing more.

Proof in Democratic Caucus.

But there is an unofficial as well as an official record and it concerns the action of the democratic caucus. That conference of the minority was not harmonious. All the world knows that. The point of dissension was Senator Bailey's nonsuspension amendment, which was openly accepted by Senator Hale and which Mr. Chandler declared the railroad senators "wanted." Mr. Bailey's speech was made on April 10, and it was only six days later that he received from Attorney General Moody the draft of an amendment which, as the attorney general says, was intended to embody not the president's but Mr. Bailey's suggestions of the day before, April 15, five days after the delivery of the speech in question.

That amendment, drawn by the attorney general at the suggestion of Senator Bailey, contained the Bailey proviso that no order of the commission shall be set aside or suspended by any preliminary or interlocutory decree or order of the court. It was drawn up by the attorney general at Mr. Bailey's request and was returned to him with a specific statement to that effect. It was evidently the proposal of Senators Tillman and Bailey for a basis of compromise on which the democrats could agree.

Bailey Splits His Party.

Then, as everybody knows, came the democratic caucus. Senator Bailey made a hard fight for his amendment. It was voted down by an overwhelming majority. It was the disturbing element in that caucus, as all the world knows, too. If it had not been introduced they might have been split up on other things, but there would have been three or four factions, and not only two.

It was the Bailey amendment, and the Bailey amendment alone, which developed dissension, and that dissension was spread broadcast in the press reports, and in that way was brought to the attention of the attorney general, with whom Senators Tillman and Bailey were then negotiating.

Following this Mr. Tillman called on Attorney General Moody to assure him that the prospects were good of an agreement among a large number of the democratic senators.

Secret of Whole Matter.

As late as April 23 Bailey and Tillman called upon Attorney General Moody, and they still suggested the Bailey amendment which had caused the dissension in the democratic caucus, and it was not until after that time that the president and the attorney general came to the conclusion that it was idle to hope for united action by the democrats on the railroad rate bill. This conclusion Senators Tillman and Bailey have never ceased to object to, and it is at the bottom of all their violent speeches and letters of the last few days, culminating in their direct attack on President Roosevelt over the shoulders of the representative of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE and other newspapers.

Unless I have been misinformed, the memorandum written by Senator Chandler was dated April 11, the day after Mr. Bailey's speech, and the dramatic acceptance of it by Senator Hale, with the nodded approval of Senator Aldrich, the leader of the railroad element in the senate.

Surely the evidence is abundant to justify suspicion, and Senator Bailey himself is too good a lawyer not to see that fact. That the evidence is good enough to justify conviction of treachery I do not assert, have not asserted, and shall not assert.

Mr. Bailey has been subjected to a great deal of suspicion since he began in public life. He came to Washington with the conviction that a Texas congressman should not wear a dress coat and would not go to President Cleveland's reception on that account. But Mr. Bailey learned to wear the garb of higher society, although it subjected him to the suspicion of being a plutocrat among the simple people of the far southwest.

Furthermore, Mr. Bailey is a good lawyer and his proper acceptance of large fees for the successful conduct of suits might have rendered him liable to suspicion among unkind people, but not among those who knew him. He has become a familiar figure in Wall street, and in the corridors and restaurants of the Waldorf-Astoria, which would be considered suspicious by some of his frontier constituents, but which would be by no means a conviction of impropriety on his part.

Twitted by Pettigrew.

The fact remains that suspicions did exist as to Mr. Bailey's loyalty, and those suspicions were voiced in writing and orally by Mr. Chandler. Nor was he alone in referring to such rumors. Soon after Mr. Bailey made his great speech in advocacy of the amendment which was turned down by the democratic caucus, but which he persisted in thrusting upon the attorney general as a basis of compromise, former Senator Pettigrew, once senator from South Dakota, appeared in the senate cloakroom. He started to chaff Senator Bailey, and told him that all the railroad presidents were for the Bailey amendment. Thereupon the Texas senator resented that statement, made in private, almost with violence, and a personal encounter between Mr. Pettigrew and Senator Bailey was prevented with considerable difficulty, I am told.

Assault Aimed at Roosevelt.

As to the effect of the statements made by Senators Bailey and Tillman today, there is but one opinion, which is that it was an assault aimed solely at the president because they believed the information I had received came direct from the White house, with the authority of the president or his secretary. I have already explained that nothing of the kind was true, and that I made the statements on my own responsibility.

Senator Chandler has kept a diary, they tell me, and for some reason entered therein a copy or a synopsis of the memorandum dated on or about April 11, in which he said the railroad senators wanted the Bailey amendment.

Mr. Chandler's extract from his diary has been handed to Mr. Bailey, and, I understand, is to be read in the senate tomorrow. The purpose of this is an attempt to show that it does not specifically charge Mr. Bailey with being open to suspicion. Mr. Chandler's diary does not, of course, contain any extracts from Mr. Bailey's speech, nor does it, in all probability, refer to Mr. Chandler's subsequent oral explanation.

Apparently the whole trouble is due to the fact that neither the president nor Senator Tillman was able to deal with each other directly. They were forced to depend upon an intermediary, and in this case, as in others, the intermediary seems to have told one of the principals one thing and the other of the principals another thing, with the usual result.

REPLY OF NEW YORK PAPER.

Bailey's Fulminations Regarded as Fresh Exhibition of Temper by Texas Senator.

New York, May 17, 8 a. m.—The Washington correspondent of the New York Tribune, commenting in the Tribune on the senate incident, gives the memorandum mentioned by the correspondent of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE. The text follows:

To the President: The game of the railroad senators is to support Bailey's amendment and induce him to agree to a broad right of review. What that is to be is not certain, but the principal object is "to beat him," meaning the president. Mr. Tillman, however, considers himself as acting with the president to pass the review clause with the minimum amount of court power, and will not enter into any such game.

WILLIAM E. CHANDLER.

THE TRIBUNE'S correspondent continues:

"Mr. Bailey drew from the fact that THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE and the New York Tribune had published these rumors the wholly erroneous conclusion that they emanated from the White house. The fact is, the writer of the morning's dispatch had not seen or communicated with the president or with any one connected with the White house for more than a week.

"The report, of course, was in circulation on the democratic side of the senate yesterday, precisely as was stated by THE TRIBUNE'S correspondent, and it is surprising, to put it mildly, that Mr. Bailey did not hear it. It is noteworthy, however, that Mr. Bailey did not deny any part of THE TRIBUNE'S dispatch, but contented himself with hurling the fearful epithet 'Cuckoo!' at THE TRIBUNE'S correspondent.

"It is a further fact that a copy of the memorandum alleged to have been signed by Mr. Chandler, which is printed above, has been circulated among democrats in the senate, and it was on this copy that the TRIBUNE correspondent's assertions were based.

"The attempt on the part of Mr. Bailey in his fulminations of today to convey the impression that the president or some one close to him was responsible for the rumors which reflect on the senator's good faith or Mr. Chandler's veracity is generally accepted in the senate as merely an ebullition of that bad temper which is the most unfortunate characteristic of the senator from Texas and an evidence of his chagrin over the fact he failed utterly to obtain for himself any credit for rate legislation. It is probable, therefore, that republican senators will completely ignore it."

ANTI-PASS RULE IN RATE BILL.

Amendment Finally Is Decided Upon and Adopted by Senate Committee, Ending Its Task.

Washington, D. C., May 16.—The consideration of the rate bill in committee of the whole of the senate today was concluded and the measure reported to the senate, where there will be opportunity to review and alter all the amendments heretofore made.

Following is the anti-pass provision as agreed upon:

That no carrier engaged in interstate commerce shall hereafter directly or indirectly issue or give any interstate free ticket, free pass, or free transportation for passengers except to its officers, agents, and employes and members of their immediate families, to its actual and bona fide attorneys and physicians and surgeons, and their immediate families and female nurses that served during the civil war, to ministers of religion and inmates of hospitals and eleemosynary and charitable institutions, and to indigent, destitute, and homeless persons, or destitute and homeless persons transported by charitable societies or hospitals, and the necessary agents employed in such transportation; and to inmates of the national homes or state homes for disabled volunteer soldiers or ex-confederate soldiers, ex-union soldiers and sailors, and inmates of soldiers' and sailors' homes, including those about to enter and those returning home after discharge, under arrangements with the boards of managers of said homes.

Violation of the provision is made a misdemeanor punishable by a fine of not less than $200 nor more than $2,000.

TRIBUNE'S STORY ANGERS BAILEY.

Charge That Texas Senator's Loyalty to Rate Bill Was Suspected Causes Scene.

"THREE KINDS OF A LIAR."

Intimates "Unqualified," "Deliberate," and "Malicious" Tale Started in White House.

Washington, D. C., May 16.—The calm of the senate's discussion of the railroad rate bill was disturbed today by a personal interruption by Senator Bailey, who rose to a question of personal privilege to make reply to a charge made in THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE on Monday by its Washington correspondent to the effect that Mr. Bailey had been responsible for the failure of the agreement between the president and Senator Tillman.

Former Senator Chandler was given as authority for the statement that Senator Tillman had been suspicious of Senator Bailey, who, it was also stated, was really opposed to rate legislation and was also in constant conference with Senator Aldrich with the purpose of defeating the rate bill.

After this statement had been read Mr. Bailey took the floor and said deliberately:

"I have taken no part in the question of veracity between the president and Mr. Chandler and I had not even given any public expression on the question of good faith, because I knew nothing about either question. I had never conferred with the president directly nor with Mr. Chandler. It was, therefore, a matter of great surprise to me when a senator called my attention to the extract which I have had read.

Calls Some One a Liar.

"That correspondence, it was understood, was sent by a correspondent who is close to the White house and is presumed to speak with some degree of authority concerning transactions there. I do not know as to the truth of that and I do not charge that his statement was made with authority. But I denounce the publication as an unqualified, deliberate, and malicious lie.

"I denounce that correspondent as an unqualified, deliberate, and malicious liar.

"I denounce the man who inspired the statement as an unqualified, deliberate, and malicious liar, whoever he may be and however high the office he holds."

The statement was made in a deliberate monotone, but it was none the less impressive on that account. It was received with absolute silence, and the silence continued for a few moments until, indeed, Senator Tillman had taken the floor, also on a question of personal privilege, because the article quoted had stated that he had been suspicious of Mr. Bailey.

Tillman Sees a Muck Rake.

He had read the parts of the correspondent's letter which Mr. Bailey had omitted and then proceeded with his statement, saying:

"This correspondence is undoubtedly a muck rake. Into whose house the handle goes or what hand holds it I will not attempt to say."

Senator Tillman said he counted eight distinct falsehoods in the article, but he desired to address himself first to a denial that he had ever been suspicious of Senator Bailey. He declared his great esteem and admiration for the Texas senator and that their cordial relations had always existed. Articles of this character were being sent broadcast over the country, said Senator Tillman, at the instance of the republican machine to "beduddle" the situation.

As to the statement by Attorney General Moody that he could see no hope for an agreement on any amendment unless it were drawn by the senators themselves, Senator Tillman said that was an adroit effort to give color to the president's retreat behind the Allison amendment.

"I do not care to pursue this subject further," said Senator Tillman, "but that future historians may be able to get at the truth as to who lied, I shall make another contribution." He then had read the letter sent him today by former Senator Chandler in response to Senator Lodge's denial for the president of Senator Chandler's former statement.

Bailey Returns to Attack.

When Senator Tillman concluded Senator Bailey again took the floor and said that his attention had been called to another article, printed in the New York Tribune of today. He said it was of the same character as that printed by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, and that evidently they had been timed to bring them both to Washington at the same time. Pointing to the press gallery he said:

"I intend to put in the record upon the statement of more than one reputable newspaper correspondent in that gallery, and as a rule they are as honorable as senators on this floor; on their authority I state that the two chief cuckoos of this administration are the correspondents of the New York Tribune and THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

"And therefore it seems to me conclusive that this slander proceeds from the White house. I hope, for the honor of my country, that it does not proceed from the president himself.

Wants Somebody "Fired."

"But if he be a man of high sense of honor he will see to it that senators are not slandered by his subordinates, and the miserable wretch who communicated to these newspapers, and who sought through them to communicate to the country a slander on me which people might discuss rather than the issues that have been raised, he is unfit for his high office and the man who perpetrated that infamy will pay for it with his position; and if the man continues to hold his office it is to be assumed that what he has done has been with the approval of his chief."

SENATE FOR SEA LEVEL TYPE.

Majority of Committee on Interoceanic Canal Decides Against Lock Plan for Panama.

Washington, D. C., May 16.—The decision of the senate committee on interoceanic canals is in favor of a sea level canal across the isthmus of Panama. Senator Carmack's return from Tennessee gave the sea level advocates a majority of one vote and consequently Chairman Millard was the only one of the minority faction who attended the meeting. There was no other business before the committee and it remained in session just long enough to authorize Senator Kittredge to make the report to be presented to the senate as soon as the minority may have an opportunity to prepare its views for a lock canal. The two reports will be made at the same time.

Navy Department Investigates Report Marine Captain Had "Always in the Way" Played as Dirge.

Washington, D. C., May 16.—Assistant Secretary Newberry of the navy department has asked marine corps officials for information concerning a story printed in many newspapers charging that Capt. Lawrence, a private who was drowned while carrying dispatches near Olangapo, P. I. No official advices have been received about the conduct of Capt. Bearss, which is said by newspapers to have thrown sailors and marines almost into mutiny.

CHANDLER GIVES HIS SIDE

WOULD LIKE TO CALL PRESIDENT A LIAR, BUT ABSTAINS.

In Letter to Senator Tillman He Reaffirms Statements Which Chief Executive of Nation Branded as Untrue—Declares President's Impulsiveness Led Him Into Error of Denying What Had Taken Place—Gives Details of His Interview.

Washington, D. C., May 16.—Regretting that he cannot use toward the president language like his own, Senator Chandler, in a statement handed today to Senator Tillman, reiterated the statements which Mr. Roosevelt branded as untrue. Senator Tillman read the statement in the senate, and it will be placed in the record.

In his statement Senator Chandler reaffirms "the essential truth" of his report to Senator Tillman, quoting the president on Senators Foraker, Spooner, and Knox, and adding that it was Mr. Roosevelt's impulsiveness that led him into serious error.

Senator Chandler's Side of It.

His statement follows:

"My Dear Mr. Tillman: As the telephonic denial by President Roosevelt, sent to the senate through Senator Lodge, remains in the congressional record of May 12, it seems to me that I should take some notice of it, which I do now by reaffirming the essential truth of the statement I made to you, which you repeated in the senate. Much as I regret that the hasty action of Senator Lodge and the president has forced an issue between the president and myself, the extreme language he used makes such issue unavoidable and I cannot shrink from or evade it, although I cannot use toward the chief executive of the nation language like his own. Upon our respective statements I submit the controversy with confidence to the judgment of those who know me."

After detailing the steps leading up to the meeting with President Roosevelt, the letter goes on, in part:

"I knew and he knew that it was impossible for him to open conferences with Mr. Tillman, unless he was fully satisfied that the president had absolutely given up all intention of coming to an agreement with the senators who had been making the contest for an unlimited court review, and in stating his object he said that he had parted from them finally, naming Senators Knox, Foraker, and Spooner as the senators who had made the arguments in the senate to sustain that view, and he used, as nearly as I can recollect, the language given in my statement repeated by Mr. Tillman.

Says Tillman Was Suspicious.

"When an hour later I visited Mr. Tillman and told him my mission from the president I found him distrustful and suspicious. He questioned me closely as to what the president had said, and I related to him as accurately as I could the statement made by the president to me, and I convinced him that the president had ceased to hope for compromise with the senators named and the other advocates of an unlimited court review. When satisfied of that this was the case he readily consented to cooperate with the president and said that he would see Senator Bailey and report to me the result, which he did, saying there would be perfect accord upon the limitation of the right of review if carried forward in connection with a limitation of the right to issue ex parte injunctions.

"Was it not natural and essential that the president should have satisfied me that he had finally separated upon the question of the court review from the senators who were the principal opponents of any limitation of that review, which they believed would be unconstitutional, and that I should have repeated his statements to Mr. Tillman? Is it possible that I went directly that night to Senator Tillman at the Colonial hotel and poured into his ears a deliberate and unqualified falsehood?

"It should also be borne in mind that the report I made to Mr. Tillman of the president's conversation is comparatively harmless and inoffensive. Here it is: 'He said that he had been much troubled by the advocacy of an unlimited court review by some of the lawyers of the senate, naming Senators Knox, Spooner, and Foraker, as trying to injure or defeat the bill by ingenious constitutional arguments, but that he had come to a complete disagreement with them.'

Cannot See What Caused Stir.

"What is there in the above words that is untrue or should give offense to the senators named? They were the great constitutional lawyers of the senate, making ingenius arguments against any limitation of court review, and they were troublesome and likely to be troublesome in any attempt to carry the Long-Moody limitation through the senate by the votes of twenty-five or more democrats and twenty or less republican senators.

"What harm was there in the president's saying that he had come to a final disagreement with them on the day when he had held a White house conference with a view to uniting democratic and republican forces in carrying a limitation of court review then and there agreed upon? He could say it in or out of their presence without giving offense to them.

"On the whole, perhaps I ought to consider myself fortunate, for the old imperialist days had been fully revived at the White house one whom I considered the best of friends, Senator Lodge, upon demand, would have cut off my head and taken it to President Roosevelt on a charger, and I should have spoken no more. Now at least I have left to me the power of speech. But I shall never use it again as a missionary from President Roosevelt to the democratic party.

$6,000,000 BATTLESHIP PLAN IS SUSTAINED BY THE HOUSE.

Burton's Amendment to Strike Out Provision for Rival to Dreadnaught Defeated—Williams Deals in Satire.

Washington, D. C., May 16.—The naval appropriation bill, carrying nearly $100,000,000, was completed today in the house.

An amendment introduced by Mr. Burton of Ohio to strike out the appropriation of $6000,000 for a rival to the English Dreadnaught was defeated, as was the amendment leaving the construction of the battleship to the discretion of the secretary of the navy after the second Hague conference.

Mr. Williams [Miss.], the minority leader, during the debate satirically suggested an amendment that in view of the British having decided to name their sea monster Dreadnaught, the American sea monster be named "Skeered o' 'Nothin'," as being typical of the national spirit; that on its completion the captain in command be authorized to challenge the Dreadnaught to a duel l'outrance, and that the president and his cabinet, with the exception of the secretary of agriculture, who is a noncombatant, be invited to places on the quarter deck as evidences of the strenuous life, the sea fight to take place off Newport.

A vote will be taken tomorrow.

SEES NO WRONG IN CAMPAIGN GIFTS.

Senator Bulkeley, Head of the Ætna, Defends Contribution to 1906 Fund.

SAYS ACT WAS PROPER.

Declares in Twenty Years Insurance Companies Will Control Finances of the World.

Washington, D. C., May 16.—[Special.]—Senator Bulkeley of Connecticut, who also is president of the Ætna Fire Insurance company, defended campaign contributions by insurance companies today.

The Connecticut senator created a further sensation by declaring that "twenty years from now the big life insurance companies will own the major portion of the investment securities of the country. They will control absolutely the finances of the United States and the world."

He added that at present all the insurance companies were in the hands of one man, but he refused to name the man.

Gave $5,000 to Beat Bryan.

To the house committee on judiciary Senator Bulkeley frankly admitted in answer to a question by Representative De Armond that he had contributed $5,000 of the funds of this company to the McKinley campaign of 1896, because he believed the election of W. J. Bryan would be a calamity. He added that it might as well have been $20,000, that he would have been justified in giving this amount, which was not a "flea bite" to what he gave personally.

"Do you think that action upon your part in contributing the trust funds of your company to a campaign committee either justifiable, honest, or decent?" queried Mr. De Armond.

"I contend that every custodian of funds of this character," replied the Connecticut senator, "is justified and within his rights, when he takes that money and applies it to the protection of the rights of his people. I contend that the election of Mr. Bryan would have been a calamity."

Mr. De Armond expressed a curiosity to inquire into the standard of morals which would justify such a course, which brought from Senator Bulkeley a reiteration of his justification.

"Did you contribute to the democratic party when it was successful?" asked Mr. De Armond.

"I did not," was the reply.

"Do you think the election of 1896 was bought?"

"I do not."

Mr. De Armond then turned his queries to ascertain what had become of the "vast fund" which the republican committee had raised that year and Senator Bulkeley replied that he believed it had been "legitimately spent."

Doesn't Fear Criticism.

This contribution of 1896 he placed on the same ground of public expediency on which he justified his contribution of $5,000 to the relief of the San Francisco sufferers. He said he did not fear criticism from his policyholders for doing anything which he thought proper, and that he gave the money in the performance of his duty, as he thought.

"This is a new philosophy of insurance of which I am glad to hear," commented Mr. De Armond. "There are some people who get so powerful in the financial world that they do not fear to go in boldly, where others would not dare to go."

"If you gentlemen of the house of representatives," replied Mr. Bulkeley, "who disburse millions of the people's money, disburse it as honestly as money is handled by the insurance companies of the country you need have no fear of going before your constituents."

Denounces Armstrong Committee.

Senator Bulkeley denounced the Armstrong investigation of the big life insurance companies. He declared that the irregularities brought out in that connection did not arise from the internal mismanagement of the companies or from the personal or official dishonesty of the officers of the companies, but wholly from the jealous desire of financiers to get control of the vast funds of these institutions.

The investigation and the legislation which has grown out of it, instead of bettering conditions, he said, would produce a contrary effect as pronounced as jumping from the frying pan into the fire. Instead of having several great institutions as before, controlled by a divided responsibility, they had put the entire business into the hands of one man.

"Who is that man?" asked Representative De Armond.

Senator Bulkeley did not reply. Then he made the statement already quoted.

"Twenty years from now," he said, "these great insurance corporations existing today will own the major portion of the investment securities of the country. They will control absolutely the finances of the United States and of the world."

AGED PHYSICIAN KILLS HIMSELF.

Dr. Frederick McKenzie Ends Life with Bullet in Washington Park.

LOST MONEY IN STOCKS.

Long House Physician at Lexington Hotel, Unmarried, and Almost Recluse.

Dr. Frederick M. McKenzie, for many years house physician at the Lexington hotel, committed suicide in Washington park yesterday morning by shooting himself in the head. Losses in stocks and despondency over ill health are believed to have led the doctor to kill himself. He was 80 years old and lived in a rented apartment at the residence of Mrs. E. R. McCuen, 2255 Calumet avenue.

Some of Dr. McKenzie's friends are inclined to advance the theory that loneliness preyed upon his mind until he became unsound mentally. He was a bachelor and had lived a comparatively solitary life. For the last few weeks he had acted strangely at times. Dr. McKenzie was well known to several pioneer residents of the south side. H. H. Honoré was acquainted with him. The only relative of the physician in Chicago was a sister, Mrs. Martha Leffingwell, living at 6422 Stony Island avenue.

When seen last night Mrs. Leffingwell refused to talk about her brother. She seemed stunned by the news of his death and immediately hastened away to look after the funeral arrangements. Her reticence added to the mystery of the man's life of later years. Although he was a man of means, she sews by the day at a tailoring shop near her flat. She did not know of her brother's death until she went home at 7 o'clock last night.

"He came to call on me once in awhile," she said, "and the last two times he acted queerly. I was afraid he might do something like this."

Planned in Advance.

Dr. McKenzie planned his suicide the evening before. This was shown by the fact that he left letters on his table to be mailed to his sister; his protégé, an adopted boy named Rena Papin, who now is a singer in London, and to several friends. He also left a note. It was found on his dresser by the maid in the morning shortly before he killed himself in the park. It read:

"Mail the letters on my table; notify J. W. Douglas, with S. B. Chapin & Co., and if my body is not claimed send it to Rush Medical college."

The last time any one saw the physician alive was 7 o'clock Tuesday evening. When Mrs. McCuen came in from a drive, Dr. McKenzie was sitting on the porch. He seemed in good spirits. He did not occupy his bed that night, and it is assumed that he wandered in the park all night. Policeman James Lavin heard a shot in the park at 11 a. m. and found the doctor dying on a bench with a bullet wound behind the right ear. Dr. McKenzie died soon afterward and his body was taken to Thurston's undertaking rooms, 857 Fifty-fifth street. An inquest was held and a verdict of suicide returned.

Letters from Brokers Found.

On Dr. McKenzie's body were found several letters from the brokerage firm of S. B. Chapin & Co. It was evident that the physician had been trading heavily in stocks. It was stated that he lost several thousand dollars in the failure of Knight, Donnelley & Co. some months ago. J. W. Douglas, to whom he addresed his last word, said it was likely that the doctor had lost some money in stocks.

In one pocket was found a note saying:

"Owing to the closing of the Washington park racetrack I do not care to live."

E. T. Richardson, a druggist at Michigan avenue and Twenty-third street, knew Dr. McKenzie well. He believes the doctor had been contemplating killing himself for weeks.

"Several days ago," said Richardson, "he wanted me to sell him some prussic acid. I refused it to him because he was acting strangely, and I thought he wanted to kill himself."

Mr. Honoré said the doctor came to Chicago years ago from Oshkosh, Wis.

GILHOOLEY THANKS JUDGE WHO SENDS HIM TO PRISON.

Convicted Slugger Calls Chicago "Hades on Earth," and Declares He Is Glad to Go to the Penitentiary.

Charles Gilhooley, convicted slugger of C. J. Carlstrom, who died after an attack in the carriage workers' strike a year ago, grinned and said "Thanks" yesterday when Judge Chetlain overruled a motion in arrest of judgment and sentenced him to the penitentiary with a fine of $2,000. Then Gilhooley summoned his peculiar philosophy and described Chicago as a "hades on earth."

"Of course I thanked the judge," confided Gilhooley in the jail, later. "Ain't he to be thanked for getting me out of Chicago? I've lived here all my life. I always said it was a bad burg, and I've seen a good deal, but this place certainly is getting worse all the time.

"If it's comin' easy and you're a boss, you've got to stand for bein' bled for coin to pay big lawyers, and you've got to put up to help fight the union, besides givin' the double cross to the guy who thinks he's independent and makes his livin' by fightin' the unions for you in strike times. Nobody's on the square except your mother or your wife."

In the same case Marcus Looney was given a penitentiary sentence and fined $1,000, and Edward Shields, Charles Deutsche, Henry J. Newman, Charles Casey, and John Helden were sentenced to the penitentiary. Shields also thanked Judge Chetlain for his kindness.

FIXTURE HANGERS' UNION SAYS EMPLOYERS CONSPIRE.

Accuses Them of Trying Unsuccessfully to Drive Out Independents by Using Labor Organization Illegally.

The Gas and Electrical Fixture Hangers' union delivered a "come back" to the charges made by the Brass Manufacturers' association that the union was responsible for the slugging of W. S. Edwards Monday evening.

Edward Nockels, secretary of the Chicago Federation of Labor and the founder of the brass workers' union, declared that the Brass Manufacturers' association was a trust and it was the efforts of the trust to make an illegal contract with the union to the detriment of business men outside of the organization that caused the trouble.

According to Nockels, an offer was made to the union men of a scale of $5 a day if the men would agree to a clause forbidding the unionists to work for independent manufacturers. It was such an agreement as this that resulted in the indictment of nineteen sheet metal contractors on charges of organizing an illegal combination in 1903.

The condition of Mr. Edwards, victim of the slugging, remains serious, attending physicians being unable to say whether he will recover. Assistant Chief Schuettler says the arrest of his assailants is but the matter of a short time.

COURT CUTS MANILA KNOT

GIVES DIVORCE TO MRS. RUBY NORTH-TUMMON.

She Tells of Traveling to Philippines in 1903 to Marry Army Officer—His Letter Recounts Being Dismissed from Regiment for "Fool Break," Then from Position in Chicago—Declares He Is Cursed with Champagne Taste and Beer Income.

After traveling 10,000 miles in 1903 to marry Robert S. North-Tummon, a United States army officer in the Philippines, Mrs. Ruby Murrell North-Tummon obtained a divorce yesterday in Judge McEwen's court. North-Tummon deserted his wife in Chicago on March 14 last, and at the time left a letter expressing his hopelessness, and threatening suicide. The letter was introduced as evidence. North-Tummon is said to be in Georgia.

The letter, which he wrote his wife, follows:

"Dear Ruby: When you read this I will be gone, either dead or have left you again. If I am dead you will know it. The only thing that keeps me from it now is that I am a coward and am afraid to die.

"Though I ought to die, I am no use to you dead, I know, but I am still less use to you alive. This is the culminating failure of a life, which has been full of them, and this is the worst of all. I have been trying to make up my mind what to do for six weeks, and I know less now than I did at the start.

Aphasia Growing Worse.

"I have been fired from my position because I could not do things an ordinary schoolboy could, though I have tried hard enough. Besides, I have aphasia in a mild form, but it has been getting worse for the last year, and in another I will be fit for an asylum.

"I always have been a fool, and always will be one. I suppose it will all end in my following Billy von Seldeneck's example and blowing off the top of my head. You have been a good wife, and I have been more than a brute. You are sick and need me now, and it is the realization that my hands are tied that renders me desperate.

Champagne Taste, Beer Income.

"It seems that I am bound to be a curse. My fool break was at Fort Slocum. I always had a champagne taste with a beer income. I am nearly 28 years old, and have made no progress in the world. We have depended upon your father for support. You are well rid of me. Believe me, dear, when I tell you for the last time I love you, and I am a poor, weak thing. Between starvation and the divorce court you had better take the latter. Forget me and all will be well. Farewell and God bless you. ROBERT."

After returning from Manila North-Tummon was stationed at Fort Slocum, in New York. It is said that he passed worthless checks on some of his friends there. After this he and Mrs. North-Tummon came to Chicago and he obtained employment. She charged that he beat her several times.

Henry L. Dreyer and Mrs. Dreyer, 1424 Graceland avenue, testified in her behalf.

Mrs. North-Tummon, who was given her maiden name, Ruby Murrell Terry, formerly lived in New Rochelle, N. Y. Her parents are said to be wealthy. Since she was deserted in Chicago by North-Tummon she has been living at 1424 Graceland avenue.

Joseph Andrews Sues His Wife.

Joseph H. Andrews, a real estate dealer living at the Calumet club, asked the Superior court to divorce him from his wife, whom he charges with desertion. The bill sets forth that the two were married Sept. 21, 1899, and that the desertion took place on May 3, 1900.

COAL STRIKE RAISES PRICE OF MANUFACTURED ICE.

At Least This Is the Reason Given by Dealers in Advancing Rates Parallel to That on Natural Product.

Now that warm weather is here the price of manufactured ice will rise in sympathy with that of ice harvested during the winter.

"The plea of "short crop" and "scarcity" cannot be used, however, in the case of the manufactured article. The cause is said to be the higher price of coal, which is alleged to raise the expense of the ice making plants.

The Fredriksen Ice company, manufacturers of distilled water ice, with offices at 34 South Clark street, have sent out an announcement to customers, as follows:

"On account of the scarcity of ice, the increased expense of delivery, and the advanced prices we are forced to pay for steam coal, we are obliged to increase our charge for cooler service to $2.50 a month, to go into effect next Thursday, May 17."

TUNNEL-TROLLEY PLANS FINISHED.

Draft of Ordinance Ready to Go to Transportation Committee Today.

COMPANIES MAY OBJECT.

Expert Dupont Says Cost of Removing Obstructions Is Overestimated.

Maj. Edgar B. Tolman, attorney for the River Improvement association, completed the draft of the tunnel lowering and trolleyizing ordinance yesterday noon. He sent copies to W. W. Gurley of the Union Traction company and "Dr." Walter L. Fisher, representing Mayor Dunne. They returned them with a few suggestions for minor changes in the matter of wording, and the ordinance will be passed on finally this morning. The promise is that it will be ready for the meeting of the local transportation committee this afternoon.

There does not appear to be any opposition to the ordinance anywhere, and it is expected to go through the committee without objection. Any amendments which may be suggested will be trivial and not of a kind to produce prolonged discussion.

Where Trouble Is Expected.

The prophesied trouble for the committee meeting is when the question of making an arrangement with the traction companies on the lines of the mayor's Werno letter comes up. Nobody pretends to say exactly where the trouble is coming from, but everybody seems to have an idea it is coming. Still it is the rule in all council matters that when everybody is looking for trouble there is none.

Both the Chicago City and Union Traction companies, as well as the underlying companies of the latter corporation have notified the committee they are willing to negotiate with the Werno letter as a basis.

There is considerable difference, however, between negotiating and coming to an agreement. The letter of the mayor is extremely general, setting forth a number of principles, but going into no details in explanation of them. The street car men will ask exactly what is meant and then the debate will begin.

A. B. Dupont, who is expected to be the mayor's head of the bureau of local transportation as soon as the tunnel lowering ordinance is passed, said he thought the tops could be taken off the tunnels and the remainder preserved for future use for much less than the $365,000 the city engineers had figured on. He said if it were not a hurry up job the work could be done for $60,000 a tunnel, but even in emergency work it ought not to cost more than $75,000.

Suit to Be Argued Today.

Judge Grosscup will this morning call up the case of the North and West Chicago companies against the Union Traction. The evidence is all in and all that is now left is the argument. The judge will have two of his associates sit with him.

This is the suit in which the underlying companies are trying to break the leases of their property to the Union Traction.

PHONE KICKS WIN REFUND

COMPANY TO GIVE CITY MONEY FOR SUBSCRIBERS.

Sum Said to Be Around $200,000 Expected to Be Handed Back—Patrons Who Protested at $175 Charge, Wrote Letters to the Corporation, and Received Replies Will Be the Only Beneficiaries of the Distribution—Mayor May Get Names Today.

Persistent "kickers" against the excessive rates charged by the Chicago Telephone company now stand a chance of getting some of their money back without much delay.

It became known yesterday that Attorney John Barton Payne, representing the company, practically has agreed to hand over a sum of money said to aggregate $200,000 to the city for distribution to subscribers who three years ago made written protests against the collection of $175 a year for telephone service which, according to the ordinance, should have cost only $125.

The only persons who will stand a show of getting a refund from the company are those who protested and who received a reply to their protests. The reply was in the form of a letter stating that the subscriber might pay $125 a year and give a bond for the other $50 pending the outcome of litigation or could pay the $175 rate with the understanding that the excess should be refunded without interest in case it finally should be decided by the courts that the $175 rate was illegal.

Says Letter Is a Contract.

Corporation Counsel J. Hamilton Lewis holds that the letter sent to the "kickers" was equivalent to a contract. The telephone company's attorney refuses to admit that such is the case. It is understood that the suggestion to repay the subscribers was made under what the company calls "considerations of equity and a desire to be fair to its subscribers."

The company maintains that the question of rates has not been settled finally by the courts, and will reserve the claim of its right to collect the excess charges in the improbable case it finally gains a legal excuse to enforce its charges.

Mayor to Get List Today.

A list of telephone subscribers who received the letter from the company is being made up, and will be placed in the hands of the mayor today. The mayor said yesterday he was unable to make any statement about the matter pending the arrival of legal advice from Corporation Counsel Lewis.

It is estimated that from 4,000 to 5,000 subscribers received the letters.

JUDGE IS SUED BY LOAN AGENT.

N. P. Valerius Names Chetlain in Court Action to Recover on Notes for $1,185.

Judge Arthur H. Chetlain was made defendant in a suit filed in the Circuit court yesterday by N. P. Valerius, a loan agent at 77 Jackson boulevard, who seeks to collect on two notes which he alleges are overdue. The amount named in the suit is $1,500, but the notes amount to $1,185. With the judge, E. B. Dennison and John H. Curtis, securities on the notes, are named as defendants. According to the attorney for the loan agent, the judge obtained $785 last fall on a note due in six months and $400 on a note due in four months. Neither has been paid, Valerius alleges, and the suit is for collection.

OIL TRUST DENIES ILLEGAL TACTICS

Standard's Board of Directors Replies at Length to Garfield Charges.

THEORIZING, NOT FACTS.

Answer Cites Tariffs on Illinois and Other Shipments as Evidence.

New York, May 16.—The Standard Oil company today issued to its shareholders a statement in reply to the special message recently sent to congress by President Roosevelt and the report on the country's oil industry by Commissioner Garfield of the bureau of corporations, which accompanied it.

The statement is signed by C. M. Pratt, secretary, and was issued by order of the board of directors. It denies positively the charge that the Standard Oil company benefited by secret rates for the transportation of its products.

"Whatever measure of prosperity it has enjoyed," says the statement, "is not traceable to illegal or reprehensible methods, but to its economic industrial organization, covering as it does every detail of transportation, manufacture, and administration."

The statement declares that the estimate that the company saves $750,000 a year through the operation of certain freight rates could only have been arrived at by theorizing.

Theorizing in Charges.

The statement in part says:

"On May 4 the president of the United States submitted a special message to congress transmitting a report to him by Commissioner Garfield of the bureau of corporations in which the commissioner charges that this company has 'habitually received from the railroads and is now receiving secret rebates and other unjust and illegal discriminations.'

"The large sums of money which Mr. Garfield sets down as one year's 'savings' to the Standard through the operation of certain freight rates—sums which the president aggregates as $750,000—could only have been arrived at by theorizing.

"If the claim of Commissioner Garfield was true that the Standard is favored by open rates it would involve not only collusion between the railroads and the Standard Oil company but collusion by the railroads with each other. It also would involve the consent of a railroad not reaching Whiting, Ind., for example, to the establishment of rates out of that point which would be injurious to business out of another point at which the consenting railroad was receiving traffic. To bring about such an arrangement would be impossible. It may be said, generally, that there is a competing refinery in almost every section of the United States where the Standard has a refinery except Whiting, Ind.

Denies Collusion in Rates.

"No rates can be made applicable to the Standard which will not be equally applicable to the Standard's competitors.

"After an investigation of shipments during a period of about fifteen years, over more than 200,000 miles of railway, the commissioner is not able to show that the Standard Oil company received a single rebate on its interstate shipments. He has only been able to call attention to a few instances in which the rate situation, in his opinion, required explanation. This explanation was freely given, and, we believe, would be satisfactory to any man familiar with transportation problems.

"If the commissioner had any doubts as to the regularity of these rates he might have brought them to the attention of the interstate commerce commission, when the question at issue could have been heard and determined. In the absence of such determination it is surely not within the limits of fairness for the bureau of corporations to cast aspersions upon a great corporation.

"The company owns and controls only a moderate percentage of the crude production of the United States, and with at least 125 rival refineries in existence, it is a palpable absurdity to call it a monopoly. For the last quarter of a century more than 60 per cent of its output has been shipped to foreign countries. In creating and sustaining this vast foreign trade the company has encountered innumerable obstacles and incessant competition from other petroleum industries possessing the advantage of geographical location and cheaper labor, and which are oftentimes developed under the fostering care of their respective governments."

Taking up the report of Commissioner Garfield under various heads, the statement relative to New England says:

"Mr. Garfield opens his detailed instances with the alleged refusal of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad and the Boston and Maine railroad to prorate on oil, the inference being that this gave an undue advantage to the Standard because the latter reached coast points in New England by water and distributed oil thence by rail to the interior."

These charges are denied, as also are the Garfield charges that the Standard Oil company has maintained 'absolute control' of the section of country south of the Ohio river and east of the Mississippi through 'secret' rates and open discriminations from Whiting, Ind."

Refers to Illinois Rates.

Under the heading, "Rate to East St. Louis," the statement says:

"Mr. Garfield complains of the application of a rate of 6 cents a hundred pounds on oil from Whiting, Ind., to East St. Louis, Ill., claiming that it was a 'secret' rate and that in the matter of way billing by the railroads manipulation was resorted to with the knowledge of the Standard Oil officials.

"About 1890, when the refinery had been established at Whiting, Ind., the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy railway named to the Standard Oil company a rate of 6 cents a hundred pounds, and issued and sent to the Standard Oil company a rate sheet from Chicago to East St. Louis, Ill. At the same time it advised the Standard Oil company that under its rules the state rate of 6 cents a hundred pounds would apply, not only from Chicago proper, but from all points both in Illinois and Indiana, within in the so-called Chicago switching limits, and that under such rules it would absorb the switching charge per car from Whiting to its own rails, thus applying the 6 cent rate from Whiting to East St. Louis.

"Subsequently the Chicago and Alton and the Chicago and Eastern Illinois solicited a share of the business at the same rate, and the business was divided between the three roads. For several years the three roads applied the 6 cent rate from Whiting under their widely known rule, understood by every carload shipper in Chicago and vicinity—viz.: that Chicago rates would apply to and from all points within the switching limits. A number of these points are just across the border in Indiana and are the seat of important industries—viz.: Whiting, East Chicago, Hammond, and Indiana Harbor. The application of Chicago rates to and from these points within the switching limits is of long usage and concerns not only the shipment of oil from Whiting to points in Illinois, but the shipments of many other lines of goods to similar points.

Cites Former Rates.

"Several years ago the railroads covered the matter more specifically by filing with the interstate commerce commission so-called 'application sheets,' providing that any rate named from Chicago to a point in Illinois or beyond, down to a minimum of 6 cents per 100 pounds in carloads, would apply from all points in Illinois or Indiana within the Chicago switching limits. Common usage established the principle of applying Chicago rates from points within the Chicago switching limits up to the time the practice was covered by application sheets filed with the interstate commerce commission.

"With the method of way billing, which is purely an accounting matter between the railroad agents and the railroad auditor, the shipper necessarily has nothing to do. Commissioner Garfield insisted that the Standard Oil company must have known of the method of manifesting until it was pointed out to him with extreme care that the Chicago-East St. Louis roads hauling the traffic did not reach Whiting, and that the cars were switched to them by a Chicago switching road. All the Standard Oil company knows of this transaction is that it delivered cars to the switching road at Whiting, consigned to East St. Louis, and that the carrying roads collected freight from the Standard Oil company at the regular rate of 6 cents per 100 pounds. There was no secrecy about it.

Lack of Discrimination Shown.

"While dwelling upon what he considers a low rate used by the Standard from Whiting to East St. Louis, Mr. Garfield fails to mention that in 1896, and later, the same rate on oil was in force by the Illinois Central railroad from Kankakee, Ill., to East St. Louis, for the benefit of a plant located at Kankakee, and in which the Standard was in no way interested. The same road made a rate for the same shipper of 1½ cents a hundred pounds from Kankakee to Chicago, a distance of fifty-six miles.

"During the time the competitive plant was in operation at Kankakee the roads running west and northwest from Chicago absorbed on shipments destined to points on their lines $8 per car of the rate from Kankakee to Chicago, and as the rate was only 1½ cents a hundred pounds, it resulted in the application of Chicago rates from Kankakee the same as were applied from Whiting."

Tells of Kansas Charges.

On the Kansas situation the statement says:

"In this section of the report the only reference to Kansas is that there are some 'unfair open rates,' a matter too vague to answer, and the statement that 'a more important discrimination' lies in the arbitrary weights fixed by the railroads on crude and fuel oil. As known to every shipper of oil in the United States, it has been the general custom of the railroads to assess the weights of all liquid products of petroleum at an estimated average of 6.4 pounds a gallon, and it is so expressed in the tariffs. This includes fuel oil, which weighs more than 6.4 pounds a gallon, and gasoline and naphthas, which weigh less. Every refiner in the United States makes interstate shipments under these conditions. An exception, however, to this general rule was made by the roads running out of Kansas.

"Shortly after oil was produced in large quantities in Kansas the Kansas railroads decided that since the producers of crude oil had no light products—gasolines, naphthas—to offer, that would go towards constituting an average, they would pay the actual weight on the individual product that they offered for transportation. On the theory that crude oil was not included in the general average of 6.4 pounds the Kansas railroads applied a weight of 7.4 pounds to crude oil. The Standard Oil company, as explained to Mr. Garfield, objected to the advanced weight on crude oil, but its objection was unheeded by the railroads, and yet, notwithstanding the foregoing explanation, the commissioner includes the Kansas weight rule in the list of things making for favoritism from the railroads to the Standard Oil company."

Charges of rebates, secret rates, and overcharges in California, the statement says, apply to other producers as well as the Standard.

IRISH AND ITALIANS IN FEUD; LIFE CHEAP IN EXCAVATION.

Company in Which August Belmont Is Interested Held Responsible for Wholesale Deaths of Foreigners.

New York, May 16.—[Special.]—According to Coroner Acritelli, lawlessness, with life held as cheap as dirt, reigned for months in the excavation which the O'Rourke Construction company is making for the new grand central station. He has demanded an investigation. The coroner today caused the arrest of John Eldridge, general superintendent of the O'Rourke company, and held him in $1,000 bail on a charge of homicide. He issued a subpœna for the president of the corporation and all its general foremen and said he might subpœna August Belmont, who, it is said, is a silent partner.

"There has been an average of two deaths a day among the Italian employés of the O'Rourke company ever since I took office," said Coroner Acritelli. "The records will bear me out in this statement. Not satisfied with mangling them to death, they have taken to shooting them. Men are crushed and smashed to death, and when a policeman tries on I try to get the facts we are told it is none of our business. Only three weeks ago an Italian laborer was shot in the back, hoisted to the sidewalk, and thrown into a gutter. A policeman who tried to find out about the shooting was told to get out or he would get what the dead man got.

"I have pretty good evidence of a feud between Irish and Italian laborers. It seems some poor fool Italian didn't know how to handle dynamite. It went off and killed an Irishman. Ever since then ledges of rock have had a way of falling upon unfortunate Italians."

FIRST SUNSTROKE COMES EARLY

Jonathan Fish, 9 Orchard Street, Victim of Premature Summer Weather—May Records Broken.

Midsummer weather came to Chicago prematurely yesterday, with the result that one man was overcome by the heat. Jonathan Fish, 31 years old, 9 Orchard street, was prostrated by the heat while walking in Fullerton avenue, near Clybourn. He fell in a faint and was taken to the Alexian Brothers' hospital.

All records for uncomfortable May weather were broken when the thermometer registered 88 degree at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. This was more than 30 degrees above the normal temperature for May 16.

The mean temperature of 79 degrees for the day was remarkable, as against the normal mean of 55 degrees for this time of the year. Continued warm weather and probable thunder storms are prophesied for today. The thirty mile southwest wind which prevailed is expected to continue.

OBITUARY.

GEN. JOHN MACARTHUR, seventeenth postmaster of Chicago and a civil war hero, died yesterday at his home, 504 West Monroe street. Gen. MacArthur was born in Scotland Nov. 17, 1826, and emigrated to America in 1849, coming directly to Chicago. He was a machinist and blacksmith, and in 1858 began the manufacture of steam boilers. In 1855 he was third lieutenant of the Highland guards in this city. At the close of the war Gen. MacArthur returned to Chicago, and from 1866 to 1872 served as commissioner of public works. President Grant appointed him postmaster of the city Dec. 18, 1872, and he served until March, 1877.

After being graduated from Yale in 1902, Mr. Coffeen entered the employ of Granger Farwell & Co. He served in their Chicago offices a little more than a year and then was transferred to their New York office as manager. Ill health compelled him to resign last August. He died on Tuesday.

MRS. GEORGE W. VAUX, wife of the assistant general passenger agent of the Grand Trunk railroad, died at the home of her parents in Montreal yesterday afternoon after an illness lasting more than a year. The Chicago home of Mr. and Mrs. Vaux was in Oak Park. She is survived by Mr. Vaux and three children. The funeral services will be held tomorrow. Interment will be at Montreal.

CONGRESS TO GET ALL REBATE FACTS

Another Garfield Report on Standard Oil Methods to Be Transmitted Today.

MAKES COLLUSION CLEAR.

Full Statement by Commissioner to Be Withheld for Present; Removes Every Doubt.

BY JOHN CALLAN O'LAUGHLIN.

Washington, D. C., May 16.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt will transmit to congress tomorrow an additional report by Commissioner of Corporations Garfield, which will show in detail the methods pursued by the Standard Oil company to obtain rebates from railroad corporations.

Mr. Garfield's report on other features of the inquiry is to be withheld for the present, a decision having been reached at a conference at the White house Monday night to reserve information which might be of service to the department of justice in prosecution of violators of the anti-rebate and anti-trust laws.

The president will not send a special message with the report. He will send merely a letter in which he will refer congress to the message he submitted at the time he submitted the preliminary report of Commissioner Garfield. This undoubtedly will be construed as a reiteration of the charges and recommendations he made in that document. The full report of Mr. Garfield gives facts with such precision as to leave no room for doubt that railroads and the Standard Oil company acted in collusion to violate the law regarding rebates.

Will Smash Oil Men's Answer.

The answer of Mr. Rogers and Mr. Archbold of the Standard Oil and President Cassatt of the Pennsylvania system to the charges preferred will be controverted by Mr. Garfield in such a complete manner as to leave no doubt in the mind of any fair minded person that rebates were granted by railroads to the Standard Oil company in the amounts and at the times described in the preliminary report.

Mr. Garfield reasserts that the New England territory has been cited by the Standard Oil company because of the refusal of the New York, New Haven and Hartford and Boston and Maine, on all but a few divisions, to join in through rates on oil shipped from west of the Hudson river; that the Standard has controlled for many years the sale or oil in northeastern New York and in a portion of Vermont by means of secret rates from its refineries at Olean and Rochester; that the Standard has maintained absolute control of almost the whole section of the country south of the Ohio river and east of the Mississippi through secret rates and open discriminations from Whiting, Ind.; that in the Kansas territory field unfair open rates prevailed in numerous instances, and more important discrimination has occurred in arbitrary rates fixed by railroads on crude oil and fuel oil; that in California direct rebates and discriminations have been enjoyed by the Standard; and that the open published rates from Whiting into a large part of the United States have given the Standard an unfair advantage of from 1 to 12 cents per hundred pounds.

How long the publication of the monopoly section of the report of Mr. Garfield will be delayed has not yet been determined. The interstate commerce commission hopes to lay before congress a preliminary report on the whole subject of the operations of the Standard before the close of the present session.

Two Reports to Give Complete Facts.

It had been the purpose to have the Garfield report presented before the interstate commerce commission submitted the results of its labors. What is likely to happen is that the two reports will go to congress about simultaneously. The effect would be, of course, to rouse the country over the enormity of the illegal practices of the oil octopus and bring about the reforms the president considers essential.

On account of the rate bill fight not much progress has been made in respect to the passage of the bill limiting the extent of immunity enjoyed by persons and corporations who are compelled to give evidence concerning their own business affairs. The finance committee of the senate had expected to report several days ago the bill removing the revenue on denaturized alcohol, but it has been impossible to secure a full meeting of the committee because of the rate fight and also because of the differences which have developed among members of the committee in regard to the changes which should be made in the house measure. At least, this is the excuse.

Anxious About Alcohol Law.

Then there is grave anxiety shown to modify the sweeping bill passed by the house. That measure appropriated $250,000 for the expenses of the enforcement of the proposed law. It confides to the treasury department the duty of promulgating the regulations under which alcohol may be withdrawn from bond without the payment of internal revenue taxes. The senate committee claims it is not advisable to give money and authority to an executive officer without instructions as to how to use them. It is of the opinion that congress should state specifically what he ought to do.

Senator Teller told the committee, for instance, that there were some regulations of government departments absolutely in defiance of the statute. The committee practically is unanimous in the view that congress must describe specifically the way in which the alcohol shall be withdrawn and denaturized. The committee also is troubled by the loss of revenue—or, rather, several members interested in the Standard Oil company have evinced considerable concern over this point.

Although Senator Aldrich has stated he favors the legislation, he told the committee the estimate that there would be a loss of only $500,000 or $600,000 in the revenue was "very much too low."

"We may as well look this thing squarely in the face," he said. "If this amounts to anything at all it will amount to a great deal more money than that. In 1891 we undoubtedly had nine or ten millions used in the arts. Just what proportion of that would be used now I do not know; nobody can tell. It certainly will reduce the revenue much more than $600,000 if it amounts to anything at all. I am not mentioning that to change anybody's views as to this legislation, but we might as well look the thing squarely in the face. You may get a reduction of revenue amounting to five or six million dollars and you may not; you cannot tell."

CZAR BOWS TO THE DOUMA

WILL GRANT AMNESTY AND ABOLISH COUNCIL IF NECESSARY.

New Parliament Takes First Long Stride to Liberty by Adoption of the Most Important Features of Platform — Plank Covering Women's Suffrage Is Snowed Under—Passionate Speeches Mark Discussion of Reply to Czar's Message.

ST. PETERSBURG, May 16.—In spite of the fear that parliament's reply to the speech from the throne would precipitate an immediate conflict between the crown and parliament, it is asserted Emperor Nicholas is determined to avoid a breach if possible. Not only will partial amnesty be granted, but the emperor is ready to replace the Goremykin ministry with a cabinet chosen from among the conservative members of the majority in the lower house in the hope of effecting a compromise.

He is not willing, however, to permit the majority to select the premier; but once such a concession is made it is difficult to understand how the emperor can halt half way and refuse a full constitutional monarchy which government by parliamentary majorities involves. Practically the parliament already has won a great victory.

The radical appeals for declarations in favor of woman suffrage and a secret direct ballot were snowed under overwhelmingly, one gray haired peasant voicing the sentiments of his class in the words, "We do not want our women to vote; we prefer that they should stay at home."

When parliament reassembled at 11 o'clock this morning the excited frame of mind of the members was evidenced by the long list of speakers submitted even before President Mouromtseff had called the house to order. Every member seemed to feel himself charged with a message from his constituents which he must deliver.

Amnesty Plank Is Adopted.

In spite of the all prevailing craving for the rostrum, the house, after the evening recess, finished the general discussion of the address and took up for deliberation the separate planks of the document, adopting the first four before adjournment. These were: General amnesty; abolition of the death penalty; suspension of martial law, and of all exceptional laws; full civil liberty.

From the outset words in favor of moderation were few and far between. Seminoff, a social revolutionist from Saratoff, was the first speaker. Amid wild applause he declared that the reply to the speech from the throne was too weak. Parliament, he said, was evidently content with less than the people. The peasants, he said, were so revolutionary "that only a spark was required to kindle a conflagration, and anarchy and destruction were certain if the demands of the peasants were not satisfied immediately."

Radical Speeches Are Made.

Zabilotny of Podolsk province, a lawyer elected by the peasants, spoke passionately in favor of the abolition of the death penalty saying that the country already had too many catacombs.

The most sensational speech delivered was that of Mikhailechenko, a workman of Yekaterinoslav, who said he spoke for the proletarian class "which had nothing to lose except its chains and which proposed to fight to the bitter end for freedom and against the system (waving his hand toward the right) which seeks to protect those who fatten upon the people's money."

Member of Douma Killed.

BAKU, May 16.—M. Jakovleff, who was the candidate of the constitutional democrats for member of the lower house of parliament, was shot today by two unknown men, and died in the hospital.

FEAR MORE TROUBLE IN LUZON.

Three Thousand United States Soldiers Preparing for Extensive Field Operations in the Philippines.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

MANILA, May 16.—All troops in Luzon are preparing for extensive field movements in the disaffected provinces of northern Luzon. Three thousand troops will take part in this demonstration.

Two hundred constabulary are now moving on Salvador's band, which is estimated to number seventy-five rifles.

The constabulary post at San Rafael, in the province of Bulacan, north of Manila, was aroused at 2 o'clock this morning to repel an attack by brigands. The armed band attempted to rush to the barracks, approaching on three sides, but their presence was detected in good time, and the constabulary dispersed them. The constabulary suffered no loss of life.

MILITIA RULES NEW YORK TOWN

Four Companies Ordered from Albany to Protect Workmen at Coeymans.

TOOK HIS OWN GIFTS.

Lewis Tewksbury Says Ex-Wife Tries to Jail Him for This Offense.

NEW YORK BUREAU CHICAGO TRIBUNE. New York, May 16.

Martial Law in Village Near Albany.

What is practically martial law reigns tonight at Coeymans, a town on the west bank of the Hudson river twelve miles south of Albany. The strike of the brick makers, in force all along the Hudson, broke into riot there early this morning, and after a pitched battle between the 500 union strikers and nearly as many negro nonunion men, in which one man was severely wounded, Sheriff Pitts was called from Albany. He decided that he and his deputy could not suppress the riot, and four Albany companies of militia, about 250 strong, constituting the Second battalion of the Tenth regiment, were ordered to Coeymans, arriving there early this evening.

The yards are expected to begin work as usual tomorrow under the guard of the troops.

Prosecuted for Taking Own Presents.

Lewis G. Tewksbury, who has been known as Louis Thorne in Mexico, and Lewis Green in Paris, a change of names being a useful help to his skyrocket financial operations, testified before Recorder Goff today that he had given much money and jewelry to his former wife, Mrs. Mary Nilis Grunhut, who is now trying to put him in jail. He asserts that whatever he got from her was only what he had given her. She says she never got anything from him.

Tewksbury will know tomorrow what the jury thinks about it.

Tewksbury said he started as a druggist in New Hampshire, and that after he came to this city he made $1,500,000. He invested about $1,000,000 in government bonds. After he became engaged to Mrs. Grunhut he gave her about $25,000 in cash and jewelry worth fully that.

"And I made her a present of $100,000 in government bonds," Tewksbury added laconically.

Museum Association to Be Pan-American.

Representatives of museums in North and South America, who are meeting here for the purpose of forming an international association, today decided that the new body should admit to its membership representatives of museums and such other institutions as shall be made eligible from all countries in the western hemisphere and their dependencies. The organization is to be called the American Association of Museums. H. C. Bumpus, director of the American Museum of Natural History, New York City, was elected president.

Dr. William M. R. French, director of the Chicago Art institute, was elected first vice president; Dr. W. J. Holland, director of the Carnegie museum of Pittsburg, second vice president; George A. Dorsey of the Field Museum of Natural History, Chicago, secretary; and Dr. William P. Wilson, director of the Philadelphia museum, treasurer.

Resolutions were presented, and under the rules, referred to the council without debate. Among them was a resolution memorializing the trustees of the Carnegie Teachers' Foundation to make curators of museums which are members of the association of museums eligible to that fund.

J. W. Van Cleave, St. Louis, Manufacturers' Head.

J. W. Van Cleave of St Louis was today elected president of the National Association of Manufacturers. The new president in an address stated that he is ready to fight for the interests of the association, "with an ax if necessary." Francis H. Stillman of New York City was elected treasurer. The association will meet next year in St. Louis.

GET DRINKS WITHOUT BAR

IROQUOIS CLUB MEMBERS NOW SERVE THEMSELVES.

New $1,000 License Causes Thirst Department to Be Closed—Then a Golf Club Member Who Had an Idea Tried It, and So Did Others—Beer and Whisky Continue to Be in Demand by Members of Democratic Organization.

"Every man his own bartender" is the motto at the Iroquois club these days. No longer do the members lounge around the smoking room, and when they feel thirsty tap a bell and tell the waiter to bring them a "Scotch high" or a plebeian beer, as their tastes may suggest. They hustle out to the steward's room and serve themselves.

The $1,000 liquor license is the cause of it all. The advocates of that measure little thought, when they were arguing it would close up objectionable saloons, that the bar of the Iroquois club would be the first one in town affected. Yet that is what happened.

Two weeks ago directors of the club held a meeting to pass on the question of taking out a license. They decided they could not afford it. In spite of the popular impression that democrats drink all the whisky the books showed that the profits of the bar last year were not enough to more than pay the $500 license, and the higher one was out of the question. So they ordered the bar closed.

Golfer Has an Idea; It Works.

For a time the club was a prohibition territory. Then a bright idea struck one of the members. He is a member of a golf club, where, like at all golf clubs, such members as feel the need of stimulants keep a bottle of their particular brand in their lockers. He wanted to know why they could not do a similar thing at the Iroquois club. Nobody knew any good reason why they could not, so they proceeded to do it.

Accordingly, each member now lays in his own supplies. If his taste runs to whisky, he has his individual bottle, much as some smokers have their individual box of cigars at the cigar stands. If he prefers beer, he orders a case. Then when the pleasant hour comes, either in the afternoon or evening, he brings out his individual bottle of whisky or draws on his individual case of beer, and everything is satisfactory.

Miss a Stolen Drink? Not Yet.

Some croakers predicted that trouble might ensue out of a member finding his own bottle empty and in a moment of "unconscious assimilation" appropriating the full bottle of a fellow but absent member. So far, however, nothing of that sort has happened, or if it has the owner of the once full bottle made no complaint about it.

OIL CAN STORED IN STOVE CAUSES AN ALARM OF FIRE.

Woman During Housecleaning Puts Away Inflammable Fluid and Forgets About It Until Firemen Arrive.

Mrs. Lizzie White, 3131 Cottage Grove avenue, usually has a place for everything and usually puts everything in its proper place. There was an exception to this rule yesterday morning, however, when a can of linseed oil that she stored in a stove caught fire. Two days ago she put the linseed oil in the stove. Then she forgot about it. Yesterday morning at 10 o'clock she decided to bake some bread.

She lighted the range and two minutes later the house was filled with smoke. Somebody turned in a fire alarm and the Tenth battalion of the fire department responded. The firemen plunged through blinding smoke but found no fire. Then one of them spied the range. The linseed oil was burning fiercely. A fireman threw the can of oil out the window.

Then, it is said, he made a few remarks that will not be among those in Chief Campion's annual report to the council. Mrs. White has decided she never again will use linseed oil in housecleaning.

BOY'S HEAD ONE SOLID SORE

Hair All Came Out and He Suffered Very Much—Under Doctor Three Months and No Better—Permanently Cured at Expense of $2.

CUTICURA REMEDIES WORK WONDERS

Mr. A. C. Barnett, proprietor of a general store in Avard, Oklahoma, tells in the following grateful letter how Cuticura cured him and his son of terrible eczemas:

"My little boy had eczema. His head was one solid sore, all over his scalp; his hair all came out, and he suffered very much. I had a physician treat him, but at the end of three months he was no better. I remembered that the Cuticura Remedies had cured me, and after giving him two bottles of Cuticura Resolvent, according to directions, and using Cuticura Soap and Ointment on him daily, his eczema left him, his hair grew again, and neither he nor myself have had any eczema since.

As to his own case, Mr. Barnett says: "I suffered with eczema, a burning, itching, breaking out on my face for more than a year. I took treatment from physicians for several months, which did no good. I was then advised to try Cuticura. I took six bottles of Cuticura Resolvent, and used Cuticura Soap and Ointment freely every day. I began to improve soon after starting to use them, and when I had taken the six bottles of the Resolvent my face had become clear, I had good color, and all eruptions had left me.

"We use the Cuticura Soap and Ointment in our family now for general use, and it keeps our skin soft and healthy. I cheerfully recommend the Cuticura Remedies for all cases of eczema. (signed) A. C. Barnett, Avard, Oklahoma, Mar. 30, 1905."

NATIONALS AGAIN LEAD THE LEAGUE

Ten Inning Victory Over Philadelpha; New York Loses in Pittsburg.

SCHULTE DRIVES IN RUN.

Only Tally of the Game Comes After a Long and Well Played Contest.

Frank Schulte put the Chicago Nationals into the lead for the third time this season with a two base drive yesterday right along the same groove Tinker sent one the day before, and at almost the same time by the clock. Cut after the same pattern, the opening game of the Philadelphia series bore more than a family resemblance to the closing game with Brooklyn. There were a few slightly different features. The score was 1 to 0 instead of 2 to 1. The finish came in the last half of the tenth instead of the ninth, and there was one out instead of two at the time.

But in the main the two contests might have been turned out by the same machine. It was another battle of pitchmeisters, with Lundgren and Duggleby starring, and it was fought grimly and brilliantly to the end by both teams. It was another day when Chicago kept threatening to win away off, but just couldn't put the runs over the plate until the auspicious instant came, and then it was easy.

Great Pitching by Lundgren.

Lundgren had the Phillies tamed all the way. For eight innings they came nowhere near a run, and only one hit was made off him. In the ten innings just two hits were made off Carl, but one of the freaks of the playing rules compelled the absurdity of crediting Titus with a hit in the eighth, because Thomas got in the way of an easy chance for Tinker. It retired the side, and Titus presents the anomaly of getting a hit without getting to first base.

The Spuds accumulated ten good, healthy swats, but Duggleby kept these so well segregated that no one got to the plate on them during the regulation period. The game would have been over in nine innings, however, if Slagle had not paused a moment at first on his hit to left center in the sixth. When he saw Magee fumble an instant Jimmy made a dash for the second station, and got the worst of an awfully close decision from Umpire Klem. Two singles followed that disaster, and Jimmy could have scored even from first on them.

Threaten in Ninth, Win in Tenth.

It looked as if the end had come in the ninth, when Steinfeldt led off with a single. Tinker was next, and might have won another crown with a two bagger, but passed the honor along to his successors, and laid down a pretty sacrifice. Evers tried to find the right field groove, but hit a roller instead, advancing Steinfeldt to third on the out. Then Duggleby worked his thinker. Motioning Dooin to look for wide ones, he deliberately passed Kling on four balls and struck out Lundgren.

Just for that Lundgren blanked the Phillies three in a row in the tenth, and it was all over in short order. Slagle began Chicago's last half with a bunt, which caught Ward off guard, and the Rabbit beat it to first easily. Sheckard sacrificed, and Schulte poled out a liner which shot into the Tinker groove between right and center and bounded gleefully away to the fence, while Steinfeldt put all his spikes into the plate at once to make sure of that one monumental tally.

Spuds Play Like Fiends.

It always was a question of when Chicago would win, not who would win, for, with the scoreboard showing an overwhelming trouncing for the Giants, those Spuds played like fiends, defensively. Lundgren allowed just five men to reach first base altogether, and two of them lived to see second. None went beyond it. And his support, sensational in spots, was clean and fast throughout. Chance and Steinfeldt did the "Circus Solly" stunts, spearing line drives which were meant for slashing singles each time. Nothing got away from them, for first place was in sight. And when Schulte at last hoisted Chicago up over the Giants' shoulders, the shout that went up must have been heard in Pittsburg, if not in Gotham. Score:

Notes of the Nationals' Game.

Philadelphia for three days more.

It's not often that twin games come on successive days.

Charlie Kuhn must have a groove under the turf out there in right center for those winning two base hits.

Schulte not only batted in all the runs, but got three hits off Duggleby. The first two were of the scratch order, partially blocked by the pitcher, but there was nothing suspicious about the last one.

It didn't look possible for Doolin to touch Slagle in that close play at second in the sixth inning, for in the shock of the collision Doolin fell flat over Slagle on the bag. Klem probably argued Doolin ought to have the decision for holding the ball anyway.

The locals kept kicking for a balk on Duggleby's motion in throwing to first to catch a runner, but the enemy's pitcher declined to cut it out. Lundgren came awful close to making one with Magee on first in the seventh, but the visitors couldn't induce Carpenter to allow it.

The crowd was sportsmanlike enough to cheer Duggleby for his headwork in passing Kling in the ninth and striking out Lundgren with a runner at third and two out. The rooter usually charges the visiting pitcher with cowardice when he does that and gets away with it.

Bransfield made a spectacular catch of Sheckard's low fly in the eighth inning, but he took a long and unnecessary chance to do it, for if he had missed the ball it would have been a hit sure, while he had time to take it on an easy bound and retire his man. There was no one on the circuit at the time.

PITTSBURG BLANKS NEW YORK.

Giants Are Given a Crushing Defeat by the Pirates, Who Win by a Score of Eleven to Nothing.

Pittsburg, Pa., May 16.—Pittsburg and New York today met for the first time this season and Pittsburg was an easy winner, hitting the ball at will. Ames retired after the third inning, Ferguson being substituted, and was hit freely. Willis pitched in fine form, only two New York players reaching third base.

SOX WIN FIRST GAME ON TRIP.

Defeat Washington, 6 to 5, in Poorly Played Contest of Ten Innings.

SMITH DRIVEN OFF SLAB.

Visiting Pitcher Weakens with Three Runs' Lead in Tenth; Patterson to Rescue.

Washington, D. C., May 16.—[Special.]—By dint of the hardest kind of labor the White Stockings finally won a game, their first of the trip, when they beat the Senators here today. At that it took ten innings to turn the trick, and the Sox didn't have any leeway to spare either, for the final count was 6 to 5, although they made three runs in the tenth.

The whole game was badly messed. Seven errors were made and only one was on a throw. The rest were plain muffs of fly balls. The Senators started these misplays, which must have been contagious, for the White Sox soon contracted the habit and muffed an equal number of flies.

George Nill's wild throw in the tenth round proved the undoing of the locals. At the time there were visitors at second and third. It was on an attempt to cut down Isbell, tearing home on Donohue's rap, that Nill made the heave to the grand stand and Davis counted, too, while "Jiggs" went on to second. Hahn brought him home with the run, which proved just sufficient, on a single to left.

Smith Proves Wabbly.

For seven innings Frank Smith was well nigh invincible, allowing Stahl's men only three hits. One run was scored in that time through a comedy of errors by the Sox, but not until the eighth did the Stalwarts begin to get next to his delivery. In the tenth they fell heavily on their former terror and Manager Jones rushed Patterson to the rescue. The veteran twirler came just in the nick of time and retired Stahl and Hickman without further damage. It was a critical moment, for had either Stahl or Hickman singled the score would, at least, have been tied up again.

Tom Hughes, seldom good against the White Sox, was not as good as usual today. Comiskey's men hammered him hard all the time and it was only a quetion of how often they would drive the ball to safe territory.

Chicago began scoring in the second inning, when Donohue tripled to left and rode home on Sullivan's single. Hickman's rank muff of Dundon's fly scored "Sully." Another run came in the fifth when Smith duplicated Donohue's triple and O'Neil brought him over with a clean single.

At this point the Senators got into the game with one run. Stahl singled in the fifth and reached second when Dundon muffed Hickman's popup, Otto Williams bunted a foul popup which Sullivan muffed, and then sacrificed. Heydon's fly to O'Neil scored Jake.

Tie Score in Eighth.

Tom Hughes helped tie up the score in the eighth by opening with a triple to right, the ball taking a bad bound over O'Neil's head. Isbell contributed his part by squarely muffing Nill's drive, which scored "Long Tom." Charlie Jones' two bagger put Nill on third, and a fly to left by Cross scored him.

The ninth was nonproductive, and then came the wild finish. After O'Neil had perished, Isbell singled and Davis doubled. Donohue's rap was deflected by Hughes, but Nill recovered it, off his balance, and, trying to cut off Isbell at the plate, threw to the grand stand. Isbell and Davis counted. Hahn's single scored "Jiggs."

Stahl sent Wakefield to bat for Hughes in the last half, and he hit safely. Nill fanned, but Jones walked. Cross singled, scoring Wakefield. Anderson did likewise, scoring Jones. Here Patterson came to the rescue, and Stahl and Hickman were easy for him. Score:

Notes of the White Sox Game.

Chicago has three more games to play here.

Every Chicago player in the game got one hit.

Patterson and Wolfe are billed to do the pitching tomorrow.

Hughes' triple was fluky, the ball taking a high bound over the outfielder's head.

Harry White joined the White Sox here today. He has been coaching Annapolis and is in tiptop form.

Washington struck hard luck in the second. Anderson opened with a single and Stahl drove a hot one which stuck under the bag at first. Donohue easily retired Jake. Anderson, who kept on to third, thinking the ball went into the field, was easily doubled up.

GRIFFITH RUNS WELL IN DEFEAT

Second by the Farrell Colt to Pretension Considered Satisfactory.

CONCEDES MUCH WEIGHT.

Madden Two Year Old Named Bat Masterson Lands a Purse; Other Races.

New York, May 16.—[Special.]—Probably the most interesting event of the day at Belmont park was the public trial of the Kinley Mack 3 year old, Clark Griffith, for the Withers stakes next Saturday.

The colt started in the handicap at a mile and a furlong, giving scale weight to everything in the race. While he was beaten three parts of a length by John A. Drake's Pretension, he was not disgraced. On the contrary, he performed so well it is the prevailing opinion he has the Withers mile at his mercy. He was giving fourteen pounds to Pretension.

No sooner had he reached the post than Pretension took the bit in his teeth, and before Garner could get him under control the Drake horse had covered three-quarters of a mile. But it did not keep him from making all the running in the race. He was closely attended by Adbell and Clark Griffith to the head of the stretch, where Adbell stopped. Griffith responded gamely to Lyne's call, and gradually cut down the advantage of the Drake horse until it was a drive for the latter at the end. Oliver Cromwell was third, a length back.

There was a strong play on Frank Farrell's Keator in the opening event, but he did not amount to much and stopped early. Aeronaut led from start to finish, winning easily. W. B. Jennings' Shot Gun dropped from the clouds in the last furlong and took the place.

The Newcastle stable's McCarter won the Bouquet selling stakes for 2 year olds in the hottest finish of the day. He ran head and head with the Oneck stables' Clare Russell from the start, and just got his nose in front at the wire.

John E. Madden won two races. He took a 2 year old event with a colt named Bat Masterson. His colors were carried to the front by Comedienne in the fifth race.

EXPECT W. J. C. TO WIN IN COURT.

Horsemen Making Plans to Race at Douglas Park—Jockey Boyle Is Hurt.

Louisville, Ky., May 16.—[Special.]—John Condon and Charles Mier left for Chicago tonight. The opinion is general here that the Douglas Park club will win its fight in the courts and that there will be racing in June. Many horsemen who talked of going to Latonia are now wavering.

The American Turf association officials decline to discuss the situation, and the members of the state racing committee are restrained from so doing.

The only good race on the card at Churchill Downs today was the Louisville steeplechase, a stake with $1,000 added, over the long course.

Ten timber toppers faced the starter, but three of them did not finish. Manners, owned by the Nashville brewer, William Gerst, won easily, leading all the way. At the first jump Belle Dodson fell, but the rider was uninjured. At the tenth jump, and directly in front of the clubhouse, Itacatira and Dr. Nowlin went down. Both riders were badly shaken up and Harvey Boyle on Dr. Nowlin suffered a broken collarbone and a contusion over the right eye. He was carried to the paddock on a stretcher and was thought to be dangerously hurt, but, while painful, his injuries are not serious.

The race was worth $1,785 to the winner. The other races were between cheap horses. Three favorites won.

First race, 1 mile—Dr. McCluer, 89 pounds [Koerner], 5 to 1, won; Tinker, 88 [C. Morris], 3 to 5, second; Minnehaha, 87 [Oregar], 10 to 1, third. Time, 1:44 2-5. Gold Bell, Frivol, Spendthrift Helen, Prince of Pless, Matabon, Galmeda, and Magic ran.

Second race, 2 year old colts, 9-16 mile—Dashaway, 105 pounds [Austin], 6 to 1, won; Clamor, 110 [Scoville], 4 to 1, second; Charley Mitchell, 105 [Robinson], 7 to 1, third. Time, :56 2-5. Reside, Orland Wick, Billy Vertrees, Fullman, Dick Shanley, Spherical, and Poster ran.

Third race, selling, 11-16 mile—Lady Anne, 99 pounds [J. Hicks], 5 to 1, won; Lady Esther, 99 [Jost], 6 to 1, second; J. Ed Grillo, 104 [Boland], 2 to 1, third. Time, 1:08 1-5. Loupy, Percy Green, Redwood II., Precious Stone, Fugurtha, Airship, and Blucher ran.

Fourth race, the Louisville steeplechase, $1,000 added, full course, about 2 miles—Manners, 137 pounds [Henry], 2½ to 1, won; Charawind, 144 [Dayton], 7 to 1, second; Onyx II., 135 [C. Johnson], 12 to 1, third. Time, 3:52. Chanley, Picktime, and Lights Out ran. Belle Dodson unseated rider. Red Car, Dr. Nowlin, and Itacatiara fell.

Fifth race, selling, 1 mile—Mandator, 96 pounds [Scoville], 3 to 5, won; Josie's Jewel, 82 [Preston], 12 to 1, second; Ferroniere, 90 [C. Morris], 6 to 1, third. Time, 1:42 4-5. Mcgregor, Bell the Cat, Louise MacFarland, Begonia, and Wogglebug ran.

Sixth race, selling, 1 mile—Red Light, 105 pounds [Preston], 2 to 1, won; Foreigner, 105 [Austin], 3 to 1, second; Harding, 106 [Vanderbout], 4 to 1, third. Time, 1:42 2-5. Liberty Mo, Judge Durelle, Naran, The Gadfly, Royal Legend, Benvolio, and Little Elkin ran.

President Benjamin Thomas of the Chicago and Western Indiana railroad, Richmond Dean of the Pullman company, President R. Fitzgerald of the Chicago Junction railway, and Silas Strawn of the Midlothian Country club, who comprise the committee in charge of "Railroad day," to be held on Tuesday, May 29, at Midlothian, have completed the arrangements for the tournament and expect the affair to be the biggest of its kind ever held. Acceptances have been received from all parts of the country. The program is announced as follows:

12:10 p. m.—Special train from La Salle street station.
12:45 p. m.—Luncheon at clubhouse.
1:30 p. m.—Eighteen hole handicap. Contestants will receive handicaps allowed by their own clubs. The twenty-four lowest scores will qualify in three flights of eight. The match play will be by comparison of score cards.

The visitors will be given a dinner at the clubhouse at night, and will leave on a special train at 10:30 p. m. A golf medal will be given for low gross score in the qualifying round and another for low net score. The winners in the three flights will receive silver cups.

Secretary W. H. Beers of the American Golf Association of Advertising Interests announced yesterday the board of governors had made a ruling that immediate female relatives of members were eligible to honorary membership and that a tournament for women would be played in conjunction with the annual tournament at Atlantic City June 25-29.

Notes of the Golfers.

Mrs. W. Mitchell and Mrs. W. Bennett are both making excellent scores on the public course at Jackson park.

Play in the two day tournament for women members of the Edgewater club will start today with the qualifying round at eighteen holes.

The National Freight Traffic association, organized last year at New York, will hold its spring tournament at Hot Springs, Va., on May 21 to 23.

C. A. A. IS NOT A YACHT CLUB.

Lipton Cup Committee Considers Reported Application of L. M. Y. A.—Sir John Nutting Gives Trophy.

Members of the Lipton cup committee of the Columbia Yacht club last night discussed the proposed application of the Chicago Athletic association for admittance to the Lake Michigan Yachting association. President U. J. Hermann of the L. M. Y. A. is also a member of the Lipton committee, while W. H. Quinlan and E. T. Balcom are the other two members in charge of the cup contests. The conclusion reached by the Lipton committee was unfavorable to the C. A. A., as not being at the present time a "bona fide yacht club," which is required in the deed of gift governing the trophy. The matter appears to be up to the C. A. A. officials as it was said last night an ultimatum would be delivered to them today that it would be necessary to show their good faith by building a yacht clubhouse on the lake front and place in commission the required fleet of five boats.

Members of the Chicago Yacht club are jubilant over the donation of a handsome cup by Sir John Nutting, a prominent English sportsman, at present in this city. Promise of the trophy came as a surprise to the majority of the members. It is said G. H. Atkin, who recently returned from a trip to Great Britain, was instrumental in enlisting Sir John's interest in the local club.

For some time the Chicago Yacht club has been endeavoring to build up the eighteen foot class on the great lakes and this division will race for the Nutting cup. The C. Y. C. at present has three boats in commission and it is expected the donation of the cup will lead to the construction of many more. The cup, which will be designed and made in England, is to be sent to Chicago Aug. 1 and the first race will be held soon after that date.

SHARPLY CRITICISE COLLINS.

Eastern Tennis Supporters Trying to Discourage Chicagoan from Making Trip to England.

New York, May 16.—[Special.]—Play in the round robin lawn tennis tournament today at the Crescent Athletic club grounds at Bad Ridge, continued. After Karl H. Behr, the Yale player, had defeated Kreigh Collins of Chicago in easy fashion in straight sets, it was announced the singles for the round robin would be discontinued. As far as doubles go, it is easy for Ward and Wright, who have beaten all the teams they have met.

The most important feature developed by the play and gossip about the courts was that the decision by Collins to accompany the team to England does not meet with general approval. Collins has been decidedly off form all spring and from present appearances he is not likely to strike his playing form for at least two months. It is not that Collins is not a capable player when on his game, because he is a player of the first rank when he hits his stride. But the experts argue it will be a waste of money to send him abroad while he is displaying the sort of tennis he has been showing all through this preliminary training.

Collins has been plugging at it because he realizes, with all experienced tennis players, that a man will hit his game all of a sudden and never can tell what moment he will flash out of his old state of inferior play and become a veritable champion. Some persons object that this is leaving the whole matter too much to luck.

George Wright, father of Beals C. Wright, the present singles champion, said today that Collins was far from in condition. He said Collins' strokes lacked steam, and his whole play was nervous and undecided. Collins has been sick since coming east with stomach trouble, and it is indubitable this has had a deleterious effect on his tennis. But in his matches on the local courts he never has shown anything like the form that made him the western champion for seven years.

Michigan May Lose Two Stars.

Ann Arbor, Mich., May 16.—[Special.]—Michigan probably will lose two more stars of last year's eleven, Harry Hammond, right end, of Chicago, and "Denny" Clark, half back, of Detroit. They are deficient in a short course in surveying in the engineering department. They say that if they do not get this work up by the close of the present year they will not come back next fall. This will leave only Garrels, Curtis, and Graham of the team which played against Chicago last Thanksgiving.

NO CHANGE IN FIGHT ARTICLES.

Herrera's Effort to Have Nelson's Bonus Placed on Result of Their Battle Fails.

Los Angeles, Cal., May 16.—[Special.]—There will be no change in the articles signed for the ring battle between Batling Nelson and Aurelio Herrera on May 25. A couple of days ago Herrera made a proposition to Nelson that the latter throw in his $4,000 bonus and fight on a winner take all basis. Billy Nolan, manager of Nelson, replied: "A bird in the cage is worth two in the bush." He did not propose to allow Nelson to throw in $4,000 which was already as good as in his pocket, but he would fight for the remaining $16,000 on a winner take all basis. Herrera refuses to consent to this proposal, as he says Nolan ought to be man enough to fight for the whole purse of nothing.

Tancel Wins Over Taylor.

Peoria, Ill., May 16.—[Special.]—After ten rounds of fast fighting before the Peoria Athletic club Referee Ryan of Indianapolis gave the decision to Eddie Tancel over Kid Taylor. With the exception of the seventh round, it was Tancel's fight.

No Gans-Lewis Fight.

New York, May 16.—[Special.]—There was no fight here tonight between Gans and Lewis.

Pugilistic Pointers.

Jimmy Gardner, with his trainer, Emil Theiry, will leave today for Indianapolis, where on May 23 he is slated to meet Jack O'Keefe in a ten round tilt at 140 pounds.

Al Kaufman, the young coast heavyweight, and his manager, Billy Delaney, are coming east, having been promised a fight at the Tuxedo club with Fred Cooley, the local pugilist.

Ed White, a local fight promoter, has secured fighting grounds at Lyons, Ill., where he hopes to pull off a number of daylight contests between high class men this summer. He had Benny Yanger and Charley Neary practically matched for his first show, but at the last moment the Milwaukee boxer demanded the purse money be put up before he would consider the match clinched.

Millions Spent to Make Clean Beer

Cleanest Manufacturing Process Known Is That of the Leading American Brewery.

We regard beer as a food and the business of brewing beer one of our most important industries. When we tell our readers that without exception there is no other brewery in the world so absolutely clean in its process of manufacture as Pabst, we speak from exact knowledge of conditions. The monster Pabst Brewery at Milwaukee represents an outlay of millions of dollars and many of those millions have been expended to make the Pabst exclusive process absolutely clean. Pabst Beer stands alone today, the only food product that from the beginning to the end of its manufacture is absolutely beyond reach of even the contaminating germs of the air.

Doctors boil their instruments in water to sterilize them. Pabst boils his brew in closed kettles and thus sterilizes it. From there it passes through sterilized pipes to sterilized hermetically sealed tanks where it is fermented. Then through more sterilized pipes it goes to sterilized hermetically sealed storage tanks, and when bottled it is pasteurized. Throughout the entire process it never is touched by human hands and comes in contact only with sterilized air. No other food product known can show such a record of positive cleanliness.

This process of manufacture is the exclusive Pabst method. It is one reason for the "always the same, always the best" reputation of Pabst beer.

The cleanest beer and the richest beer, Pabst beer has no equal as a mild, refreshing, healthful beverage.

FORM A NEW FIRE BOARD.

LARGE CITIES ASSOCIATION TO SUPERVISE RISKS.

Meeting of Managers and Executives Held at Union League Club Decides on Permanent Organization of Companies with Jurisdiction Over Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Louis, Louisville, Cincinnati, and Cleveland—Will Reduce Agents' Commissions.

[BY C. M. CARTWRIGHT.]

The Large Cities association will be the outgrowth of the meeting of fire insurance company department managers and executives held at the Union League club Tuesday evening. At that meeting it was decided to appoint a committee to formulate plans for organizing a permanent organization of companies to have jurisdiction over Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Louis, Louisville, Cincinnati, and Cleveland.

E. G. Halle of the Germania, who acted as chairman of the meeting, yesterday announced the following committee, of which he will be a member ex-officio:

P. D. McGregor of the Queen.
F. M. Gund of the German of Freeport.
George W. Law of the Royal.
C. E. Sheldon of the American of New Jersey and Security.
G. H. Lermit of the Northern.
J. L. Whitlock of the Glens Falls.
G. W. Blossom of the National of Hartford.
C. K. Kemp of the Delaware and Reliance.
W. L. Jones of the Milwaukee Mechanics'.

Committee Will Make Plans.

This committee will meet at an early date to formulate plans for a working organization and on the completion of its work a general meeting of company representatives will be held to effect an organization.

The Large Cities association will take up immediately the question of reducing commissions to agents. At the present time companies are paying all sorts of commissions, and this has served in the course of competition to force up the cost of securing the business to an abnormal point. It is likely that commissions will be placed at 20 per cent on ordinary classes of business and 30 per cent on dwellings and other desirable classes.

The brokerage that agents will pay to solicitors and brokers probably will be 10 and 15 per cent or 10 and 20 per cent. Insurance companies claim that the present high commissions cause agents and brokers to rebate to the assured.

All for Lower Commissions.

Chairman Halle said: "There is a unanimous sentiment among the companies to reduce agents' commissions in the large cities at the same time that rates are increased on unprofitable classes. This is only fair to the public, and we all believe that the time is at hand when the companies should get their expenses down to a normal basis."

SEEK TRADERS' LOSSES FIRST.

Directors of Fire Insurance Company Will Get San Francisco Report Before Signing Agreement.

John J. Mitchell of the Traders' Insurance company said yesterday the directors would delay signing any legal agreement to pay losses in full until a report is made by the special investigators whom they have sent to San Francisco.

Attorneys Charles H. Hamill, Noble B. Judah, and Thomas Bates practically have completed the agreement.

"According to the actuary employed by the Armstrong investigating committee there is not a fire insurance company which can say now whether it will be solvent after paying its San Francisco losses," said Mr. Mitchell. "All insurance men admit that it will be a long time before they can say just what they have lost."

PRINTERS GAIN IN 8-HOUR DAY FIGHT

Two Firms Capitulate to the Demands of the Typographical Union.

WRIGHT AGAIN HONORED.

Re-elected President of Organization; "L" Loop Employes Seek Higher Wages.

The long and costly struggle of the printers to inaugurate the eight hour workday in the commercial shops of Chicago yesterday was shortly rewarded by the capitulation of two large printing houses, one of which is a leading member of the typothetæ association of employers.

The two firms which yielded to the demands of the typographical union are Stromberg, Allen & Co., 302 Clark street, and Walter H. Allen, 263 La Salle street. The former employs forty compositors, while the latter employs twenty printers. Both agreed to operate hereafter on an eight hour day basis, with the same wage scale that prevailed when nine hours' work was required.

Shortly after the news became known in the afternoon a special meeting of the executive board of the typothetæ was called, and the other large printing shops passed resolutions to "stand pat," despite the defection of the Stromberg-Allen concern. Secretary J. F. Hamm of the association said the action of this firm would have no effect on the determination of the big establishments to continue running on a nine hour schedule with nonunion men.

Await Break Among Employers.

Officers of the typographical union professed to believe the time for an important break in the employers' ranks is at hand, and that more typothetæ firms will follow the lead of the one which submitted to the strikers. The Aitken shop, it was explained, is controlled by a former member of the firm of Marsh, Aitken & Curtis, who left the company because the concern refused to grant a reduction in hours asked by the compositors.

Former employés of the two shops which capitulated returned to work during the day, taking the places of nonunion printers, who were discharged. They have been on strike since last November.

Printers Re-elect Wright President.

Approval of the printers' strike for the eight hour day was expressed last night in the reelection of all the old officers of Typographical union No. 16. Edwin R. Wright was chosen again as president by a large majority over his opponent, George W. Day. Vice President Thomas P. McCooey defeated his rival, James Sippey, by a good margin in the contest for second place on the ticket, while the veteran secretary-treasurer, William McEvoy, was returned unanimously for his nineteenth term, and Organizer John C. Harding was elected again to the position which he has held in the union for eight years.

The closest contest developed among eight candidates for five places on the executive committee. The result will be announced today. Others chosen were:

Board of trustees—Gus Bilger, C. F. Sheldon, and C. M. Whitman.

Auditors—James F. Mercer, A. L. Auth, and H. C. Nelson.

Delegates to international convention—George J. Knott, Hugh Brady, James D. Coughlin, John W. Conway.

Balloting for international officers revealed a unanimous indorsement of the national management of the strike by the reelection of President James M. Lynch, Secretary-Treasurer J. W. Bramwood, and other officials.

Traction Employes in Conference.

Important conferences, upon which are dependent the wage standard of more than 4,000 surface and elevated traction employés, began in the afternoon, when a committee representing employés of the Union Elevated "loop" met presidents of the four elevated companies in the Fisher building. Demands for an increase in wages were filed and taken under consideration.

LONG STRIKE ON "L" ROAD ENDS.

Ironworkers, Fearing Beginning of Nonunion Construction, Decide to Go to Work—Printers' Election.

The ironworkers ended their last strike last evening by voting to lift the boycott on the south side elevated road. Work on the delayed extension and reconstruction of the main line probably will be resumed on Monday.

Some trouble is anticipated on the Forfith street extensions. The Pittsburg Construction company has the contract for elevating the tracks of the Chicago Junction railway along the "L" road's new right of way, and the strikers were instructed to remain away from work until the concern agrees to pay the union scale. It is expected that this controversy will be settled shortly.

Rumors that the American Bridge company, which holds the general contract on the Alley "L," had rented a hotel in Englewood and quartered a hundred strikebreakers there in preparation to begin nonunion operations had the effect of influencing the ironworkers to call off their strike.

Edwin R. Wright was reëlected president of Typographical union No. 16 at the printers' annual election by a large majority over his opponent, George W. Day. Secretary-Treasurer William McEvoy, the veteran of the union, was reëlected unanimously for his tenth term. Others who had no opposition were Organizer John C. Harding and Gus Bilger, C. F. Sheldon, and C. M. Whitman, the last three being chosen for members of the board of trustees.

NEW SCHOOLS TO BE BUILT

CROWDING WILL BE RELIEVED BY BOARD OF EDUCATION.

Problem of Reducing Size of Classes Is Near Solution by Increasing the Number of Structures — Building Fund Retrenchment Will Be Made in Order to Provide for $2,475,000, Which Will Be the Cost of the Improvements.

The problem of reducing the size of the classes in the Chicago public schools is to be solved by the board of education by the erection of a sufficient number of buildings to relieve congestion in the schools now built.

The school trustees believe this purpose can be accomplished if retrenchments are made in the usual appropriations for other building purposes and the entire building fund is devoted to the erection of elementary school buildings.

Members Favor the Plan.

Trustee Duddleston is leading the movement to relieve the congestion in the schools by the erection of more schools, and Trustee Spiegel and several other board members have gone on record in favor of stopping the growth of every other school department until the elementary schools have been cared for properly.

KENT SAYS GRAFT IS BLOT ON POLICE

Chicago Reformer Declares Department, as Now Ruled, Hopelessly Bad.

BLAMES MAYOR AND CHIEF

Thinks It Will Take a Man, Not a "Big Chambermaid," to Purify the City's Force.

William Kent, reformer and civic critic, drew a grim picture of the Chicago police department in a lecture in the Y. M. C. A. auditorium last night. He held out a hopeless future for the new man going on the force, which he described as "corrupt and inefficient, a mixture of graft and politics, infested with criminals and ruled by spoils officers."

That open gambling is going on through a system of money protection reaching up to the high officers, and that monthly blackmail is being collected from some of the smaller downtown hotels was the frank statement of the speaker.

Mr. Kent Expresses a Hope.

"There is no use in proving these things," said Mr. Kent. "We are called liars. It will take a man, not a big chambermaid, to clean out the department. I hope Chicago will wake up some day and elect an executive mayor who will put in a man as chief of police not trained in that school of graft."

Mr. Kent attacked the commanding officers of the force and told how patrolmen were jobbed for interfering with the graft of superior officers.

"I know of a case," said he, "where a safe blower was protected by a commanding officer, and the detective who was in danger of catching the criminal came near being jobbed to the penitentiary. I have gone to the front against these men, but I get no results. I cannot proceed against unanimous perjury.

Must Have Strong Man.

"This ineffective, rotten, political department can only be remedied by a strong man. We should not have for a chief a man trained in this school. The patrolman has been debauched and abused by a mixture of politics and graft. We must have a man as mayor who will appoint a man as chief."

LAWYERS CAST "STRAW VOTE" ON JUDICIAL CANDIDATES.

Members of the Bar Association Will Indorse Favorite Nominees—School of Political Instruction Held.

The Chicago Bar association is taking a poll of its own membership upon the judicial candidates, 900 members having received ballots in yesterday's mail.

Regardless of the intentions of other parties, the socialists filed yesterday with the election board their formal call for county primaries, to be held on Saturday, May 26. Secretary Breckon said the leaders had not had time to study the new primary law and did not know whether to attack it or not.

Democratic captains and secretaries from half the wards of Chicago attended a school of political instruction at 70 Washington street last evening. The other half will be called in later.

FIGHTS FOR HER ANNUITY.

AGED WOMAN'S INCOME STOPPED BY A FAMILY DISSENSION.

Remarks About Her Brother's Wife Are Resented by Latter's Children and She Is Forced to Sue for $350 a Year—Defendants After a Defeat in Court File a Notice of Appeal and Will Carry the Litigation to a Higher Tribunal.

Remarks made years ago by Mrs. Anna B. Foote regarding the humble origin of her brother's wife, Mrs. Thomas Lonergan, came near depriving her of an annuity provided for in the will of Mr. Lonergan. The Court of Appeals has held, however, that Lonergan's heirs, including several well known Chicagoans, must pay Mrs. Foote $1,500 now due her and $350 a year so long as she lives, as specified in the will. The defendants yesterday filed notice of an appeal to the Supreme court.

Sues Heirs of Her Brother.

Mrs. Foote is by no means a favorite of her brother's children, and, while they paid her the money for a time, she says about four years ago they stopped. Accordingly she filed suit against the following heirs:

Mary C. Lilly, wife of Dr. Guy Lilly, living in Hinsdale.

Thomas Lonergan Jr., of Chicago.

Eugenie L. Spearman, wife of Frank H. Spearman, novelist, living in Wheaton.

Maude M. McLaughlin, wife of Robert J. McLaughlin, a coffee manufacturer, living at the Chicago Beach hotel.

Blanche L. Davis, wife of J. H. Davis, secretary of a St. Louis steel corporation.

Claims Her Annuity Is Income.

The family feud dates back to the time of Mr. Lonergan's marriage. Until then Mrs. Foote had been his housekeeper, and as she did not like his wife was frank in saying so. Her remarks rankled and the children of the woman she opposed have never forgiven her. She is now 85 years old.

A contention made by Mrs. Foote's attorney is that the monthly payment made by Lonergan to his sister did not come out of his private purse, but was the interest on $7,000 invested by him for her. She believes this money was given her brother by a sister, Mrs. Margaret McLeavit of Pittsburg.

How to Exercise the Bowels

YOUR Intestines are lined inside with millions of suckers, that draw the Nutrition from food as it passes them. But, if the food passes too slowly, it decays before it gets through. Then the little suckers draw Poison from it instead of Nutrition. This Poison makes a Gas that injures your system more than the food should have nourished it.

The usual remedy for this delayed passage (called Constipation) is to take a big dose of Castor Oil.

* * *

This merely make slippery the passage for unloading the current cargo.

It does not help the Cause of delay a trifle. It does slacken the Bowel-Muscles, and weakens them for their next task.

Another remedy is to take a strong "Physic," like Salts, Calomel, Jalap, Phosphate of Sodium, Aperient Water, or any of these mixed.

What does the "Physic" do?

It merely flushes out the Bowels with a waste of Digestive Juice, set flowing into the Intestines through the tiny suckers.

* * *

Cascarets are the only safe medicine for the bowels.

They do not waste any precious fluid of the Bowels, as "Physics" do.

They do not relax the Intestines by greasing them inside like Castor Oil or Glycerine.

They simply stimulate the Bowel-Muscles to do their work naturally, comfortably, and nutritiously.

Cascarets are as safe to use constantly as they are pleasant to take.

* * *

They are put up in thin, flat, round-cornered Enamel boxes, so they can be carried in a man's vest pocket, or in a woman's purse, all the time, without bulk or trouble.

The time to take a Cascaret is not only when you are Sick, but when you first suspect you need one. Price, 10c a box.

Be very careful to get the genuine, made only by the Sterling Remedy Company and never sold in bulk. Every tablet stamped "CCC."

Miller HIGH LIFE
The Champagne of Bottle BEER
FROM WHAT IT IS MADE

To obtain a uniform Barley, we have built a new, up-to-date Malt House in the Best Barley section of Wisconsin, and Wisconsin is conceded to be the banner Barley State in the Union. Most brewers buy their Barley on the Board of Trade, and get a mixed article; in fact, do not know where their Barley comes from.

Our Malt House is equipped with the Galland-Henning "Drum System," thus insuring us Slow-Grown 8-Day Malt. Most Beer is made from 4 to 5-day Malt, which is made by an unnatural process, costs less, and is not healthy.

To obtain uniform Hops of the highest quality, we have made contracts with growers to take their entire crops. Our Hop Growers rank among the largest, oldest and most able in the country. We have taken the entire crops of some for the past thirty to fifty years. We pay the highest price because we want the Best.

The Water we use comes from the same bed of Lime Rock that Waukesha Water comes from, which city is located 12 miles West of our Brewery. We have three wells, each 2,000 feet deep into this rock, from which we draw our supply.

THE PLAIN CLOTHES MAN.

The theory behind the plain clothes man is an excellent one. The uniform of a policeman sometimes serves as a warning to criminals, for the approach of one of the blue coats is a prompt signal for the good behavior of the guilty and often leads to more care in conversation than would be taken in the presence of another citizen who wore no distinctive mark of his connection with the police force. The plain clothes man, in theory, ought to be shrewd and careful, a student of human nature, zealous in his desire to improve social conditions by solving criminal mysteries and apprehending the evildoers. There ought to be a certain degree of secrecy in his actions, and that due amount of reserve in his nature which would keep his identity unknown to the criminal so far as that is possible, thus enabling him on occasion to get close to his quarry without detection.

There is a good deal of evidence that the plain clothes man connected with the Chicago police force too often is a man who has won the favor of the superior officer by reason of long service or personal relationship, and, as a result, has been given a field of work usually regarded as a "snap," from which he can look with condescension upon his less fortunate mate, who has to walk a beat and wear a uniform. Such a person is known by every one. He goes to the baseball game every day, is hailed familiarly by the boys in the stand as he goes to his seat, and is of no possible practical value as a thief catcher or crime preventer. If there is no game, then he finds pleasure in sitting down at a saloon table for a quiet game of cards or drops in upon the firemen at the engine house and has a friendly chat.

It is indeed possible that such a disposal of time, for which the city pays a good salary, has some advantages. Chance remarks made in the saloon may give valuable suggestions in connection with some crime about which every one is talking. A much sought criminal might seek seclusion in a large crowd at a ball game and something might be gained from a study of faces in such a gathering. But it is more likely that these places are sought by the officers from a desire for the accompanying individual pleasure and not from any zeal in the city's service. The complaints must have been coming to the chief in numbers, since he has declared that he will discharge every man in the department if necessary to stop the plain clothes contingent from going to baseball games and theaters when they should be out catching thieves.

The storm of denunciation of the inactivity of the police seems to have led to the periodical threat of an upheaval in the force unless something is done to lessen the number of crimes which are committed daily. The school for the instruction of the new men is a good thing, but it will not prove sufficiently effective unless some of the old ones are made to work. It does not take a recruit long to catch on to the fact that his superior does not desire activity in certain directions. The tocsin, the hue and cry, the vigilance committee of citizens will never be needed if those who are paid for duty, whether in uniform or in plain clothes, do even a fair proportion of the things which they might do if they so wished.

THE DANGERS OF SAVING.

Many years before the Unitarian conference assembled in Unity church the doctrine was advanced that it is wrong to save money. It is the old decision that is to be made between laying up treasures on earth, where moth and rust corrupt and thieves break through and steal, and laying up treasures in heaven. There may be no heaven in modern theology, the joys formerly ascribed to that city of golden streets and eternal bliss coming in service to one's fellow men, but, even with that modification of conditions granted, there will hardly be general acceptance of the theory once again announced that frugality and economy are dangerous tendencies in life.

"The men and women who spend," one speaker declared, "are not dangerous; they are helpful; they keep the money perpetually reverting to the people in some form." "It would be far better that both rich and poor should be prodigal of their means and so keep money in circulation than for the rich and the poor to be frugal and saving," were the words of another. The mania for saving which makes the individual miserly and hard is one thing, a misdirection of purpose which has never failed to meet condemnation. The desire for saving which puts millions into savings banks, opens the door to opportunity, makes capitalization of industry possible, gives employment to thousands in special pursuits, encourages endowments for religion, art, education, science, has been commended in every age.

Such statements as those which have been quoted are one sided and consequently of comparatively little importance. The drunkard, the gambler, the rake, spend their money freely. They keep it in circulation, but the experience of the past, which is always the safest guide, does not show that such a habit has been of benefit to humanity. The training to save has meant sobriety, industry, home ownership, integrity, respectability, good citizenship. It has made the prosperity of the nation. It is a blessing. The occasional examples of those who, having risen from the ranks and having been possessed with the miser's greed, have been overbearing and harsh toward their less prudent former companions cannot be used as arguments against the desirability of encouraging the spirit of thrift. There may be positive evils connected with the desire to save, but the resultant advantages are so much more important that no one who thinks deeply would ever advocate the theory that the savings habit is one dangerous to society on principle. The facts are all bearing testimony to the opposite conclusion.

THE ASSAULT ON MR. EDWARDS.

Probably a more outrageous assault upon a citizen was never committed in Chicago than that of which Mr. W. S. Edwards was the victim. It was a bold as well as a brutal attack. It was made in broad daylight, on a public thoroughfare, in the presence of a hundred citizens, not one of whom had the courage to go to the aid of the defenseless man. Mr. Edwards was beaten almost to death, and his assailants made their escape without difficulty. No one of the many spectators is able to give the police an adequate description of them. Sluggers do not usually take risks. The audacity of the daylight assault almost makes it look as if there were connivance on the part of some of the bystanders. Otherwise the escape of the guilty men would have been almost impossible and their identification would have been easy.

No assault could have been less justifiable even from the point of view of the supposed interests of organized labor. There is no good reason to believe that organized labor was directly concerned in the attack upon Mr. Edwards, but the individuals who were guilty of it undoubtedly thought they were helping the cause of their union.

Here, as in the case of certain Colorado murders, there would seem to be a plain duty resting upon the representatives of labor unions. They should not merely disavow responsibility for the act but they should endeavor to bring about the arrest and punishment of the persons who committed it. The fact that the assailants were acting without orders from any responsible body should not shield them from the just consequences of their act. There is only one thing the labor unions can properly do in a matter of this kind and that is to lend their powerful influence to secure the punishment of the offenders.

Mr. Edwards seems to have been not only a tolerant man but one who had acted as mediator between employers and employés. If any man should have been immune from the attacks of hired or volunteer thugs it should have been he.

If the representatives of organized labor will not themselves take an active part in bringing the criminals to justice there ought to be other bodies in this city that have both the courage and the disposition to undertake it. Why should not the Commercial association, for example, offer a reward of such amount as to make it likely that the offenders will be caught and brought to trial? There is no loyalty among thieves or sluggers, as the experience of Ireland has proved, provided the price of disloyalty is made sufficiently high. The offer of a good reward would probably bring out information that would lay bare the whole conspiracy and result in such a degree of punishment being visited upon the conspirators that their crime would not be likely to be repeated.

There ought to be some expression of public indignation in view of so cowardly and brutal an assault upon an inoffensive citizen. It should not be permitted to go unrebuked. To the extent that it is condoned or passed by in silence the people of Chicago will be held by their fellow citizens in all parts of the country partly responsible for this and other attacks upon innocent men.

THE NEW PRIMARY LAW.

The new primary law is the best that could be extorted from a reluctant legislature. The first steps of a child are faltering and feeble. So are the first steps which are being taken towards a perfect primary system.

As the popular belief in the need for primary reform gains strength the new law will be amended and improved. The election law when first adopted had many imperfections. It has been amended frequently and is better than it was. Probably before the politicians know it they will have to reckon with a primary system that amounts to something.

The new law is more or less farcical. It thunders a good deal in the index but does not accomplish much in the contents. However, it is a start. It does violence to the feelings of a great many of the "bosses," and even more to those of the smaller politicians whose activity at the polls, and especially at the primaries, is usually rewarded with "jobs." The occupation of some of these men will be gone if a genuine primary system is ever introduced. If we can get the shadow of primary reform now we will soon get the substance. It will follow as surely as the night the day.

No session of the legislature during the next ten years probably will go by without some amendment to the primary law. About 1915 we shall have a law which is both workable and beneficent, unless, in the meantime, the Supreme court in its infinite wisdom shall see fit to upset primary legislation a few times more in order to gratify the passion of the judges for discovering technical defects and exhibiting their learning in new lights for public edification and delight.

THE IMPRISONMENT PENALTY.

President Stickney of the Great Western railway protests against the restoration of the penalty of imprisonment for giving rebates to shippers. He says the presidents and high officials of roads who live in New York and do not deal directly with rates will escape. Little freight agents who grant rebates because of the demands of their far away superior officers for more revenue may be caught. The only way "to reach the railway czars and grand dukes," says Mr. Stickney, "is to impose heavy fines on the roads."

This has been said before. The public has often been told of the humble subordinate whose only instructions are to "get business," and who, fearing dismissal if he fails to get it, violates the interstate commerce law. His superiors do not tell him to give rebates. They may have issued formal orders that the laws must be respected, but he is under a kind of moral coercion, his apologists say, which makes him a lawbreaker, and therefore he should be exempt from criminal prosecution when detected.

The knowledge that rebates are given a shipper, especially one who does business on a grand scale, is not confined to the "poor freight agent." Officials high in rank know all that is going on and give their tacit or outspoken approval. They do not repudiate agreements for rebates when they learn of their existence. They do not rebuke the overzealous subordinate who made them. Indeed, when a great corporation demands special favors it does not address itself to minor employés. It goes to headquarters and negotiates with presidents and vice presidents. The Burlington road made a rebate arrangement with the tinplate company. It was not the work of some insignificant employé but of prominent officials.

Behind the subordinate who may seem immediately responsible for the giving of rebates there stands almost invariably an offender of higher rank. If the one sees himself in danger of going to jail he will buy immunity by testifying against the other. It may not be possible to reach those whom Mr. Stickney calls the "railway czars," but it generally will be possible to reach the "grand dukes" or those who, in the railroad hierarchy, come just below them. After a few vice presidents and general freight agents have been indicted, it will not be so easy for the New York magnates to get officials who will break the laws and put their personal liberty in danger.

The imprisonment penalty should be restored, not with an eye to sending some minor official to prison but in order to inspire his superiors with wholesome fear of prosecution and imprisonment.

THE SIZE OF BATTLESHIPS.

One of the lessons which Admiral Mahan draws from a study of the war in the far east is that it is inadvisable to increase the size of battleships with any hope that one step forward will be final. There is no natural limit beyond which increase in size is impossible, and, therefore, if one nation should construct a battleship with a displacement of 30,000 tons there is nothing to prevent a rival from constructing one of 40,000. Now the expense of a battleship increases at a ratio in excess of the ratio of increase of tonnage. The nations are embarked in a rivalry which is simply suicidal when each tries to outbuild the other.

The recommendation of the secretary of the navy that if congress should authorize but one battleship this year it "shall be the largest and strongest battleship that is known to be afloat" was concurred in by the committee on naval affairs, and the estimated cost of such a ship was put at $10,000,000. Any other nation with the money to spare could begin a still larger battleship and have it ready a few weeks after the completion of the American battleship. America would have to begin the construction of a still larger one before the first was completed, and so on.

Admiral Mahan believes the only remedy for this insensate rivalry is an international agreement limiting the size of battleships. This would be an advantage to the nations with shallow harbors, but apart from this possible inequality the plan would be to the general good. Each nation could then develop its navy along the lines most approved by the national experts seeking either speed, or gun power, or weight of armament. It would result in a fair contest of naval theories. More than that, it would give to skill in handling a ship or a fleet its proper value and would make the man more important than the machine.

The original purpose of The Hague conference was the limitation of armament, but instead of considering any well reasoned plan to achieve that result the conference devoted itself to discussing plans for arbitration. The conference which is to be held next year might with propriety take up Admiral Mahan's suggestion.

IT is hard to teach an old senate new tricks. Perhaps the best course for Mr. La Follette to adopt would be to trim down his pompadour and wait.

LET the traction magnates be comforted. Few of them could have hoped to live out the ninety-nine years, anyhow.

THE Iowa woman who says her age is 140 deserves respectful attention. She can remember distinctly when John Sobieski, the rightful king of Poland, began his career as a temperance lecturer in this country.

ABSORBED in business, pleasure, and the petty affairs of everyday life, the people of Havana seem to have overlooked the fact that last Tuesday was the day set apart by the astrologers for the destruction of their city.

AT this writing it appears perfectly safe to assert that Illinois' new primary law has beaten the Smoot case several lengths.

SLUGGER GILHOOLEY, after a restful vacation of several months, is about to go to work again.

LAST Tuesday, as we learn from the Globe-Democrat, the members of the waterways commission in session at St. Louis, "were the guests of Mr. Adolphus Busch." H'm!

THE senate committee has voted in favor of a sea level canal. This settles it—that there will be some more oratory.

THE Hon. Bob Taylor, who is to succeed Senator Carmack, is not only a fiddler of national renown but "the most popular man in Tennessee." By strict attention to business, however, he may live all this down.

IN A MINOR KEY.

Would Save Trouble.

The customer at the department store had bought a dry battery, a hundred feet or more of wrapped copper wire, and other accessories for an electric door bell for his house.

"Going to put it up yourself?" asked the salesman.

"Yes," said the customer.

Whereupon the salesman handed him a neat little card with this printed inscription:

BELL OUT OF ORDER.
PLEASE KNOCK.

"This goes with the outfit," he said. "Saves you the trouble of writing it, you know."

Strictly En Regle.

Aunt Rachel—"For mercy's sake, 'Mandy, you're not going to wear that hideous hat, I hope! It's horribly unbecoming."

Miss 'Mandy—"Why, bless your heart, auntie, I couldn't maintain my position in society five minutes if I should go out with a becoming hat on my head this season."

Prejudiced.

Stranger—"Is there a man of the name of Richards living anywhere along here?"

Hollow Eyed Resident—"Nobody lives here, sir. This is a row of flats."

Never Touched Him.

"This is absolutely the worst stuff I ever read," said the magazine editor, handing it back.

"Then you must be a new man," said the caller, folding up the manuscript with the utmost unconcern and putting it back into his pocket. "I've tried hundreds of worse things on this same magazine. Warm afternoon, isn't it? Good day."

'Sh! What'll He Think!

That's quarrelin', take keer!
Don't you know that the gaekwar
Of Baroda is here?

LETTER OF MARQUISE DE FONTENOY

Copyright 1906: By the Marquise de Fontenoy.

LA GRANJA, where King Alfonso and his bride will spend their honeymoon, is situated about forty miles from Madrid in a sheltered recess of the mountains in the midst of pine forests, 4,000 feet above the level of the sea. It is an exquisitely beautiful place, which owes its creation to King Phillip V. and has frequently been described as the Versailles of Spain. Its gardens have much in common with those of Versailles, save for the fact that the terraces are the result of nature instead of artifice, while the fountains are even finer than the celebrated ones at Versailles.

It was at La Granja that Phillip V. abdicated in 1724 in favor of his son, at whose death in the same year he resumed the crown. It was there, too, that the infamous Godoy, the prince of peace and execrated favorite of King Charles IV., signed as premier the treaty of 1796 which surrendered Spain to republican France. Among the relics of the palace in which King Charles V. and his first wife are entombed is the "baculo" or staff of St. Elizabeth of Hungary, and from time immemorial this relic is placed in the hands of the queens of Spain when in child birth, with the idea that it may not only preserve their own lives but bring blessings to the infant.

The queen mother, Christina, loathes La Granja so intensely that she has only been there once, and then but for a few hours, since the death of her husband, more than twenty years ago. The present generation is ignorant of the cause of the queen's hatred of this most delightful, picturesque, and always cool and healthy summer residence of the crown of Spain. But older people recall that it was at La Granja that some of the most painful quarrels between Christina and her husband took place—quarrels rising from the thoroughly justified jealousy of the queen—and that it is in the gardens of La Granja that the late duke of Sesto, president of the Spanish commission to the Columbian exposition of 1893, received a stinging slap on the face from the irate queen when he ventured to put out his hand in an attempt to bar her entrance to a pavilion or kiosque in the grounds, where the king was engaged in according an audience to a fascinating duchess, now dead.

It was from La Granja, too, that Queen Christina made her sensational departure from Spain on that occasion, traveling straight to Vienna, whence she was only induced with much difficulty to return to her husband by her kinsman, warm friend, and sagacious counselor, Emperor Francis Joseph. Queen Christina, in spite of all this, was deeply attached to her flighty and—in the affairs of the heart—extremely frivolous husband. It is therefore quite natural that she should dislike a place, no matter how beautiful, that recalls to her memory some of the most painful and mortifying episodes of her married life.

Another beautiful palace of King Alfonso to which he will take his bride in the fall is Aranjuez. It is situated on the banks of the Tagus, sheltered from the winds by an immense and splendid forest, teeming with as much game as in the days of the Duc de St. Simon, many of the episodes described in his famous memoirs having taken place there. It owes its origin as a royal residence to Emperor Charles V., who erected a palace on the site of an ancient Roman temple to Jupiter. But it was subsequently destroyed by fire, and in its present condition it dates back to the middle of the eighteenth century.

Formerly its walls were adorned with magnificent old masters, but most of these were transferred during the reign of Queen Isabella to the Prado museum at Madrid, which contains what is today probably the grandest national collection of old masters in all Europe.

Lord Mansfield's death and the succession of his younger brother to his honors and estates is calculated to evoke memories of some of the most romantic periods of Scottish history. For Scone palace, the ancestral home of the earls of Mansfield, on the Tay, near Perth, was in olden times the principal home of the kings of Scotland, who were crowned there on the stone of destiny, and who held council there with their chieftains and nobles.

The stone of destiny, as every one knows, is supposed to be the stony pillow on which Jacob slept at Bethel. There are quite a number of legends extant as to the manner in which it found its way from Bethel to Egypt, thence to Spain, and from Spain again to Ireland. How it ascended to the top of the Sacred hill of Tara history does not reveal, but there it became "Lia Fail," or "the stone of destiny," and on it thenceforward all the Irish kings were crowned. How long it remained there is still a matter of controversy among Irish antiquarians. But from Erin it was mysteriously conveyed to Dunstaffnage in Scotland, more than a thousand years ago.

It was King Kenneth II. who moved the stone to a raised plot on the ground of Scone, upon and around which the last great battle between the Picts and Scots was fought. From that time forward the stone escapes more or less from "the blinding mists of antiquity," and assumes what the late Dean Stanley of Westminster abbey calls "an unquestionable historical position." It was incased in a chair of wood and used thenceforth as the coronation seat of the kings of Scotland.

It was King Edward I. of England who, claiming the crown of Scotland as a descendant of the Anglo-Saxon King Athelstane, invaded Scotland, carried off the stone to England in A. D. 1296, and placed it in Westminster abbey, where it has remained ever since, and where it has been seen and touched by thousands upon thousands of American tourists, and where it has been used for the coronation of every English sovereign from the days of Edward II. to that of Edward VII., four years ago.

Scone palace has been twice partly destroyed, on the first occasion by King Edward I. and the second time by John Knox. Although it is therefore in the main a relatively modern construction, yet there are portions of it which are considerably over a thousand years old, and the place is full of historic relics, including a bed with velvet hangings embroidered by Mary Queen of Scots while a prisoner at Loch Leven. Scone palace has been in the possession of the Murrays since A. D. 1600, when it was presented by James VI. to Sir David Murray, who likewise was created Viscount Stormount as reward for saving that monarch's life from the attempt to assassinate him by the earl of Gowrie and his brother.

The fifth Viscount Stormount had a number of sons, the younger of whom became so famous as a judge. Known as "Silvertongued Murray," he was after his elevation to the office of lord chief justice of England created, first baron and then earl of Mansfield. After having his house in London burned down by the Gordon rioters, his earldom passed at his death by special remainder to the son of his elder brother, Viscount Stormount, and that is why the Scotch viscounty of Stormount has merged in the earldom of Mansfield.

The latter is one of the curiosities of the peerage. For its official designation is "the earldom of Mansfield, of Mansfield, in the county of Middlesex." Now there is no Mansfield in the county of Middlesex, and there never has been a place of that description in that particular shire. In fact, it was merely invented to distinguish it from the barony of Mansfield in Nottinghamshire, previously conferred upon "Silvertongued Murray." The new earl is about 30 years of age and served through the South African war with the Black Watch, where his eldest brother, Andrew, met his death.

Meeting on the Life Road.

[From the Atlanta Constitution.]

"Where do you hail from, friend?"

"From Poverty lane."

"And where may that be—so please you?"

"It is even where the poor folks give thanks for the mercies they receive."

"And what may those mercies be?"

"They are manifold. There the storms of heaven have blown the doors down that the bailiffs of the world may not know the numbers of the hovels, that they may levy on the rags of the wretched; there, darkness covers them all like a black garment, that the face of famine may not haunt the red dreams of the rich; and there the stars of heaven mock them not with glitterings of gold, for the firmament is shut from them. They only know the sign of the seasons—the biting blasts of winter and the lights of winter, and the lightning lashed heat of summer. But there they rest in deep security, for, where they are, thieves break not in and steal!"

RAILROAD METHODS SCORED IN ADDRESS TO CHURCH CLUB.

John M. Glenn Tells Evanston Audience Official Classification Committee Is Arbitrary and Unjust.

Sharp criticisms of railroad methods were made last night by John M. Glenn, secretary of the Illinois Manufacturers' association, speaking before the Men's club of St. Mark's church, Evanston. He called for honest methods, which, he said, would inspire confidence.

The official classification committee, with jurisdiction east of Chicago and north of the Ohio river, came in for an especial scoring.

"This represents the greatest transportation combination on earth," he said. "Its chairman is E. C. Gill. It does business after the manner of an organization that can do no wrong. If the men who are handling the finances have increased the capitalization or for any other reason feel that there should be more revenue they communicate this fact to this committee and it raises the classification of a sufficient number of articles to produce the desired result.

"The action is announced at the first of the year at the time it becomes operative. The change comes like a thief in the night. The manufacturer or merchant has sold or bought his goods on the existing classification, and the result is that the man who pays the freight will suffer a heavy loss.

"The western classification committee is conducted on a much fairer method. A criticism one might make of the committee is that it is something like a comet. It shifts about a good deal."

Preceding the speeches the following officers were elected:

President—U. S. Powers.
Treasurer—E. S. Barber.
Secretary—F. C. Stiles.

John H. Stiness of Rhode Island also spoke.

WOULD REFORM REFORMERS AND LIMIT THEIR KNOCKING.

Prof. Shailer Mathews Tells Credit Men Republic Can Survive Them, Thanks to Sanity and Assimilative Power.

That the too persistent "knocking" of "reformers" may cause "business unrest" was the contention of Prof. Shailer Mathews of the University of Chicago in an address before the Credit Men's association at the Great Northern hotel last night. The subject was: "Can the Republic Survive Its Reformers?"

Prof. Mathews thought it could, thanks to an "innate sanity and the strong assimilative powers of the Anglo Saxon."

"In fact, I don't suppose we can ever hope for permanent relief from the reformers," said the speaker. "President Roosevelt is an instance in point. His next public message, following that one on the 'muck rake,' was the attack of the reformer upon a certain well known corporation.

"Too much knocking will beget a business unrest as well as a widespread distrust of our democratic institutions. There should be constructive work as well as destructive."

At the close of the speaking the following officers were chosen:

President—William J. McMillan.

Vice presidents—C. P. Coffin and T. L. Dodd.

Directors—B. E. Borges, F. A. Smith, H. T. Smith, T. I. Stacey, L. S. Tiffany, John C. Boss, H. Fornoff, W. H. Kist, F. H. McAdow, O. W. Ware, R. S. White, and S. J. Whitlock.

CORN CARNIVAL THIS FALL AND FESTIVAL EVERY YEAR.

Chicago Commercial Association Preparing for Great Annual Exhibition to Be Held Here.

A great corn festival will be held here this fall, according to plans made by the ways and means committee of the Chicago Commercial association at its meeting held at the Grand Pacific hotel yesterday.

Charles A. Stevens, chairman of the committee having the exposition in charge, explained its scope, as follows:

"There will be more than 750,000 corn growers interested in this exhibition, which will become the nucleus around which will be formed a great harvest home festival, to be held in Chicago annually. Eugene Funk of Bloomington, Ill., probably will be president of the permanent organization if it is perfected.

"The local organization will have to get pledges of $50,000 to carry the plan through. This amount will not be a donation, but a subscription to stock in the permanent organization. The plan contemplates having afternoon and evening exhibitions for two weeks from Sept. 29 to Oct. 13 at Tattersall's and in the vacant property adjoining.

"From the expressions that have reached us we have every reason to expect that nearly a million visitors will be attracted."

The Mingling of Races.

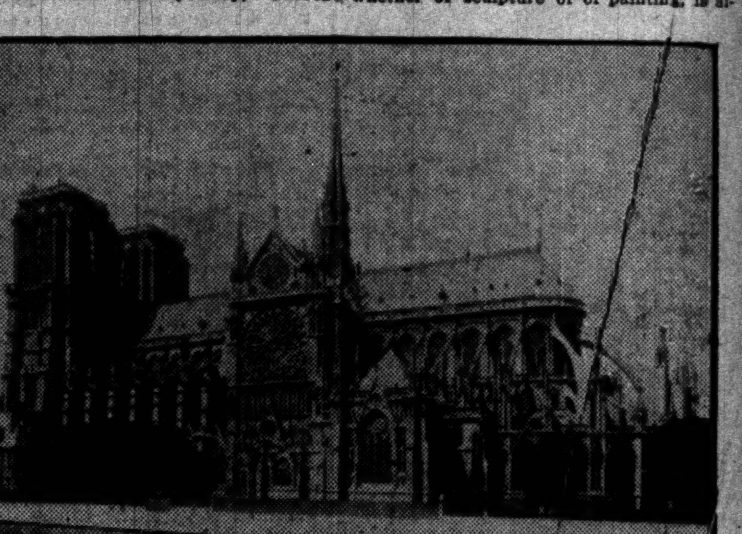
[From the Century Magazine.]

In the course of many years of investigation into the plant life of the world, creating new forms, modifying old ones, adapting others to new conditions, and blending still others, I have constantly been impressed with the similarity between the organization and development of plant and human life. While I have never lost sight of the principle of the survival of the fittest and all that it implies as an explanation of the development and progress of plant life, I have come to find in the crossing of species and in selection, wisely directed, a great and powerful instrument for the transformation of the vegetable kingdom along lines that lead constantly upward. The crossing of species is to me paramount. Upon it, wisely directed and accompanied by a rigid selection of the best and as rigid an exclusion of the poorest, rests the hope of all progress. The mere crossing of species, unaccompanied by selection, wise supervision, intelligent care, and the utmost patience, is not likely to result in marked good, and may result in vast harm. Unorganized effort is often most vicious in its tendencies.

A TRIP TO EUROPE IN AN ARM CHAIR

BY CORA ROCHE HOWLAND.

IF there is in our party any devotee to the phrase book method of learning to toddle linguistically in French who expects to find a "fenêtre" the same as the window which he is accustomed to seeing in American buildings, he has prepared himself to be surprised on reaching France. In all of Paris there is not a single window made after the pattern in common use in the United States. A French window, whether it comes down to the floor or stops half way, opens like a double door, only, as the edge of one division is always rounded and the other grooved to match, both doors must be opened or closed together. They open inwardly and invariably have outside white blinds, made usually with immovable slats. The windows are fastened by two iron rods, one running up and the other down from a knob in the middle, which you turn in order to lock or unlock the window. When you say, "Ouvres le fenêtre," therefore, this is the kind of an arrangement you refer to, for windows like ours you would say properly, "levez" or "baissez" la glace.



CATHEDRAL OF NOTRE DAME, PARIS.

Paris is fascinating in the early hours of the day, and it is good fun to stroll about a little before breakfast and to buy at a market corner or from a street vender some fragrant wild strawberries to eat with your coffee and rolls. The air is so sweet, every one whom you see is so pleasant, that you are put at good humor with yourself for the day.

One gets a chance, moreover, to gain an insight into French methods of civic housekeeping. The streets, many of which have already been swept by the municipal sweepers, are being washed clean by the water which has been turned on to flush the gutters and carry all impurities into the great underground sewers and thence to the Seine and the sea. There are also in some quarters electric sprinkling carts. But human labor is cheap here, so that we see an immense corps of men at work polishing up the city to its required degree of brilliancy.

The ragpickers, hard at work, attract our gaze by their industry and palpable thrift. Reliable and respectable, these humble toilers form an important contingent in the great licensed army of workers of the French capital. It is the more desirable that we should see in operation the old system of street cleaning which they represent, since the authorities have been threatening for some time to end the ancient trade of the "chiffe," and advocating that the work be done by automatic tumbrel instead of by human hands.

What we notice first about these chiffoniers is their manifest high-mindedness. There is nothing in their appearance which would suggest to us the "rags, old iron" men of our Chicago alleys, or the bent old women or ragged children whom one descries occasionally at home picking up scraps of coal along the railroad tracks. Poor as they are, they are independent and self-respecting. Honest they must be by necessity, for the slightest slip from integrity would, if discovered, result in their being deprived by the police of the license which permits them to ply their business over the special territory prescribed them by their guild or association of "the chiffe."

But they are honest also from tradition. For the chiffe is an old institution, and one that recognizes an aristocracy of its own. There are grades and classes among the ragpickers; the vocation is one of those family pursuits which one finds so frequently in France—one that is handed down from one generation to another.

There are no idlers in the streets in the early morning. Every one in sight has his special work to do. Large handcarts piled high with flowers, pass you, pushed by either man or woman, toward the flower market. There are both men and women carrying enormous loads of flowers or vegetables in big, slipper shaped basket strapped on to their backs. Two women mattress carders pass on their way to a long day's work at renovating mattresses either somewhere on the quays or in the courtyard of a customer's house.

The baker boy swings along whistling, balancing on his shoulders long loaves of bread, every one of which is dirty on the bottom, after the usual manner of French bread. He has a basket, too, which is piled high with round yellow rolls, which we know, from experience with their kind, are hard as rocks outside and full of great big holes within. The bootblack waits silently beside a lamppost, ready to catch the early clerk, who, however small his salary, would rather spend a penny for a shine than lose his place because of an unbecoming negligence of toilet. This bootblack, who is licensed, as the small brass badge on his coat proclaims, is like the Viennese commissionaire in usefulness. He runs errands, carries parcels, and delivers letters, and he has his porter's rope with him as well as his curious zinc topped blacking box.

We buy our strawberries, but resist the allurement of the little brown jars of Normandy cream which tempt us from the shop windows. For some reason or other it is always sour, and I have concluded that it must be because Parisians like it better so, for I have never been able to find any of it that was sweet. An hour later, strolling among the shrubs and statues of the Jardin de Tuileries, where we gain a magnificent view of the Place de la Concorde and the avenue and park of the Champs Elysées, we become acquainted with another French custom.

We sit down on some innocent looking chairs that seem to have been placed generously with special reference to the tired tourist, and then, to our amazement, if we are new to Paris, a bearded old woman, with a most peremptory manner, comes up and collects 2 cents apiece from us in payment for our privilege of sitting down. Get all the rest you want right where you are, for if you take a chair farther along—or, for that matter, next to the one that you are on—you will have to pay another 10 centessimi to a second old woman, who is as cross and bearded as the first.

About 9 o'clock we saunter along the quai toward the Louvre, getting an excellent view of the south façade of this largest and most splendid palace in the world, which, so they say, is three times as big as the Vatican and St. Peter's put together. Many kings have tried a hand at its embellishment, but it was a queen who designed beauty for it most competently, the central part, which Catherine de Medicis perfected, shows at its best the construction and imaginative genius of the early French Renaissance.

It takes two hours to walk straight through the rooms of the Louvre without stopping. We shall take three hours to it, leaving thus a little necessary surplus for lingering by the way. This is long enough for a first survey, for every masterpiece in the big gallery, whether of sculpture or of painting, is already familiar to us in outline, and in every detail except the single one of coloring, for excellent photographs, brought over seas, have acquainted us already with the subjects and their treatment. The color is, of course, a joy forever, and gives to our mental images of the paintings a warmth of vitality which makes them glow with a flush of life. And the palatial setting touches up like a fine gilt frame pale tints and somber tones of canvases that have been faded and darkened by the jealous brush of time.

The treasure of the rooms of antique sculptures, which we enter first, is, of course, the famous Venus of Milo, as the great Aphrodite of Melos is popularly called. We descry this statue long before we reach it, for it is in the last one of the row of rooms, and directly opposite to the series of entrances, so from afar we get the impression of beholding it at the end of a long arcaded corridor.

The famous and familiar statue has new interest for us because of the theory which Edmund von Mach, the archæologist, advanced not long ago, that the profile view of it, and not the front view, is the correct one, and that the sculptor intended to place the figure either in a niche with her right profile outward or against a wall with her left side turned toward it. That this was her maker's intention he argues from the fact that the figure is not perfectly finished in the round. The front view of it "exhibits the beauty of Aphrodite's right side and at the same time shows an unpleasantly straight line and impossible hip on her left." Seen from the right side, however, the statue's perfection both of face and form is indisputable. The superiority of this view of it is apparent not only in the contours and the attitude of the body, and in the nobility of the features, but also in the arrangement of the hair, with its dainty lock at the back of the neck.

On the staircase which leads up to the picture gallery on the first floor we find the Niké of Samothrace, of which we have an excellent reproduction in our Art institute. You all know well this mutilated figure, erected in honor of a naval victory which took place in the fourth century B. C., and which represents the goddess on the prow of a vessel in the act of blowing the signal for battle upon her trumpet. Occasionally an effort has been made to identify with this and sister victories the Aphrodite of Melos, which we have been studying, but unsuccessfully. This Niké belongs to early Hellenistic art, and the Aphrodite is a product of the autumn days of Greek sculpture, the centuries which immediately precede the birth of Christ; it is, says Von Mach, speaking of the latter, the work of an age that "knew how to adopt and how to combine into one harmonious whole the pose of Lysippus, the charm of Praxiteles, and a bit of technique from the Parthenon."

Almost every school of painting is represented among the masterpieces in the Louvre. The collection contains more important pictures by Italian masters of the sixteenth century than any gallery north of the Alps, and more Spanish works than any gallery outside of Spain. It is also representative of the Flemish school, has good specimens of the work of the Dutch masters of the seventeenth century, and, though poorer in German productions, possesses some excellent canvases by Holbein. There are rooms innumerable and paintings to the number of 2,400.

We linger longest in the Salon Carré, where Leonardo da Vinci's "Mona Lisa" of the inscrutable mysterious smile piques the curiosity of the observer. Here also is Raphael's "La Belle Jardinière," and Rubens' exquisite although unfinished portrait of his second wife and their two children. Paolo Veronese's "Marriage at Cana," celebrating the marriage of Eleanor of Austria and William Gouzaga, and containing numerous portraits, among them one of himself playing on a viol, covers almost entirely the south wall. The naïveté with which the artist's face looks out at us from the canvas reminds us of a popular travel lecturer of our own day who shows his audience most attractive portraits of himself against a European or Asiatic background.

We cannot leave the gallery without a special reference to Rubens, Velasquez, and Murillo, Titian, Greuze, and Van Dyck, some of whose best work is here displayed. But it is time to go. It is fully an hour since we heard the 11 o'clock bells ringing in the tower of the Mairie across the way, and I am going to relieve the artistic tension of your minds by taking you to a restaurant in the neighborhood, where you will pay a bill more carefully itemized than any you have yet beheld. For instance, if you order only a bowl of soup the price of it will be 4 cents, but there will be an extra charge of 2 cents for a bowl to serve it in, 1 cent for the use of the table, and 2 cents for the waiter to bring it to you. Of course, you couldn't eat it without a bowl and a table and a waiter to bring it. Do you think that they might just as well have said: "Soup, 10 cents"? O, but that isn't their way of reckoning over here.

ENTERTAINMENTS FOR MISS BATTERMAN'S BRIDAL PARTY.

Miss Charlotte Boyd to Give a Luncheon Today and Miss Cora Whelpley One on Saturday—Wedding to Take Place in the Fourth Presbyterian Church on Wednesday—Two Engagements in the F. A. Bischoff Family Announced Simultaneously.

Miss Charlotte Boyd, 198 Forty-fourth street, will give a luncheon today for Miss Myrtle Batterman, who is to be married next Wednesday evening to Mr. Ralph H. Booth of Detroit in the Fourth Presbyterian church. Miss Boyd is to be one of Miss Batterman's bridesmaids. Another maid, Miss Cora Whelpley, will give a luncheon on Saturday for the bride-elect, after which Miss Jennie Maxwell, who is also to attend Miss Batterman, will give a theater party for the guests. Miss Jean Kremer, 482 North State street, who is the fourth in the bridal party, will give a tea Sunday afternoon from 4 to 7 o'clock, to which 100 guests have been bidden.

One of the largest bridal parties of the spring will attend Miss Frances H. Ashley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Ashley, 8636 Lowe avenue, Auburn Park, and Mr. George Young at their wedding on June 2 in the Woodlawn Park Presbyterian church. There will be seven maids and eight ushers, as follows: Miss Charlotte Smith, Miss Cornelia Smith, Miss Lillian Donaher, Miss Rachel Ingals, Miss Rene Hooper, Miss Maria Young, Miss Jeannette Gash Baughman, Mr. Alexander Young, Mr. Charles Young, Mr. Harry Nay, Mr. Nelson Buck, Mr. Roscoe Parker, Mr. Martin Cornelius, Mr. Kendall Ashley, and Mr. Ralph Bradley. There will be a round of entertainments for the young people, beginning Saturday evening, when the ushers will entertain the whole party at dinner at the Annex and later at the theater.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Farwell have left the Virginia hotel and have gone to their ranch in Texas. The report that they are to take up their residence in England is said by members of the family to be unthought of.

It is rare that two engagements are announced simultaneously in one family. Yesterday Mr. and Mrs. Fred A. Bischoff, 1728 Wrightwood avenue, announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Violette Eunice Bischoff, to Mr. Leslie Mitten Dawson of Cleveland, O., while Mr. Philip Jaeger, 34 Roslyn place, announced the engagement of his granddaughter, Miss Ethel Pauline Parker, to Mr. Fred Allen Bischoff Jr. The wedding of Miss Bischoff and Mr. Dawson will take place in October, but no date has been set for the wedding of Miss Parker to Mr. Bischoff.

Mrs. John B. Lyon, who sold her home, 262 Michigan avenue, some time ago, will move next fall to the old Willetts house in Erie street. Her daughter, Mrs. W. P. Conger, and Miss Cornelia Conger will reside with her, and Miss Conger will likely be a débutante of the winter. Mrs. Lyon will spend the summer with her daughter, Mrs. Calvin Cobb, in Boise City, Idaho. Mrs. Conger and Miss Conger are in Europe.

Mrs. Potter Palmer and her son, Mr. Potter Palmer, who landed in New York from Europe yesterday, are expected in Chicago today.

HOPES TO OWN PLAYGROUNDS.

City Authorities Will Ask Subscriptions to Buy Leased Tracts—Mayor and Commissioners Inspect.

The public spirited clubs and citizens of Chicago are to be asked to help the city save the public playgrounds in the congested districts, which are not now owned by the city. The Chicago Commercial association will be asked to take the lead in the movement in the acquirement of the breathing spots.

For the purpose of inspecting the small parks and public beaches Mayor Dunne, the special park commissioners, and John G. Shedd, representing the Commercial association, toured the city yesterday in five automobiles.

Only three of the eleven municipal playgrounds are owned by the city. The remaining eight are leased. The pecial park commissioners hope that the public will aid them in obtaining possession permanently of these pieces of property, and also in acquiring others.

Green Bay park at the intersection of Cass, Rush, and Chestnut streets was the second small park inspected. Mayor Dunne and the commissioners passed their opinion on the work of Mrs. H. H. Kellogg, the caretaker, and expressed themselves as entirely satisfied. Ald. Beilfuss declared Mrs. Kellogg would not be removed.

The little summer house at the edge of the triangle at Bellevue place, State, and Rush streets offended the mayor's eye. He declared it should be removed. Ald. Beilfuss held the same view.

DROPS CHARGE OF ASSAULT.

Woman Who Accused Real Estate Man Asks That Nonsuit Be Entered.

The charges of assault and battery against Stanley K. Gage, a real estate agent, made by Mrs. Agnes Murray, 47 Park avenue, were dropped yesterday morning in Justice Chott's court. Attorney Thomas Johnson, representing Mrs. Murray, asked that a nonsuit be entered in each case. Mrs. Murray testified that Gage had ordered her to remove some furniture from the back porch. She followed him into an unoccupied flat to discuss the matter with him. She declares that he struck her once. Gage denied striking her, but admitted ordering her from the flat and taking her by the arm.

To the Progressive Merchants and Manufacturers of Chicago

Andrew Carnegie owes his business success largely to his ability to pick out the right man for the right place.

When his interests developed, he wisely divided the responsibility and found the right man to carry each share. Any business to become great must follow similar lines.

We have qualified ourselves to assume, as our share, the care of a business man's advertising and to do it better than he can himself.

What we ask is an opportunity to prove our fitness for this trust.

We may be helpful to you. If so, you want us; if not, we do not want your business.

As a matter of satisfaction to yourselves, we would like to explain what we mean by service and what it means to those we serve. Our "service" is responsible for the fact that we do the largest advertising business in the world and, we think, do it best.

A letter addressed to us this week at the Auditorium Annex will receive prompt personal attention and yet create no obligation on your part.

Mechanical skill and knowledge have made them the best in the world.

The "Riverside" movement is particularly recommended—made in all sizes.

All the world loves a good mystery story, and E. Phillips Oppenheim is, to quote Ainslee's Magazine,

"By all odds the most successful among writers of fiction, which for want of a better term may be called 'mystery stories.' His eminence of work is due to a certain distinction of literary style. His craftsmanship is of the finished sort. In none of his previous books is his skill more apparent than in his latest.

'A MAKER OF HISTORY.'"

If you have already read this popular novel ask your bookseller for one of the following new editions of Mr. Oppenheim's successes:

"THE BETRAYAL"

A baffling mystery tale dealing with diplomatic intrigue and French secret service.

"THE YELLOW CRAYON"

Containing the adventures of Mr. Sabin (one of Mr. Oppenheim's most fascinating characters) in his endeavors to free his wife from an entanglement with the powerful Order of the Yellow Crayon.

Said shares of stock shall not be transferred to said Edwy Logan Reeves upon the books of said "Zion Lace Industries," but shall remain in the name of said John Alexander Dowie on said books and said John Alexander Dowie shall have the power to vote the same at all meetings of stockholders of said corporation until default in the payment of said notes or until the sale of said stock as above provided."

SUGAR LEADS STOCK LIST.

FEATURE OF THE TRADING DURING IRREGULAR SESSION.

Degree of Activity Not Witnessed in These Shares for Many Months—Similar Movement in Amalgamated and Other Copper Issues—Discounts Harden in All Foreign Money Markets—Tone of United States Bonds Continues Steady.

[BY A SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.]

NEW YORK, May 16.—[Special.]—Trading in stocks today was irregular throughout the session, but the closing tone was firm. Sugar was the old time favorite which was made especially prominent today with a degree of activity which has not been seen for many months. The parallel movement in American Beet Sugar was made to give a semblance of important developments impending regarding trade relations, but no authentic information was given out on the subject. There was a similar movement in Amalgamated Copper and the copper group. This was professedly based on the annual report of the Anaconda Mining company.

Discounts hardened in all foreign markets. Some of the exchange offering was said to be on account of foreign purchases of the Pennsylvania notes.

The statement of the country's foreign trade for April and for ten months indicated a strong position in the international exchanges.

The influence of the Anaconda annual report was supplemented to some extent by intimations of a forthcoming statement from the Standard Oil company.

Bonds were steady. Total sales, par value, $2,415,000. United States bonds were unchanged on call.

Money on call easy, 3@3½ per cent; ruling rate, 3¼; closing, bid 3, offered at 5.

Time loans steady; sixty days and ninety days, 4½@4¾ per cent; six months, 4¾@5. Close: Prime mercantile paper, 5@5½ per cent. Sterling exchange soft at 485.25@485.30 for demand and at 482@482.05 for sixty day bills. Posted rates, 483 and 486½. Commercial bills, 481⅝@481½. Bar silver, 66⅛c. Mexican dollars, 50⅝c. Government bonds steady. Railroad bonds steady.

ADVANCE IN WHEAT MART

INSUFFICIENT RAINS AND RUST TALK INFLUENCING FACTORS.

Shorts Cover Freely on Reports of Setbacks to Growing Plant—Big Decrease in Minneapolis Stocks Also a Help—Oversold Conditions Apparent—Corn and Oats Are Stronger on Covering—Packers Lend Support to Provisions.

Bulls triumphed in the wheat market yesterday largely on the strength of reports that the predicted rainfalls in the west did not quench the thirst of the growing plant. Topping off the disappointingly light precipitation in sections where the cry of damage was loudest, were many advices indicating increased uneasiness over the progress of the crop because of drought, reports of red rust in Texas and Oklahoma, an enormous decrease in Minneapolis wheat stocks—1,000,000 bu for four days—continued firmness in the northwestern cash markets, and a revival of strength at the southwestern sample tables. These factors overshadowed a raft of matter that was favorable to the growing crop. Nervousness of shorts was displayed in their eagerness to take on all suggestions of weakness, and the bulls seemed more willing to add to their lines. Final prices showed advances of ⅝c for May, ¾c for July, and ½c for September. There were indications throughout that the bears had overstepped themselves in their selling operations in the previous session.

Liverpool closed steady to a shade higher, and the unresponsiveness to the weaker markets here the day before disappointed the bears. The market started a shade higher, with offerings meager. As the session wore on, offerings became lighter, and as the reports of insufficient moisture began to come in the shorts became more nervous and the bulls more confident. The market gradually rose to advances of 1¼@1⅜c for the May and about 1c for the other months. Some profit taking was indulged in by longs on the bulges, but every suggestion of overdone selling was met by a good demand from shorts. Missouri was generous with drought complaints, and reports of dryness in Kansas, Nebraska, Tennessee, and Kentucky came in numerously. Some sections of the west had it that deterioration had been sufficiently marked to warrant plowing up of the wheat. On top of it all the president of the Kansas Grain Dealers' association estimated the Sunflower state yield at 75,000,000 bu, and others of prominence in that commonwealth did not seem to consider that the general crop had had material setbacks in the more productive regions.

Minneapolis Decreases 1,000,000 Bu.

The decrease of 1,000,000 bu in the Minneapolis stocks of wheat and the continued light receipts there and at Duluth—108 cars for the two towns, against 95 the corresponding day last year—along with the strength in the cash situation there, gave the bulls much to talk about. Further sales of wheat to eastern millers were reported by Duluth. Total primary arrivals were 465,000 bu, 339,000 bu in excess of those of a year ago. The receipts here were 272,000 bu, which included the recently reported cargo of 250,000 bu shipped from Duluth and not being unloaded. The grain from the Superior port is chiefly No. 1 northern and is going into private elevators to be used in blending for delivery here, it is said. The seaboard clearances were 305,000 bu. The flour output at Minneapolis increased 31,000 brls last week, and, while the demand was reported improved, it was not sufficient to eat up all the yield. Reports of drought in Russia combined with advices of injurious hail storms in Germany form bullish matter from abroad.

Light Receipts Help Corn Mart.

Increased activity prevailed in the corn market, which, influenced largely by light receipts, a small estimate for today, and dwindling local stocks, displayed strength throughout, closing ⅝c higher for May and ⅝c higher for July and September. Farmers were reported freer sellers of the grain in parts of the belt, but local bulls, agreeing with the bears the movement probably would be larger within the next week, believe all the increased offerings for some time will be applied to the filling of holes already made. The arrivals here were only 44 cars, the estimate for today being 66 cars. Shorts gave the principal short, selling being scattered and at no time urgent. Cash prices were ¼@½c higher, despite the fact that the industries, recently good buyers, did comparatively little in the market. Primary receipts were 302,000 bu, 137,000 bu larger than those of a year ago. Clearances at the seaboard were 430,000 bu. Deferred futures touched new high ground on buying by several big houses, the selling of them being by scattered traders who are pinning their faith on larger receipts. Reports generally were favorable to planting operations and to the grain sown.

Lively Trade in Oats.

Trading in the oats market was the liveliest in many weeks. Shorts were active in covering, and there was much outside buying on the report of dry weather and backwardness on the part of the crop in Illinois, Indiana, and other important sections. The bulls availed themselves to the limit of the unfavorable advices, offering only on good advances. New high prices were scored early. Closing quotations showed gains of 1-16c for May, ⅝@½c for July, and ⅝c for September. The leading long threw out May all day, his offerings being taken by good people. Light local stocks and the strength in futures worked for an active and a higher cash market. Sales at the tables were made at advances of ¼@½c, and aggregated 575,000 bu. Local receipts were 83 cars, seaboard clearances totaling 205,000 bu. Commission houses reported a much improved demand from outsiders for the September.

Provisions Are Firmer.

There was a moderately active trade in provisions, which closed with advances of 2½@5c for pork and lard and 7½@12½c for ribs. Light speculative offerings and a good cash situation combined with the demand from packers to provide material for the sound undertone. Shorts, apparently aroused by steady buying for packing interests, covered freely, particularly in lard and ribs. Early a large line of July pork was put out, but it was taken at only slightly lower prices. Shipments of meats and lard hence were largely in excess of those of a year ago—2,365,000 lbs and 1,601,000 lbs respectively. Local receipts of hogs were 24,000, or 5,000 under the estimate, and prices at the yards were weaker. Principal western points had 73,300 hogs, against 64,000 last week, and 60,000 a year ago.

Rye Quiet and Featureless.

Rye ruled quiet. The trading was without feature. No. 2 was 60@62c; No. 3 sold at 56c; No. 4, 52c.

Offerings of barley were small. Only 3 cars were inspected in. The demand was sufficient to clean up about all the offerings. Feed was quoted 40@41½c; malting, 42@54c; screenings, 38@41½c.

Flaxseed was ½c higher in sympathy with strength in outside markets. No. 1 was quoted at $1.09; No. 1 northern, $1.14½; May, $1.13. A big lot of No. 1 northwestern sold $1.10¼. Receipts were 1 car here, 6 cars at Minneapolis, and 5 cars at Duluth.

Timothy seed was firm. May was nominal at $3.35; country lots, $2.00@3.15.

INTERESTING TRADE GOSSIP ON 'CHANGE.

Cash wheat was quiet and firmer, in sympathy with futures. There was a sale of No. 1 northern in the pit at ⅝c over May in store, but the inquiry from millers was almost nil, only a few scattered carlots being sold. Outside markets were strong; Minneapolis, 1½@2c over July for No. 1 northern; Kansas, 1c higher; and St. Louis up, in sympathy with the strong market for options there. No. 2 hard wheat at Kansas City was 79½@83c; No. 2 red, 90@93c. No business was reported from New York. Locally there was a good, active trade in sample oats, with liberal sales. The advance in the May price caused a corresponding rise in the value of cash oats. It was understood that the bulk of the sales were made on the basis of 35¼c c. i. f. Buffalo, which was regarded as low compared to the May price, considering the cost of freight and loading. On the basis of 34c for May, with loading charges and freight added, would be equivalent to about 36c c. i. f. Buffalo. Corn was dull, with light offerings and a small demand. Prices were ¼@½c higher. Sales here were 5,000 bu wheat, 15,000 bu No. 2 corn at ¾c over May in store, 575,000 bu oats at the seaboard, and 40,000 bu corn.

Offerings of wheat were insufficient to fill the demand around the opening and the market advanced easily on buying by shorts, Ware-Leland, Love, Comstock, and Kneeland. Lowitz bought 300,000 bu July early, which was understood to be covering of a short line put out the previous day. On the advance, buying by belated shorts was the feature of the trade. O'Brien and Bartlett sold early. Around 81½c there were quite liberal offerings of July, mostly in the way of realizing sales. Wrenn sold September during the day and bought about 300,000 bu May quietly from scattered commission houses, Slaughter selling him 50,000 bu at 84c. The southwest bought July and the northwest sold September. Early buying of corn by Kidston, Marfield, and Comstock took about all the floating supply out of the pit and started the shorts to covering quite generally. Trade was active, but the commission house business was not large.

Ross T. Smyth & Co., Liverpool, cabled: "As regards Plate corn, we look for still lower prices and for an excellent demand when prices get down. Our agent in Buenos Ayres is still strongly of the opinion that Argentina has 3,000,000 tons of corn available for export. This, with the Danube surplus, will render us independent of America and still keep us supplied at reasonable prices."

Some of the wiseacres among the wheat traders are beginning to suspect the fine hand of Valentine in the sustained strength of the market, regardless of the crop news. It was asserted yesterday that the Armour interests have been working in conjunction with the leading wheat bull in engineering the present advance. The claim was made on apparently good authority that the big cash grain house was not only the largest holder of cash wheat here but also held the biggest line of futures. The plan of the Armour people was said to be based on the idea of compelling delivery of No. 1 northern wheat on future contracts, which would enable them to fill their elevators without being obliged to pay freight charges. By mixing the No. 1 northern with lower grade wheat not only would the mixing houses be kept busy but a substantial profit would accrue.

"English George" Smith, New York, wired W. C. Budd: "Wheat supplies are melting down every day in the presence of hardly any foreign demand. This old crop situation is chiefly a domestic one, and at the rate supplies are running down we may have to get lanterns to find any before new wheat is available. Our stocks are small for our population. We have less in the visible supply of American wheat than four weeks' consumption, and primary receipts are light; 99 per cent of the advance in July and September, especially the latter, is due to the strength in the old crop position. Other causes may be claimed, but in my opinion the truth is about as I state it. I cannot see any other justification."

The Northwestern Miller reported the Minneapolis flour output last week increased 31,115 brls. Quantity turned out was 297,910 brls, against 161,840 a year ago and 217,775 in 1904. There are eighteen mills in operation this week and the output should approximate 315,000 brls. In the corresponding week last year the output was 178,250 brls.

Broomhall cables that, according to an official Indian report for the week ended May 5, the situation of the crop is practically unchanged. The official crop report for the united provinces made the wheat crop 75,872,000 bu, against 59,104,000 bu last year and 98,320,000 bu two years ago.

Trade in ups and downs was fairly active, with Pringle-Fitch-Rankin the best buyer of the ups. Ups in July wheat sold from 81⅜c to 82c bid, closing at 82c asked. Downs ranged 80⅝@80⅛c, closing 80⅝-⅛c bid. Downs on July corn closed 47c bid, ups 47¼c bid.

A local cash man estimated that approximately 2,000,000 bu of oats had been sold in the northwest within the last week. These sales have been made at considerably lower prices than local sales.

TRACTION FIRM AND DULL

PRICE OF SHARES HOLDS WELL; FEW SALES MADE.

Unification of Systems Expected to Be Ultimate Outcome, but It Is Some Distance in Future—Anaconda Annual Report—Local Rates for Money Declining—Diamond Match Drops to 125¼ at the Close—South Side "L" Gains 5 Points.

Traction shares and securities continue slow. For some time, however, all have been firm. There is a good deal of interest manifested in the position of North and West Chicago Street railroad stocks, and necessarily if they are to do better the bonds will occupy a more favorable position.

But there is no immediate unification of all the surface systems in sight. The City railway is in a position to absorb the other companies, but the latter are not in a position to be absorbed. The Union Traction interests and those of the underlying companies are engaged in court proceedings in an effort on the part of the latter to disengage themselves from the former. There is no head nor clear title to the properties. Again, there is the United States court receivership which must be disposed of. In the meantime, there can be nothing but talk of an indefinite and unsubstantial character so far as a possible consolidation of all systems is concerned. There is little doubt that a consolidation will be the final outcome.

The Union Traction and North and West Chicago companies are in a bad way, and as now operated are suffering from court costs, lawyers fees, receivers' salaries, and wasteful management. These combined forces of waste are estimated to cost the properties $1,500,000 a year. When this waste is cleaned up and a new régime in charge, the securities of the underlying companies should be worth something.

Anaconda's Good Year.

Net profits of the Anaconda Mining company for the year ended Dec. 31, 1905, were equal to 19.06 per cent on the capital stock. According to the annual report of President J. D. Ryan, the average price of electrolytic copper in New York last year was 15.82c a lb. In the first four months of 1906 the average price was 18.32c.

The life of the mines, according to Mr. Ryan, and grade of ore are assured for many years to come. The figures for the year follow:

Local Money Rates Falling.

Money at the trust companies is growing decidedly easier and the commercial banks as a whole may be expected to meet the competition. One loan of $100,000 was made for nine months at 5 per cent. Other quotations are 5¼ per cent for collateral loans. Chicago has been slow to sympathize with the lower rates in New York, but current quotations cannot be expected to hold much longer. Commission houses have much time money and not a great deal of use for it in their business.

Dividend Declared.

Foreign Exchange.

The foreign exchange market was steady and dull. Actual closing rates for bankers' 60 day sterling bills were 4.82¼@4.82⅜; demand, 4.85¼@4.8535; cable transfers, 4.85⅝@4.8585; commercial long, documents payment, 4.81½@4.82; short marks, 94 11-16 less 1-32@94 11-16; sight francs, 5.18⅛@5.18⅜ plus 1-32; guilders, 39 15-16 plus 1-32@40.

Following were the posted rates of the principal drawers of foreign exchange:

Commission House View.

E. P. Russell of Russell, Brewster & Co. wired yesterday from New York:

"The large speculative holdings of stock have been thoroughly liquidated. The stocks have lodged in strong hands. As long as the growing crops promise so well and railway earnings continue on the present basis, there is little reason to expect such stocks to come back upon the market. I think we may look for improved conditions to continue for some time."

Subway to Advance.

Word comes from New York that higher prices may be looked for in Chicago Subway. The source of the information is understood to be good, and the action of the stock on the local exchange yesterday seemed to bear out the prediction, for the price touched 58. The buying was out of the ordinary.

Diamond Match Weak.

Diamond Match continued weak and dropped to 125¼, closing at that figure. Two new members on the board of directors have not helped the price. This is no fault of the new members. The Diamond Match company is thoroughly Barberized and it will require more than has been done to reëstablish confidence in the stock of the company. As the board now stands five members were elected by shareholders through proxies voted by Mr. Barber. They were his choice. The two new members were also designated by him. The board has been improved not only by the two additions but by the fact that only three of the seven directors are now employés of the company as against five before the last two appointments were made.

South Side Elevated advanced 5 points. The probable ending of the strike influenced the market.

An advertisement offering to purchase a "limited" amount at par attracted some attention.

IN THE BOSTON MONEY MARKET.

BOSTON, Mass., May 16.—[Special.]—Copper stocks were all strong today. Some of the notable gains follow: Amalgamated 1⅛, Michigan 1⅝, Mohawk 1, Osceola 4¼, Wolverine 2. United Fruit was taken in hand and put up to 112, a gain of 3. Railroads and home industrials were inclined to sell off on any offering of stock. Opinions were greatly mixed. Strong interests say the market is being held down and others say it would collapse if strong support was withdrawn. Call loans 5 per cent; time loans, collateral, 4 3-5@5½ per cent; time loans, mercantile paper, 5½ per cent; clearing house loans, 5 per cent.

IN FOREIGN MONEY MARKET.

LONDON, May 16.—Money was in increased demand today and supplies were not plentiful. Discounts were firmer, owing to an intimation that the Bank of England will take steps to control the market, if rates fall away further, till the gold reserve is built up.

Trading on the stock exchange was light. First class securities sagged, owing to dear money and continued rumors of an issue of Irish land stock, which checked operations. Home rails yielded a fraction on profit taking.

Americans, after opening weak, hardened to over parity on professional support in the afternoon, but business was small. The Wall street advices just maintained quotations. At the close trading was quiet and prices were steady. Among foreigners, Spanish and Turkish securities were well supported by Paris. Japanese imperial 6s of 1904 were quoted at 101½. Kaffirs were dull and sagged.

BERLIN, May 16.—Prices on the bourse today were weak. Russians were lower.

PARIS, May 16.—The tone on the bourse today was heavy, Russians going off over the publication yesterday of the draft of the reply of the Russian lower house of parliament to the speech from the throne. They afterwards recovered, however, and closed with an upward tendency. Russian imperial 4s were quoted at 82.50 and Russian bonds of 1904 at 508. The private rate of discount was 2 7-16 per cent.

IN THE REAL ESTATE WORLD

With the enlarged business incident to the great new plant of the United States Steel company at Gary, Ind., the big corporation will largely increase its office facilities at Chicago. The executive offices of the new plant will be located here, and for this use and for the use of the other subsidiary companies of the corporation four floors of the new Commercial National Bank building have been leased. Later on it is expected more space will be rented.

Collins & Morris have sold to Lilla Johnson the flat properties in Indiana avenue 147 and 247 feet north of Forty-fifth street respectively, west front, for $60,000, subject to an incumbrance of $30,000.

The Commonwealth Electric company has bought from the estate of Benjamin S. Rotch an undivided two-fifths interest in 198x454 feet in Heldmaier avenue, 594 feet west of Quarry street, through to the Chicago river, for $27,500; also a two-fifths interest in 50x115 feet in Heldmaier avenue, 50 feet east of Mary street, and other property, for which a nominal consideration is given.

The Pittsburg, Fort Wayne and Chicago railroad company has bought from the Gottfried Brewing company 100x131 feet at the southeast corner of Antnony avenue and Ninety-third street for $12,000.

Charles H. Wacker has sold Walter S. Bogle 48x156 feet in North Park avenue, 210 feet south of Webster avenue, east front, for $12,625.

Very tempting sale of smart millinery at $5 instead of $8 & $10

A VERY tempting sale—that aptly describes this splendid inducement. It's one of those rare opportunities which strikingly combine a charming simplicity and rich elegance with true economy. It's the outcome of rather an unexpected trade transaction.

A New York importer, who deals very extensively in French materials, having overestimated his stock requirements, offered us his surplus at a meager price, which we accepted. The materials were turned over to our corps of skilled designers, who have evolved what prove to be some of the catchiest shapes of the season. Only $5.

They are jaunty little hats, suitable for street or dress wear, and come in Milan, chip and fancy hair braids, as well as some popular straws. They are gracefully trimmed with ribbons, quills, feathers, silk, and beautiful flowers. Many faithfully imitate late Parisian creations. The price of these hats will be a surprise.
